TURKS ARE NOT BLUFFING; PLAY FOR BIG STAKES

Prepared to War With England, Says Minister; Will Fight to End; Do Not Desire Conflict

BY JOHN CLAYTON
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SMYRNA, Sept. 24.—The Kemalists are not bluffing when they declare they intend to carry through the redemption of Constantinople and Eastern Thrace.

I talked today with Fethi Bey, Kemalist Minister of the Interior, and could not doubt the sincerity of his purpose. He said he realized the difficulty of the path if England is determined to maintain its position by force of arms, but he also realizes that Turkey has gone too far to turn back. The rejuvenation of Turkey, for years deemed impossible, is near realization today. For that stake they are playing and the successes of the last meteoric month will be nil if they are unsuccessful.

Even greater importance is attached to the words Fethi Bey uttered after an all-night conference with Raouf Bey and Kemal Pasha, discussing England's intentions and the possibilities of success or failure, than those spoken a week ago by Turkish leaders. They have weighed the intentions of Great Britain to defend Constantinople and the Dardanelles, and have not wavered. They consider it a happy omen that Kemalist troops have entered the neutral zone, south of the

AMERICANS GIVEN RICH OIL FIELDS

Soviet Russia Grants Balakhan Leases; Ways in Business Changing

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MOSCOW, Sept. 22 (Delayed in Transmission.)—One of the world's richest oil fields passes into the hands of America for exploitation, according to an agreement approved by the Council of Defense, of which Premier Lenin is chairman. This action, closely following the Urquhart gold mine concession, again emphasizes that Russia is getting down to old-fashioned business methods.

Moreover, the American deal, it is believed, will bring big political results, a soviet organ declaring it is the "first swallow of Russo-American peace." The agreement is with the Barnsdall Corporation, Henry D. Day, as president of the Concessionary Contractors in the Balakhan oil fields, for fifteen years, with the privilege of renewal.

Five hundred and twenty-five acres are assigned with the privilege of exploiting thousands more. Four test wells are yielding 3000 barrels daily.

Mr. Day with Philip Chadbourn, the eastern representative of the Barnsdall firm, have a double contract for drilling and operating in proven sections of the Baku fields. They employ Russian labor and American skilled labor. No soviets nor workers' council have any say in the operation.

"We obtain complete exemption from taxation and export and import tolls," said Mr. Day, "and, therefore, our profit is approximately 50 per cent on the raw product. The zone of our lands comprises the state's richest fields."

MALTA, Sept. 24.—The feverish naval and military activity of the week past continues here unabated. Reinforcements still are being rushed to Constantinople, both military and naval authorities working day and night embarking troops, stores, field equipment and guns for the East. Transports carrying detachments to India have been diverted, the detachments landed and trained battalions embarked at short notice. Two battalions of infantry and two heavy artillery batteries have gone from Malta.

Yesterday the Rigorous and the Momola arrived and proceeded to Constantinople. The seaplane carriers Argus and Bacchus, mine destroyers and the second destroyer flotilla, arrived today and are now in the harbor coaling and taking on stores. They will leave tonight. Seaplanes have been aloft all afternoon, testing and exercising, and will be embarked on the Argus.

Tomorrow the Revenge, the flagship of the first battle squadron, and transport Hecuba will arrive, en route to Constantinople, and also the cruisers Ceres of the Mediterranean fleet, the Caledon, Carysfoot and the third destroyer flotilla of the Atlantic fleet, which is composed of nine destroyers, headed for the same destination.

THRIFT OF SECRETARY WINS GOLD

Steel Magnate Marries Penurious Helper; Now Relatives Fight Will

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—An endurance test in miserliness with her aged employed—a struggle fourteen years long with nearly $2,000,000 as a prize—ended in triumph for Mrs. Helen M. Weck Bliss.

Won by her ardent economy, a possession dearer to his heart than her beauty, Col. Samuel Eugene Bliss, steel magnate, who died last year, married his "penurious" secretary and made her his heir.

This was declared in a suit started to break the will. The petitioners, Edmond Albert Bliss, a brother, and Ernest W. Bliss, nephew of the dead magnate, declare that the magnate died firm in the belief that he could from heaven, through his highly efficient secretary-wife continue to direct his business and add to his fortune.

When Bliss spent a nickel, his secretary spent a penny—to impress the steel baron with her economy, according to the petition, which paints her as a "social vampire" and "parasite."

For fourteen years, it is alleged, Mrs. Weck proved to the old steel king that she was even more miserly than he was, and that gradually she wooed him away from his first wife, a frail, weary invalid. It is charged by the contesting relatives that Bliss was insane when he married Mrs. Weck, and they seek to recover $1,636,509 left by the Bliss will.

They charge that the neglected wife furnished the start of the fortune which Bliss and his secretary built up. He had but half a million when Mrs. Weck became his secretary fourteen years ago. She made herself his bodyguard and philosopher, and even established a kitchenette in his office to prepare his meals so they could work cheaply and overtime.

After the death of the invalid first wife, Bliss married his secretary in December, 1919. He then branched out into the banking business. His half million had run up into two millions and he died two years after marrying his secretary, making her his sole heir.

Europe Believes Crisis Over

Turkish Leader Notifies French Emissary That He is Expected

Diplomats Face Problem of Demand That Russia Participate

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The agreement of the Allies on the political situation and Near Eastern problem leaves the general situation much clearer and transfers the interest to the Dardanelles, where today's news proves the combustible nature of the problem to be solved there.

The first actual "incident" between the British and Turks has already occurred in the shape of Turkish violation of the Chanak neutral zone but has ended happily after a conference between the British and Turkish commanders. This incident, while seemingly displaying the prudence of the Kemalists in not precipitating a conflict, will undoubtedly be seized upon by those critics of the government at home who call for British evacuation of the Chanak zone, as if French and Italians have already evacuated, arguing that the presence of a British garrison there is likely to provoke just such occurrences, endangering the preservation of peace.

These critics are apprehensive that some similar incidents will happen when the Turks may be disinclined to withdraw as they did today.

JOINT NOTE FORWARDED

The joint note of the Allies has gone forward to Mustapha Kemal Pasha and Smyrna, but a reply is hardly expected until the French representative, M. Franklin-Bouillon, has had time to confer with the Nationalist leader.

According to a Paris dispatch received in London, Kemal Pasha, notified of the coming of M. Franklin-Bouillon, replied: "I shall expect you, but you must hasten." This message is also rendered in another form as follows: "I await your arrival. Your friend, Kemal Pasha." This has given rise to comment on the different significance of the two messages.

TWO PROBLEMS

Two of the greatest difficulties presenting themselves at the present moment appear to be, first, that the Kemalists, while disposed to accept the Allied invitation to a conference, are likely to insist that Russia also shall be invited to sit in this conference, and second, that they are not disposed to suspend hostilities during the conference, but, on the contrary, maintain their right to pursue the defeated Greeks into Thrace and protect the Moslems there from possible Greek reprisals.

With regard to the former condition, it is pointed out that the Kemalists are bound by treaty with the Soviet to insist upon the presence of Russia in the conference. It is therefore evident that this question and the question of getting the Greeks out of Thrace still present difficult problems for Allied diplomacy.

AERIAL WAR SCHEDULED

Seaplanes Will Attack Ships

Flyers Will Strike Blows at Dreadnaughts Far Out at Sea

Mimic Battle Trials Are Expected to Solve Many Problems

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Fifty miles east of Cape Henry is the "battleground" in which the attack by a score of torpedo planes on three or four battleships of the Atlantic Fleet will be staged just after daybreak Wednesday morning.

While these experiments lack spectacular features of the bombing tests of a year ago, in which ex-German warships served as targets, naval officers look upon them with keen interest, marking as they do development of the very latest weapon of sea warfare. The importance attached to these tests is evidenced by the fact that a number of high-ranking officers, including Admiral R. E. Coontz, chief of operations; Rear-Admiral William Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, and Capt. Chauncey Shackford, director of gunnery exercises, will leave Washington tomorrow night to witness them.

LARGE AIR FORCE

The attacking force will consist of twenty planes, eighteen of which will each carry a standard eighteen-inch Whitehead torpedo, minus only the war head, the deadly "tip," which would change the comparatively harmless projectile into a weapon of destruction. Two of the division commanders, Lieut.-Commander H. L. Bartlett, who is in charge of the operations, and his assistant, Lieut. E. L. Ericsson, will carry no torpedoes; each of their planes having a pilot, leaving them free to direct the entire maneuvers. All of the other planes will have a torpedo slung underneath and each will be manned only by a pilot.

No attempt will be made to stimulate war conditions other than that the fleet commander will have no knowledge from which direction the attack will be launched nor the tactics to be employed. On the other hand the attacking airmen will know only the general location of the fleet and will not know until the battleships are sighted in what direction they are steaming which increases the difficulty of prearranging a plan of attack. Scout planes will flank the attacking squadrons to render assistance to any combatants who are forced to the water and destroyers will flank the battleship to pick up the torpedoes. As was the case of previous bombing tests from the air a wide difference of opinion exists in and out of the service over the possibilities of the torpedo plane. Some aviation enthusiasts look upon the approaching tests as the most important event in the history of naval aviation.

DIFFICULT OUTLOOK

As a matter of fairness, both sides point out that the torpedo plane is barely out of the experimental stage and is in process of development. The eighteen planes that will take part in the experiments this week are almost makeshifts. With a torpedo weighing a little over a ton, a pilot and a supply of gasoline sufficient for

HOW KAISER DEFIED THE WISHES OF VICTORIA

Bismarck Enraged at "Dictation" by English Queen; "Children Feared Her, Honored ME!"

[Because of their historical interest and because they throw new light upon the secret diplomacy preceding the World War, The Times is publishing the memoirs of the former Emperor of Germany. These memoirs are being given simultaneous publication in about fifty of the leading newspapers of America and Europe. Realizing that, through a variety of specious excuses, the ex-Kaiser will attempt in his book to make others than himself appear responsible for the World War, The Times has arranged to accompany each installment of the memoirs with an analysis thereof by a competent expert. Where the Kaiser departs from the facts, or suppresses or colors them to make out a better case for himself, such an effort will be promptly exposed. In point of fact, the Kaiser convicts himself out of his own mouth of having directly brought about the great conflict. Following the memoirs, The Times will publish the answer thereto on behalf of the Allies by Viviani, the great war premier of France.—Ed.]

Installment II

HE BECOMES EMPEROR

After Emperor Frederick III had closed his eyes forever, the heavy burden of governing the empire fell upon my youthful shoulders. First of all I was confronted with the necessity of making changes in the government personnel in various quarters. The military entourage of the two emperors, as well as the baby of offs...aldom, had grown too old. The so-called "maison militaire" (military household of Emperor William the Great) had been retained in its entirety by Emperor Frederick III, without being required to discharge military duties. In addition, there was the entourage of Emperor Frederick III. I proceeded to dismiss, in the friendliest way, all those gentlemen who wished to go into retirement; some of them received positions in the army, a few of the younger remained in my service for the transition period.

During the ninety-nine days, while I was still Crown Prince, I had silently concerned myself with those personages to whom I proposed later to give appointments, since the physicians had left me no doubt that my father had only a short time to live. I ignored court or external considerations; nothing but previous achievements and character moved me to my choice. I did away with the term "maison militaire" and transformed it into "Main Headquarters of His Majesty." In choosing my entourage I took the advice of only one man in whom I reposed special confidence, my former chief and brigade commander, Gen.—afterward Adjt.-Gen.—Von Versen, a man of a straightforward, knightly, rather harsh character, an officer of the old Prussian school, a typical chip of the old block. During his military service in line and guard regiments he had noted with an observing eye the court influences and tendencies which had often worked to the disadvantage of the officer corps in the old "maison militaire." In this direction the circle of ladies of high position, jokingly known among the officers as "trente et quarante" on account of their age, also played a certain part. I wished to eliminate such influences.

I appointed Gen. Von Wittich my first adjutant-general and Gen. Von Hahnke, commander of the Second Infantry Guard Division, chief of my military Cabinet. The latter was a friend of Emperor Frederick III, and, while I was still serving with the First Infantry Guard Regiment, he was my bridage commander. These two were men of military experience and iron principles, who shared absolutely the sentiments of their master, and remained bound to me to the end of their lives by the most exemplary fidelity.

As the head of my court I appointed a man known to me from his youth, the former court marshal of my father, Count August Eulenburg, who remained at the head of the ministry of the royal house until his death, in June, 1921, at the age of 82 years. He was a man of fine tact, uncommon ability, clear insight in court as well as political matters, sincere character and golden fidelity to his King and his King's family. His manifold abilities would have enabled him, to the same degree that they had made him known as court marshal throughout Europe, to act with equal success as Ambassador or as Imperial Chancellor. Working with unswerving zeal, endowed with winning politeness, he stood by me with helpful counsel in many matters—dynastic, family, court, public life. He had to do with many men, in all social strata and all walks of life, by all of whom he was revered and esteemed, and he was treated by me likewise with friendship and gratitude.

Victoria's Hand Felt

After consultation with Prince Bismarck, Herr von Lucanus from the Ministry of Public Worship and Instruction, was appointed Chief of the Civil Cabinet. Prince Bismarck observed jokingly that he was pleased with this choice, since Herr von Lucanus was known to him as an able and enthusiastic huntsman, which was always a good recommendation for a civilian official; he added that a good huntsman was a regular good fellow. Herr von Lucanus took over his post from his Excellency Von Wilmowski. He discharged his duties admirably and, being well endowed in all pertaining to art, technical matters, science and politics, he was to me a Counselor, untiring collaborator and friend. He combined with a healthy knowledge of men a strong dash of refined humor, which is so often lacking in men of the Germanic race.

With Prince Bismarck I had stood on very good and trustful terms ever since my assignment at

MEMOIRS ANALYZED

Ex-Kaiser's Professions of Love for Victoria Are Denied by Bismarck

BY S. FRED HOGUE

[Mr. Hogue, who has recently returned from making an extended study of political conditions in Europe, is exceptionally qualified for the task of analyzing the memoirs of the former Emperor of Germany, in which the latter seeks to shift to other shoulders the burden of guilt for the World War. Mr. Hogue is thoroughly familiar with the history of modern international relations and has made a special study of the official records covering the period of which the ex-Kaiser writes. His analysis will accompany each installment of the Memoirs. —Ed.]

Commenting upon the personal relations maintained between him and Queen Victoria during the last years of her reign, the ex-Kaiser gives one a glimpse of a Victoria who was not visible to the world during her lifetime. It becomes evident that she exercised more of a closer supervision over the foreign relations of her government than the world then knew.

As further installments of the Kaiser's Memoirs appear, we shall know more about this wonderful but discreetly unassuming woman.

No one familiar with the secret diplomacy of the nineteenth century will doubt that the Queen submitted her letter to the Kaiser for the inspection and approval of her ministers before sending it, just as the Kaiser submitted his reply to Bismarck.

It is possible the Queen's counsellors suggested that it should be written. For that was during the period when there was an intense rivalry between Great Britain and Russia, and it was of prime impor-

RICHARDSON GETS HELP

McCabe and State Machine Take Back Seat as Work Starts

Candidate Declines to Let Chairman Boynton Run the Campaign

BY KYLE D. PALMER
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—The campaign to make Friend W. Richardson the Republican Governor of California for the next four years will be started tomorrow by the editors of 325 daily and weekly newspapers scattered throughout the State.

A majority of the State's newspaper men have already indicated their whole-hearted approval of the refusal of Mr. Richardson to bow his head to the boss rule of Al McCabe. They are reaffirming their allegiance to him in a flood of telegraphic messages of congratulations and by mail and telephone.

SURPRISE RESULT

Despite the efforts of McCabe and his machine workers to give a flagrant betrayal of their agreement with Richardson the aspects of a "progressive" victory, the election of former State Senator A. E. Boynton as the machine's chairman of the State Central Committee has not brought the results the machine leaders expected.

They were confident that Mr. Richardson at the last moment would gracefully accept the State machine leader as the manager of his campaign and that this initial surrender would inevitably lead to a continuance of the control of McCabe has exercised over the Governor's office for the last six years.

WATCHFUL PROGRESS

Their disappointment is great and they speak in horrified tones of "party inharmony" and of the consequences, but there is no party inharmony among the Republican party this year—merely a fight on the would-be party boss. The Richardson campaign will be conducted for Richardson and not against any other Republican candidate. Richardson's attitude toward the boss-ridden State Central Committee is neither resentful nor hostile, and might best be described as "watchful."

Boynton and other machine representatives, even McCabe himself, have been insistent in their assurance that they will do all they can to assist the Richardson campaign. No obstacle will be placed in their way.

But the actual campaign will be in the hands of the country newspaper editors who broke the might of the machine in the August primary.

GERMAN HYPHEN BOBS UP

Spirit of Outlawed Alliance Finds Residence in Newly Formed League of Teutonic Citizens

BY FREDERICK WILLIAM WILE
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Unknown to the country at large amid its preoccupation with strikes and politics, the hand of the hyphenate once again has raised itself in the land. There is about to be launched in many States a vigorous drive on behalf of the "German-American Citizens' League of the United States."

The purpose of the new organization, which has risen phoenix-like from the ashes of the National German-American Alliance, dissolved by Congress during the war, is avowed and unblushing. It intends to "exercise a deep and far-reaching influence in American politics." It is proclaimed that "the tramp of the marching feet of the Citizens' League will strike terror to the hearts of the minions of nativism and the ranks of the know-nothings." The league aims to "instill into American public life that characteristically German integrity and sense of justice for which there is a place and a need."

NEW GERMAN DAY

The week-end of October 7-9 is expected to give special impetus to the league's campaign for a nation-wide membership. October 7 prior to the war and since the armistice was "German day" throughout the United States. It commemorates the anniversary of the first German settlement on American soil at Germantown by Pastorius and his compatriots. This year "German day" will be celebrated on October 8, which is a Sunday. That circumstance, with its German "personal liberty" traditions, gives point to one of the cardinal planks in the Citizens' League platform—war to the knife on the Eighteenth Amendment. The Federal liquor laws are assailed by the league as a "death blow to innocently congenial enjoyments which are an ancient German heritage."

OMIT HYPHEN

GRAND ARMY IN SESSION

Faded Blue Uniforms, Faded Old Eyes, But Souls of '61 Untouched by Years

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DES MOINES, Sept. 24.—All that is left of that Army in Blue which sixty years ago stretched itself halfway across a continent and fought to a finish the question of a nation becoming a house divided against itself is represented here tonight in the presence of 15,000 veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, who open their fifty-sixth national encampment tomorrow morning.

Knots of venerable men in faded blue uniforms and with faded old eyes looking out from under weather-beaten caps of black, or felt campaign hats, are grouped on every downtown street corner. The hotel lobbies are piping with voices so thin that their aggregate suggests the wind whistling through the trees. Perhaps they are back again on the bloody field of Antietam, or mayhap they are fighting once more as they have so many times these years, at Gettysburg in the Wilderness, the "Battle above the Clouds" at Missionary Ridge, at Shiloh, or Chickamauga.

UNSPOKEN THOUGHTS

Perhaps—but that is just by the way, en passant. For there are other things to consider, things of which they are thinking hard and which no doubt will come officially before the encampment.

What, for instance, is to come to pass in that day not long distant now, when the last of those men who fought that fight in blue, sixty years ago, shall have wandered aboard Sharon's craft and drifted to the other shore?

There are 190,000 of them left; and they are going at the rate of 2000 a month. Two thousand into 190,000, ninety-five times; ninety-five months; eight years, and they will be gone.

But in spite of what the men are thinking, Commander-in-chief Louis Stephen Pilcher does not believe the question will be brought up at the encampment, at least not yet.

UNIQUE IN HISTORY

"They may be thinking about it," says he of his comrades, "but it is a question beyond our control. I do not believe there is any organization which possibly can fall heir to what these men have done or to their ideals, the ideals for which they went out on the field and fought and which were purified and sublimated in the flame of war."

Commander Pilcher does not say anything about the soldiers' bonus—he discusses it but does not make any statements as to whether he or the G. A. R. approves of it. What the soldiers did for their country is a matter that cannot be paid for "in dollars and cents," he says. He does not believe any expression on the subject will come out of the encampment.

The encampment opens officially at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and closes Thursday night. Its big day is Wednesday. There will be an election of officers ad it is said that Judge J. M. Willett of Tama, Iowa, is slated for Commander-in-Chief.

OFFER BLACKMAIL THEORY

Slaying of New Jersey Pastor and Singer May Be Traced to Mysterious Italians

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW BRUNSWICK (N. J.) Sept. 24.—The theory that a blackmail plot led to the slaying of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the fashionable Church of St. John the Evangelist, and Mrs. James Mills, member of the choir and wife of the church sexton, was strengthened today when Somerset and Middlesex county authorities learned that two strange Italians flashed revolvers in New Brunswick the night before the double murder.

The two Italians are known to have spent the night before the killing on a barge in the Raritan Canal. Thursday night at about the time Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills left their respective homes, the armed strangers left the barge. They returned to the barge at about 3 o'clock Friday morning and vanished the following day in an automobile.

HIRED GUNMEN

The investigators are seeking now to learn if the swarthy strangers were not paid gunmen hired to kill the rector and choir singer.

The report was persistent today that an early arrest was to be made of a woman in the murder mystery but this could not be confirmed tonight.

Henry Stephens, brother of the slain rector's widow, interviewed for the first time since the bodies of the couple were found, tonight accounted for his actions since the Wednesday preceding the murder.

A relative of Dr. Hall, it was revealed today, ransacked the rector's studio soon after the news of the double murder reached New Brunswick. He is believed to have taken papers away which would have thrown light upon the slayings. Whether these were correspondence of Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall is pure conjecture.

today. Chairman Adams is to direct the campaign from the capital, instead of transferring his headquarters to New York. He is to be in frequent conference with Senator Medill McCormick, chairman of the Senatorial Campaign Committee, and Representative Will R. Wood, chairman of the Congressional Committee, but they are to spend more time in the field than in Washington.

Vice-President Coolidge is to make a series of speeches, chiefly in eastern States. There has been a wide-spread demand for him to visit middle western districts where close contests might be expected, but it is thought he could be employed to best advantage in the business section of the country. Due to the fact that President Harding, himself, will not indulge in campaign speaking, party leaders have wished to have the next highest officials of the administration to address their constituencies.

The extent of the President's participation has yet to be determined. There has been some discussion on his part in the campaign for Republican retention of the House, but no definite plans have been formulated; that is to say, no affirmative campaign. There has been, however, one big negation, which commands universal approval among Republicans. Under no circumstances is there to be anything resembling remotely the kind of campaign appeal addressed by President Wilson to "my fellow-citizens" in 1918.

MONUMENTAD BLUNDER.

That was regarded as one of the most monumental blunders of modern politics. It converted a passive Republican campaign into a most aggressive one, brought out the Republican vote and gave control of both houses to the Republicans.

The President and Chairman Adams are agreed nothing which might be construed as akin to the Wilson appeal is to issue from the White House this year. They are to practice special caution because the Democrats would seize on anything to liken it to the Wilson statement, having sought to establish that it was not different from that of President McKinley. It is doubtful whether the President will issue any blanket statement covering the work of Congress out and out for them. They are not candidates this year. Mr. Beveridge is to deliver thirty speeches in Indiana, but in addition to that undertaking he will be asked "to give 'em the doctrine" as only he can do it, in probably a dozen other States.

Senator Moses, while busiest in New England, will go into the Middle West. He will speak for Beveridge in Indiana. It is likely Senator McCormick also will undertake some speeches besides his managerial duties. Senator New of Indiana, defeated for renomination, will speak in several States—Indiana not being one of them.

QUITS PAINTING FOR CINEMATIC PURSUIT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Russell Patterson, the well-known American landscape painter, sailed from Havre this week aboard the Chicago, after several years in Europe, with the avowed intention of giving up painting to enter motion pictures. When asked the reason, he said it was mere curiosity combined with several offers by film concerns to look them over.

"There are so many 'isms'—cube and others—in painting nowadays," he said, "that we are all mixed up. The result is modern painting shows no progress. On the other hand, the cinema industry has forged ahead and now is classified as real art. Therefore I am curious. If I decide to remain in it, I intend to begin as an actor. I will leave the direction to others until I learn from the ground up."

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ATHENS, Sept. 24.—Athens is likely to be the scene of important political events as a result of the military disaster in Asia Minor, according to declarations by influential Greeks. A coup d'etate is mentioned as a possibility by which King Constantine will summon a distinguished leader, probably Gen. Metaxas, to conduct the affairs of state as premier, or even as a sort of dictator in an effort to rally the people about the existing regime and especially to support sending a powerful army into Thrace to check the Turkish invasion.

Constantine is described as undecided about his program, but it is generally agreed that the present Cabinet cannot long endure. The people are said to be on the point of demanding a change in government with vigorous leaders, who are capable of uniting and enthusing the patriotism of the nation. They insist on the right of saving Thrace, with its rich wheat fields as necessary to the future prosperity of Greece.

Gen. Metaxas was prominent in the Balkan war, but never held political office. It is evident that Greece wishes to go to the peace conference with a strong hand and the presence of a powerful army in Thrace will give her new important cards.

The international political situation is difficult because partisans of Venizelos have increased since the military reverses in Asia Minor. The Metaxas movement, however, is characterized by his friends as embodying a conciliatory attempt to inspire co-operation between the followers of the King and Venizelos.

This program would not include the return of Venizelos to power in Greece, but would mean the naming of some of his supporters to the cabinet of diplomatic posts abroad.

STRIKERS TO ACCEPT INJUNCTION

'Attorney for Jewell Says No Protest Will be Made Against Form of Order

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. — Indications today were that the leaders of the striking shopmen have realized the futility of further antagonizing the United States government and will accept the theory that 100,000,000 people are greater and stronger than 10,000,000, even if the latter are highly organized.

Donald R. Richberg, attorney for B. M. Jewell, president of the shop crafts, and John Scott, president of the railway machinists, announced today that no protest would be made against the form of order in the Daugherty injunction case. As a result it is expected that Federal Judge Wilkerson will accept the proposed order drawn up and presented to the court last week by Atty.-Gen. Daugherty. This will mean that there will be no modification of the present temporary restraining order and that the Attorney-General will adhere to his declared policy of "no quarter."

A meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in Judge Wilkerson's court at which time an opportunity will be given attorneys for both sides to offer amendments and forms. Attorney Richberg said today, however, that he would raise no objections to the form of the order, but would withhold all action until he appeals Judge Wilkerson's decision to the Circuit Court of Appeals. This he will be able to do next month, when the fall session of the Court of Appeals will open.

As soon as he completes his work here, Assistant Solicitor-General Blackburn Esterline will go to Denver to represent the government in a suit filed by several western railroads asking that a decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission be set aside. Atty.-Gen. Daugherty, now at his home in Columbus, O., will return at once to Washington.

TARIFF FAVORS BEING SOUGHT

Congress Members Stampede to White House

Advise President to Adopt Firm Policy

Flexible Clause Relied on to Meet Criticism

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—A Congressional stampede to the White House for favors under the flexible provisions of the new tariff act reached such proportions before Congress adjourned that advisers of President Harding are convinced he must adopt a firm policy with Republican members seeking rate revisions to avoid devoting an unprecedented amount of time to the tariff. Some have gone so far as to express concern for the President's health unless, at the beginning of the new tariff program, he informs members of Congress he will refer all such requests to the Tariff Commission and be guided almost invariably by its recommendations.

SEEK FAVORS

The usual governmental routine of seeking administrative favors through representatives in Congress began to operate on a large scale before adjournment. Administration officials say they regard the additional burden placed on Mr. Harding's shoulders as constituting duties little less than a menace to his health and the already too numerous duties of the executive. Business men were bombarding their Senators and Representatives with assertions the original schedules were insufficient to protect them from heavy foreign competition and the legislators began seeking lengthy discussions of tariff complexities with the President.

Administration officials are confident that the return of Congress will bring a siege of renewed vigor unless a program of strenuous and unyielding resistance to tedious discussions is adopted. Custom makes it exceedingly difficult for a President to deny interviews with a Congressman of his own party.

REVISION POSSIBLE

Departing Senators and Representatives who voted for the tariff, however, are relying to a large extent on the flexible clause to meet criticism of its high rates in the autumn campaigns into which they are going. Attacks on specific schedules will be met, when it is possible, with assertions that many of the rates in the Fordney-McCumber measure are not final, but subject to Presidential revision at any time.

TURKS PLAYING FOR BIG STAKES

Dardanelles without open conflict with England.

On the other hand, England's desire for a conference indicates that the Turks are about to achieve their ends diplomatically rather than by the sword.

TURKS NEED PEACE

"We do not desire to continue the conflict," declared Fethi Bey. "If any country needs peace today, it is Turkey, for we have been under arms for many years. But there can be no departure from our announced goal. To further provoke a conflict we do not desire, but Great Britain desires to establish herself in Constantinople, or at least Gallipoli, where she will erect a new Gibraltar, from which she constantly will exercise strong pressure on Turkish internal affairs."

British officials both at home and in Constantinople declare they have always intended to return Constantinople to the Turks if the freedom of the straits were guaranteed. Thursday a high British official told me it made not a half a penny worth of difference to their policy if Constantinople were Yours," I told him.

He replied, "It true, it is a new departure. They maintained that the Greek army was in Anatolia to secure their position in the Dardanelles. We anways have announced our readiness to guarantee freedom of the straits, with demilitarization on both sides, and to permit a commission of the Allies or all interested powers in the League of Nations, or anybody who wished to maintain control and see that no fortifications were constructed on either side of the Dardanelles. We are now ready to discuss this at a conference any time and also other questions interesting the foreign powers.

"I understand Great Britain is now ready for such a conference, but as yet we have not been invited."

NO NEUTRAL ZONE

I said to him, "British military officials in Constantinople declare they cannot consider a conference if you insist on marching your army against the straits and Constantinople, or if your troops entered the neutral zone. They declare by such action you would be placed in a position to dictate terms of peace."

He replied: "There is no question of neutral zone where the Greek army is concerned. Constantinople to Greece is a most important naval base in all operations. We cannot recognize the existence of such a zone. Besides, our troops already have crossed the line of demarcation at one point in the Dardanelles.

"We are not underestimating the power and resources of Great Britain. War with her would be a great misfortune to us, but also would be costly to her. We cannot stand on our arms and discuss the realization of aims already justified. We must continue to go forward. We are not making new demands, but we are still fighting for those things which caused the organization of our army and government nearly three years ago. We ask no more and will accept no less than complete independence of Turkey."

"Are you ready to discuss other questions of prime importance to Great Britain, such as Mesopotamia and the Kirdish oil fields in a conference?" I asked him.

"Turkey insists on the retention of the British territories. No nation has an excuse or the right to occupy them except Turkey. As for the Arabs—England's desire being for their independence—we will insist that the Arabs be entirely independent."

Through their news articles and editorials the cause of Richardson will be presented in the same fashion that it was presented to obtain his nomination.

JOHNSON AS PRECEDENT

The one added note will be "overthrow Boss McCabe." In leaving the State Central Committee and conducting an independent campaign, Richardson follows a precedent established in 1914 by Hiram Johnson, who at that time placed his fight in the hands of McCabe and ignored the committee.

Now the situation is entirely reversed. Another candidate for Governor is before the people to break the machine that McCabe created.

EDITOR AS TREASURER

A newspaper editor has been chosen to serve as treasurer of the Richardson fight—Sherman McDowell, editor of the Alameda Times-Star, who will receive and account for all contributions to the campaign funds of the Republican gubernatorial nominee.

Richardson's general campaign will be directed by the following editors: J. E. Olmsted, editor Petaluma Argus; W. F. Mixon, editor Woodland Mail; M. F. Cochran, editor San Rafael Independent; F. H. MacKinder, editor St. Helena Star; W. A. Rugg, editor Martinez Gazette; Will F. Blake, editor Gilroy Advocate; Robert W. Walker, editor Vallejo Times-Herald; George G. Radcliffe, editor Watsonville Pajoranian; J. R. Gabbert, editor Riverside Enterprise; J. F. Cramer, editor Orange News; J. J. Conrad, editor Huntington Beach News; J. J. Penny, editor Long Beach Telegram; Harlan G. Palmer, editor Hollywood Citizen; R. O. Wicklund, editor South Pasadena Record; F. S. Hofeld, editor Rialto Record, and J. J. Krauser, editor Oxnard Courier.

DEMOCRATIC SPLIT

While the Republicans are preparing to rid the party of an extravagant, ruthless machine and its boss, the genuine split on politics and principles among the Democrats is becoming wider.

"Woolwine and wine" is the slogan positively nauseating for many Democratic leaders who believe that the wet District Attorney of Los Angeles county is leading the party into difficulties that may have a bearing on the Presidential situation.

Apparently, Mr. Woolwine is discovering that the siren song of "wine and beer" is not as wildly persuasive as he had counted upon, for he seems to have borrowed a few sentences from the political speeches of Mr. Stephens and is saying now that the real issue has to do with a defeat for the corporations.

WOMEN AFTER WOOLWINE

San Francisco Democratic women are joining with Republican women in forming a huge Richardson-for-Governor Club and some of the women leaders are so incensed at Mr. Woolwine's appeal to the wet interests that they are prepared, they say, to finance a women's speaking bureau for the purpose of appealing directly to the voters of the State to work against "the man who seeks votes in exchange for a bottle of wine."

The real explanation of Boynton's acceptance of the State committee chairmanship at the dictation of Boss McCabe and over the protest of Mr. Richardson came today when it was learned that Senator Johnson offered the chairmanship to Boynton at least ten days ago.

Thus, without consulting any other Republican candidate and ignoring the 286,000 Republicans, more or less, who voted for Richardson, the Senator and the party machine boss selected their candidate, obtained his consent to unite—and then found themselves embarrassed by the refusal of Richardson to become a party to the scheme.

BAD FAITH SOMEWHERE

Despite his promise to Boynton that the former State Senator would be the machine's unopposed candidate for committee chairman, however, McCabe entered into an agreement with Assemblyman Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach, representing Richardson and State Senator Arthur H. Breed of Berkeley, that Boynton would not be forced on the committee over Richardson's protest.

McCabe has boasted many times that he would never break his word, once given, yet he coolly informed Merriam a few hours before the committee met Saturday afternoon that he "could not carry out the agreement." He vouchsafed no explanation and when Merriam publicly accused him of bad faith and of a violation of his agreement he made no effort to refute the charge.

Such was the "Progressive" victory, won by Boss McCabe.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—"This is an idyl," states Maurice Prax in the Petit Parisien, commenting on the coming marriage of the ex-Kaiser. "Amiable M. Hohensollern has fallen in love with a princess who loves him tenderly. They will have many children, perhaps. I suppose he must play the guitar in singing his sweet ballads to her. He is no more the butcher of 1914, but a Florentine page. Oh, how pretty and exquisite—but I find this disgusting. The idea that this murderer can so tranquilly take a wife is monstrous.

"To think that a woman with the heart of a mother like millions of poor mothers whose hearts this monster has torn can support the kisses of this man chills me—causes me to lose hope in humanity.

"If there were justice this would not be. To man who destroyed the homes of Europe would not dare to make his own home, would not dare to speak of love—he who was all hated—would not dare even to touch the hand of a woman. He would not even dare to breathe."

NEW "LIGHT" ON BRITISH QUEEN

Kaiser Tells of Relations With Victoria

Seeks to Make It Appear He Was Her Equal

the Foreign Office. Then, as well as before, I revered the powerful Chancellor with all the ardor of my youth and was proud to have served under him and to have the opportunity now to work with him as my Chancellor.

The Prince, who was present during the last hours of the old Emperor and had listened with me to the latter's political testament to his grandson—i. e., his wish as to the special care to be lavished upon relations with Russia—brought about my summer trip to St. Petersburg as my first political act before the eyes of the world, in order to emphasize our relationship to Russia in accordance with the last wish of my dying grandfather. He also had "travel arrangements" drawn up for me.

An obstable was placed in the way of carrying out this plan by a letter from Queen Victoria of England, who, upon hearing of the projected visit to St. Petersburg, expressed to her eldest grandson in a good-humored but authoritative tone, her disapproval of the contemplated journey. She said that a year of mourning must first elapse, after which my first visit was due to her since she was my grandmother, and to England, it being the native country of my mother, before other stands should be considered. When I placed this letter before the Prince, he gave way to a violent fit of anger. He spoke about "family dictation in England," of interference from that quarter which must cease; the tone of the letter showed, he said, how the Crown Prince and Emperor Frederick had been ordered about and influenced by his mother-in-law, wife etc. Thereupon the Prince wished to draw up the text of a reply to the Queen. I remarked that I would prepare the appropriate answer, steering the proper middle course between the grandson and the Emperor, and that I would show it to the Prince before dispatching it.

The answer paid heed in its outward form to the close relationship between a grandson and his grandmother, who had carried him in her arms when he was a baby and, in view of her age alone, commanded great respect—but, in its essentials, it laid stress upon the position and duty of the German Emperor, compelled to carry out unconditionally a command of his dying father affecting Germany's most vital interests. It stated that the grandson was obliged to respect this command of his grandfather in the interests of the country, the representation of which interests had now devolved upon him by the will of God, and that his royal grandmother must leave to him the question of deciding in what manner this was to be done. I added that otherwise, I was her loving grandson, who would always be grateful for any advice from his grandmother, who had derived so much experience from her long reign; but that I was, nevertheless, in matters affecting Germany, compelled to retain my freedom of action; the visit to St. Petersburg, I said, was politically necessary, and the command of my Imperial grandfather was to consolidate, obtained his consent to under arms for many years. But there can be no departure from our announced goal. To further provoke a conflict we do not desire, but Great Britain desires to establish herself in Constantinople, or at least Gallipoli, where she will erect a new Gibraltar, from which she constantly will exercise strong pressure on Turkish internal affairs."

Skulls Are Classed as Luxuries by Judge in Austria

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VIENNA, Sept. 24.—Whether human skulls are necessities or luxuries was an issue in an extraordinary profiteering case which has just been settled in a Vienna court. The Anatomic Institute imported from Hungary which is the only country permitting the export of corpses and human bones, 400 skulls for scientific purposes, and when an express company charged an exorbitant rate for their delivery the institute lodged a complaint under the profiteering law.

The company maintained that skulls are not necessary commodities but luxuries, hence not subject to the law. They also demanded special care in packing and, owing to superstitions, delivery boys had to be paid double to carry the packages. The judge ruled in favor of the defendant, so skulls are now on the Austrian luxury list.

know my inner thoughts and aims, adopted a distrustful and reserved attitude toward me, instead of transferring their interest from the father to the son, for the purpose of furthering the welfare of the fatherland.

There was one exception to this—a representative of the National Liberals, Herr von Benda—a man still in the full bloom of youth. While I was still prince I had made his acquaintance at the great hare hunts got up by Councillor Dietze at Barby. There Herr von Benda had won my affection and confidence when I, surrounded by older men, had listened to discussions on political, agricultural and national-economic questions. In the course of these, Herr von Benda held my attention by means of his independent, interesting judgment. I accepted with pleasure an invitation to Benda's country seat, Rudow, near Berlin, and from this arose the custom of a regular yearly visit.

The hours spent in the family circle at Rudow stand out pleasantly in my memory. His talented daughters used to regale us with music. The political conversations there proved Herr von Benda to be a man of great foresight, which, free from partisan considerations, gave him an open mind as to the general needs of the State to an extent seldom found among members of political parties. He gave me many a helpful piece of advice for the future, drawn from the depths of his faithful, genuinely Prussian heart, by which he was attached firmly to the family of his sovereign; yet he was able to feel broad tolerance for other parties.

ATTITUDE TOWARD PARTIES

The later periods of my reign proved that I was not hostile to any party, with the exception of the ultra-Socialists; also, that I was not anti-Liberal. My most important Finance Minister was the Liberal, Miquel; my Minister of Commerce was the Liberal, Moeller; the leader of the Liberals, Herr Von Bennigsen, was Chief President of Hanover. I stood very close, especially in the second half of my reign, to an elderly Liberal deputy, whose acquaintance I made through Herr Von Miquel. The man was Herr Seydel (Celchen,) owner of an estate in eastern Germany—a man with two clever eyes, which gazed forth from a clean-shaven face. He worked with Miquel in railway and canal questions, and was a thoroughly able, simple, practical man—a Liberal with a streak of conservatism.

Naturally I had numerous dealings and points of contact with the Conservative party, since the gentlemen of the country nobility often met me at court hunts, and other hunts, or else came to court and served in court positions. Through them I could become thoroughly informed on all agrarian questions and learn where the farmer's shoe pinched him.

The Free Thinkers, under their "unswerving" leader, entered into no relations with me; they limited themselves to opposition.

In my conversations with Benda and Bennigsen we often spoke of the future of Liberalism, and, on one occasion, Benda made this interesting observation: "It is not necessary and also not advisable to have the Prussian heir-apparent dabble in Liberalism—we have no use for that sort of thing. He must be essentially conservative, though he must, at the same time, combine this with breadth, and avoid narrowness and prejudice against other parties."

Bennigsen agreed with me when I spoke to him of the necessity of having the National Liberals revise their program, which originally bearing the motto: "Maintenance of the German Empire and Freedom of the Press"—had long since rallied the members around the Liberal banner—in order that, by such revision, the proselytizing power of the old brand of Prussian Liberalism should not be lost among the people. Both the Prussian Liberals and the Conservatives, I continued, made the mistake of remembering too well the old period of conflict of 1861-1866; and, at elections and other political fights, they were prone to fall back into the habits of those days. That period, I said, had already passed into history and come to an end so far as our generation was concerned; the present had begun for us with the year 1870 and the new empire; our generation had drawn a line under the year 1866; we must build anew upon the foundations of the empire; political parties must shape their course also in this direction and not take over from the past stuff that was outworn and, moreover, calculated to create discord. Unfortunately, all this has not come to pass. Bennigsen made a very telling point when he said: "Woe to the North German Liberals if they come under the leadership of the South German Democrats, for that will mean the end of real, genuine Liberalism! Then we shall get the masked democracy arising from below, for which we have no use hereabout."

The Conservative party, honorable and faithful to its king, unfortunately has not always produced leaders of superior endowments who were at the same time skilful, tactically trained politicians. The agrarian wing was at times too strongly marked and was a burden to the party. Moreover, memories of the period of conflict were still too lively. I counseled union with the Liberals, but found little support. I often pointed out that the National Liberals in the empire were true to the empire and to the Emperor, for which reason they should be thoroughly welcome to the Conservatives as allies; that I could not and did not wish to govern without them in the empire, and was absolutely unwilling to govern against them; that North German conservatism was misunderstood in some parts of the empire because of difference in historical development, and that, therefore, the National Liberals were the natural allies. It was owing to these views of mine, for instance, that I removed Court Preacher Stocker, a man of brilliant achievement as a social missionary, from his post, since he made a demagogical provocative speech in South Germany, aimed against the Liberals there.

The Center party was welded together by the Kulturkampf and was strongly anti-Protestant and hostile to the empire. Notwithstanding this, I had dealings with many important men of the party and managed to interest them in practical collaboration for the good of all. In this Schorlemer (the father) was especially helpful to me. He never made a secret of his Prussian loyalty to his king. His son, the well-known Minister of Agriculture, even joined the Conservative party. In many matters the Center co-operated; at one period it possessed, in its old leader Windthorst, the keenest politician in the Legislature. Nevertheless, in spite of all this, one could not help being aware of the underlying Centrist conviction that the interests of the Roman Church must always be maintained and never relegated to a secondary place.

tance to the British government that the young Kaiser should not pass under the dominating influence of Alexander III. One cannot imagine a more diplomatic manner of handling so delicate a situation, one fraught with such dangerous possibilities to the British government.

But one wonders on what information, what facts, the ex-Kaiser based his observation, "from that day onward my relations with the Queen, who was feared even by her own children, were the best imaginable."

"FEARED BY CHILDREN"

Why was Victoria "feared by her own children"? There is no inkling of a disposition which would awaken fear in her own household in any of the English biographies. Many will regret that the ex-Kaiser is not more explicit. Perhaps he desired to intrigue his public, for one wishes he had either given circumstantial details or said nothing at all.

Judged in the light of the events of the last eight years, it was a sorry day for Germany when good Queen Victoria died. For, during her lifetime, the young Kaiser made no irreparable blunders. Her influence seems to have had a sobering, steadying effect upon him. He did not begin to dream of world dominion until she had passed.

At no time does the ex-Kaiser refer to Victoria and her reign except in terms of the highest regard. How different would be the present condition of Europe if, after her admonitions! After reading this part of the Memoirs, who can be as benedcent in politics as in the home?

His love and veneration for his royal grandmother if they were indeed genuine and not affected, are some of the bright spots in the checkered career of the Kaiser. After her death, the preponderance of black squares becomes appalling.

FOOLS AND KNAVES

There is perhaps some justice in the ex-Kaiser's estimate of the two political parties in Germany at the beginning of his reign. He found the Conservatives loyal, but stupid, the Liberals fascinating, but perilous to the stability of a throne resting upon their support.

In his narrative the ex-Kaiser expresses a spirit of tolerance for all religious beliefs. But Bismarck shows him in a different light. He recounts that the Kaiser, in the midst of an important conference, once sneeringly remarked, "Jews and Jesuits always hold together."

There is also a puzzling contradiction between the ex-Kaiser's professions of love and esteem for Queen Victoria and the following sentence from the suppressed volume of Bismarck's autobiography: "The Prince (afterward the Kaiser) was prejudiced against England and all things English; and very much incensed against Queen Victoria."

Considering these and other contradictions, one wonders how much credence can safely be attached to opinions expressed and professions made by the ex-Kaiser since his downfall.

HONEYMOONERS HAVE HARD LUCK AT SEA

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The adventure of the Sewood, the twenty-six-ton yacht in which Capt. H. J. Symonds and his bride intended to sail on their honeymoon to Australia has come to grief. Bad weather at the very outset tossed the little boat about so much that the captain thought it best to postpone his attempt until another time.

When only four days out the ship hit such huge seas that food and matches were soaked and nothing but cold meals were possible. The next three days Symonds and his wife were forced to tie themselves in with life lines and when off the Sicily Islands they ran for port.

Good Morning, Mr. Newmark:—

"How are they coming?" as O. Henry would say.

O. Henry usually made the world laugh with him, but sometimes he wrote in a more serious vein.

Did you know that he is the fellow who wrote this little couplet on "Service"?

I come no more in gray disguise,
With grasping hands and greedy eyes,
Living on larceny and lies.

No longer do my mighty hosts
Of ministers and servants boast
Of giving least and getting most.

But now, with eyes greed cannot blind,
With open hands and willing mind,
I live in Service to mankind.

And hold him first among the rest
Who bears this motto on his breast,
"He profits most who serveth best!"

Here at the Times-Mirror Printing and Binding House our motto is, has been and always will be—"Quality and Service."

Every member of our staff is trained to "deliver the goods"—to help the other fellow with our modern business-building ideas and our superior facilities for turning these ideas into attractive, printed salesmanship.

ENGINEERS TO HONOR CHIEF

L. W. Wallace is Guest at Luncheon September 28

Will Speak on Twelve-Hour Shift in Industry

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—On a nation-wide tour ending in San Francisco early in October, when the national meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be held, L. W. Wallace of Washington, executive secretary of the American Engineering Council of the Federation of American Engineering Societies, will address the engineers of Los Angeles at noon on Thursday, September 28. A luncheon has been arranged for that day by the joint technical societies of Los Angeles.

Mr. Wallace is interpreting the mission of the federation, organized with Herbert Hoover as first president, to the engineers of the West, where a large growth in the federation's membership and influence is looked for during the next year. One of the principal topics of Mr. Wallace's Los Angeles address will be the report of the American Egineering Council's committee on work periods in continuous industry on "the twelve-hour shift in American industry."

CONDEMNS TWO SHIFTS

This report embodies the results of a nation-wide survey of forty continuous industries and recommends the abolition of the two-shift day of twelve hours in favor of three-shift day of eight hours. The chairman of the committee is Dr. H. E. Howe of Washington. The field work was directed by Bradley Stoughton of New York, who investigated the steel and iron industry, and Horace B. Drury of Washington. The Cabot Fund of Boston co-operated in the undertaking, which is described by Prof. Samuel McCune Lindsay of Columbia University, representing the Cabot Fund, as the most important investigation of any industrial situation ever conducted in this country. The report, which will soon be issued in complete form, according to an announcement made at the office of the American Engineering Council, Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth street, New York, reaches the general conclusion:

"As to the extent of continuous work in American industry, there are upward of forty continuous industries operating more or less completely upon a shift system. They employ between 500,000 and 1,000,000 wage earners on shift work. Their families constitute from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 persons who are dependent upon earnings from shift work.

"There are 300,000 wage earners working on twelve-hour shifts. They and their families number more than 1,000,000 persons.

"The logical alternative to the two twelve-hour shifts system is the three eight-hour shift system."

IN SAN FRANCISCO

At San Francisco Mr. Wallace, who is president of the Eyesight Conservation Council of America and a director of the National Personnel Association, will be joined by Dean Mortimer E. Cooley of the University of Michigan, successor to Herbert Hoover as president of the Federated American Engineering Societies. Both will address the meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers in that city.

On the return East, Dean Cooley and Mr. Wallace will deliver a series of addresses in engineering centers.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA SEEM DEADLOCKED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CHANGCHUN (Manchuria) Sept. 24.—The Moscow and Chita governments continue to insist that Japan shall fix the date of evacuation of troops from Northern Sakhalin before any trade agreements can be made, according to an official answer which was presented to Mr. Matsudaira, replying to Japan's refusal to remove the troops until indemnified for the massacre of 600 Japanese nationals. Mr. Matsudaira has referred the question to Tokio.

Adolph Joffe, representative of the Moscow government, declared that if Tokio decided negatively the conference would end.

Japan wants Siberia to be in the hands of a responsible government which will admit Japan's claims of indemnity for the Nikolayevsk massacre, according to a statement of policy presented by Mr. Matsudaira before the conference today. Japan will then negotiate the amount of her claims and relinquish Sakhalin.

Mr. Joffe replied that Japan's intentions were not acceptable, declaring that Russia had definitely refused to concede any claims arising from the Nikolayevsk question and insisted that a friendly agreement between Japan and Russia were impossible as long as Japan occupies Russian territory. He continued:

"Japan, with a population of 58,000,000, is trying to justify the mistakes of the militarists and forget that the national pride of 50,000,000 Russians is involved."

MAKES PLEA TO AID VICTIMS OF TURKS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—A conviction that "the nations of the world should come to the rescue of the civilization and the peoples now threatened by the Turk" was expressed last night by President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor in making public a cablegram of protest from labor leaders in Athens.

"A remonstrance or demonstration, I am confident, would save life and insure honor and peace," Mr. Gompers added.

The cablegram from Athens declared that "all Greek laboring people are profoundly moved at Kemalist gangs' criminal acts," and entered a plea that "the fate of the Christians of Anatolia be favorably and definitely settled."

Pacific-Southwest Review

By F. W. HEATHCOTE,
Junior Vice-President and Auditor, Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings Bank.

F.W. Heathcote

Branch banking in the United States is by no means a new and untried experiment. The present system of branch banking used in Canada was modeled originally upon a system that existed in the United States a hundred years or more ago, and which was discarded largely through political and local economic conditions that existed at that time.

It is an economic truism that the greatest good for the greatest number must be the ultimate aim of any public or quasi-public institution. A branch banking system must, then, be founded, not upon the welfare and self interest of the bankers themselves, but rather upon the advantages to be gained by the great mass of the American people.

Among the many advantages which argued in favor of the general adoption of Branch Banking throughout the Pacific Southwest was the cooperative feature of such a system. Banking strength, properly used, is a public asset which can hardly be overestimated.

The Pacific-Southwest system can gather the idle funds of places where they are not needed and loan them out where financial assistance is required. In any country there are many communities peopled by wealthy residents to a large extent, who have accumulated funds but who are not in business and do not need to borrow. A Bank would find it somewhat hard to do a profitable business in such a place, inasmuch as it would be required to pay interest upon a large volume of deposits which could not be loaned locally at regular rates, but which must of necessity be invested in bonds and commercial paper in New York at a low interest yield. In other districts, money demands are seasonal.

With the well planned Pacific-Southwest system, however, these conditions are taken care of automatically. Branches are strategically located so that the seasonal demands of communities served by the various branches will not come at one and the same time. Consequently, when there is a demand for funds in one section, there is a surplus of idle money in another. This bank, having branches in each of these communities, is able to regulate the flow of credit to meet the needs of each community at the season of its demand by using the funds of communities which have more than ample funds at the time. At another season of the year, the situation is reversed and the surplus funds of the first community are made available for use by the farmers and business men of the territory served by the latter.

The First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, with its branches in twenty-four California cities, and the First Securities Company, operating under one ownership and one management, are playing an important part in the organization of the finances of the Pacific-Southwest, to the end that this great empire may now independently finance its agricultural and industrial development.

A score of individual banks in California from Fresno south, each operating alone, were limited largely in power to serve their respective communities by the extent of their individual resources, which at times of peak demands were often inadequate to cope with the situation. These same banks, cooperating as branches of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, now can avail themselves of the vast resources not only of their own system but also of The First National Bank of Los Angeles and the First Securities Company.

HORSE AND WAGON WRECK AUTOMOBILE

MAN AND WOMAN BADLY INJURED BY BROKEN WINDSHIELD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Sept. 24.—Miss H. Grace Franklin, director of the Globe Red Cross center and of the Globe Associated Charities, had a narrow escape from death recently, emerging from an automobile accident with her neck deeply gashed by a broken piece of glass windshield.

She was in the machine escorting an insane woman to the asylum at Phoenix, when a Mexican family drifted directly into the path of travel with a light wagon. The automobile driver, unable to swerve because of a deep ditch, held his course, throwing the horse to the top of the radiator, the animal's head breaking the windshield and striking Miss Franklin across the chest and tearing a part of the hood from the car. The driver, Deputy Sheriff Will Rose, also was badly cut. Incidentally, the members of the Mexican family were unhurt.

EINSTEIN THEORY STILL UNSHAKEN

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The preparation of British astronomers for the past six months to observe the eclipse of the sun from Christmas Island resulted in nothing, owing to cloudy weather, according to a message received today by the Royal Astronomer at Greenwich. Not one photograph was taken. Consequently, as far as Britishers are concerned, the Einstein theory must still be accepted. The equipment taken to the island amounted to six and one-half tons. A fairly large party set up the observatory and had been practicing for weeks for the work they hoped to accomplish in three or four minutes.

SHORTAGE REVEALED; BANK CLERK SOUGHT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—A. B. Van Zant, aged 22 years, formerly bookkeeper for the First State Bank of Patagonia at a salary of $85 a month, is being sought here and in northern Mexico. He is charged with having absconded with $2259 in currency. He came to Patagonia last February, brought from DeLeon, Tex., by Manager W. P. Capehart of the bank, who had known him since childhood.

Mr. Capehart believes the young man's actions were based largely on resentment, following a fatherly talk he gave him concerning an infatuation in Nogales. The missing man has been seen in Magdalena, Sonora. A bonding company already has covered the shortage.

COLLEGE HEAD ASSUMES CHAIR

Dr. Marvin Warmly Received by Arizonans

Many New Faculty Members Begin Duties

Former Los Angeles Man in Plea for Ideals

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—Cloyd H. Marvin, late of Los Angeles, newly installed as president of the University of Arizona, has had his first assembly with the faculty and student body. He advised the undergraduates that he had come to Arizona with fullest intention of becoming an Arizonan in every sense, a statement received with vociferous approval on the floor.

He said he had been advised by the Board of Regents that "we can have anything we want, providing we can justify it;" that he intended that the people of Arizona are to be given all the facts concerning the university and that ideals are to be made realities in training the youth of Arizona, that they may be sent back to their homes equipped to attend to the social and economic welfare of the State. At the assembly nineteen new members of the faculty were introduced.

Director A. E. Douglass of the Steward University on the university campus states that the new thirty-six-inch reflecting telescope has proved everything that had been hoped and that it is in nightly use in astronomical work. The glass is the largest ever "wholly made" in the United States, and was perfected only after several failures. Six weeks were consumed in the cooling of the lens, which was made by the Spencer company of Buffalo.

Heretofore, university astronomical work was done with an eight-inch telescope, loaned by Harvard University. This has been returned and has been sent on to a new observatory established in Poland.

TELLS POWER PLAN

Prof. G. E. P. Smith of Tucson has offered in the hearings at Washington on the Swing Colorado River bill a lengthy paper reciting amendments to the measure deemed by him as guarding the rights of Arizona in the distribution of the stored flow of water and in the adjustment of power diversions.

He calls for grant to Arizona, in lieu of taxes, of a block of free power and allotment of as much power as the State can use; that the State demand the government construct a diversion dam across the river at Bull's Head Rock, at the head of the Mohave Valley, and one at Gate Head Rock, at the head of the Parker Valley; that river regulation on the Gila be included in the Federal program.

He includes in the lands to be irrigated in Arizona 27,000 acres in the Mohave Valley, 110,000 in the Parker project and 15,000 in the Cibola Valley, the necessary dams be built in time to take the first waters liberated from storage.

FORT WINGATE INCLUDED

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—Fort Wingate also is to be included with Fort Apache in the plans of the Interior Department for the creation of great schools whereat shall be cared for several thousand Navajo and Apache children. Wingate and Apache have been abandoned, the former for a year or more, having been made a depot for storage of immense quantities of high explosives, left over from the war. It is believed that Apache, ninety miles south of Holbrook, is a bit remote from the Navajos, but Wingate has a good situation, within a few miles of the railroad and from one of the main roads into the Navajo reservation.

HITCHCOCK IN TUCSON

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—Former P. M.-Gen. Frank H. Hitchcock was a late visitor to Tucson, where he owns a controlling interest in the Evening Citizen. He stated there was no foundation for rumors concerning a possible sale of his interest or concerning any change in the management.

A late hearing in the Supreme Court of Arizona may secure a closer definition of the rights of a newspaper with relation to the privileges of the courts. In Gila county the Miami Silver Belt management was summoned in contempt proceedings on the basis of a lampoon of the Superior Court. The proceedings were held up by temporary injunction from the Supreme Court. At the hearing before the Appellate Court there was attempt to establish the right of trial by jury in such proceedings and at least a fair and impartial trial and the right of the defendant to challenge the trial judge on the ground of bias.

NEWSPAPER APPEARS

In Tucson has appeared the first issue of The Defender, published in Spanish and English, especially for the forwarding of the doctrines of the Catholic church. V. G. Nicoletti is editor.

At Whipple Barracks Health Service Hospital, near Prescott, has been established the Whipple Echo, published weekly by the patients and hospital personnel. Mentor G. Baker is editor-in-chief.

Fred Breen, publisher of the Coconino Sun, has announced the purchase of an eight-page perfecting press, the first of the sort ever owned in Arizona by other than a daily.

Ross Dana, formerly of Mesa, has taken editorial charge of the Snowflake Herald, succeeding Miss Lazelle Smith.

O. E. Warner has returned to the city desk of the Prescott Courier, after more than a year spent with the Associated Press in Los Angeles.

VICE DRIVE IN PHOENIX

City Attorney Kramer has made announcement that war has been started on the social understratum in Phoenix and that he proposes to drive from the city "all crooks, prostitutes, procurers, narcotic peddlers and other malefactors preying upon our public, and whose operations threaten to render some sections of our city a byword and a stench in the nostrils of all descent citizens."

In this there is to be co-operation by the Superior Court, in which Judge Stanford is to handle with all possible expedition any appeal cases from the City Court. The judge has sustained the city in holding certain classes of malefactors without bail pending trial.

CLEAN-UP PLANNED

Atty.-Gen. Galbraith has made personal inspection of conditions in the White City, near Fort Huachuca, Cochise county, and finds them very black indeed. The city is just outside the line of the Fort Huachuca military reservation and now is catering to the 800 negro cavalrymen at that post. The place has been "broken up" by the county authorities on a number of occasions and there have been times when its managers have had summary handling by outraged post commanders. But the human scum drifts back.

So now the Attorney-General is to take a hand in the work of clearing out the driftwood and of removing a serious menace to the health and good behavior of the soldiers. The procedure is to be under the State "red-light abatement" law, which holds the owner of a house responsible for any disorderly conduct by a tenant or visitor. Sheriff Hood of Cochise county will co-operate.

BANK NOTES AND OUTFIT ARE SEIZED

Bogus Money Had Passed Detection by Bankers for Long Time

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—With the seizure of more than $200,000 in counterfeit Federal reserve bank notes and arrest of one man late yesterday in a house on the West Side, Capt. Thomas I. Porter, chief of the secret service in Chicago, announced that he had uncovered the "biggest counterfeiting operations" in his thirty-seven years in the Federal service.

With the bogus money, which was so nearly undetectable, that since July 1, last, it has passed inspection of bank officials, the secret service men seized a complete counterfeiting outfit — presses such as are used in the Treasury Department, and several thousand negatives and plates.

Capt. Porter stated that he expects to seize in the next twenty-four hours at least $300,000 more of the counterfeit notes, and added that the total may be considerably more than $500,000.

"This thing," he said, "has the largest proportions of any counterfeiting proposition I have run across. Nothing I find in it will surprise me."

The man arrested is Joseph Kovick. No address was given for him; no information as to his connection with the scheme. It was assumed, however, that he was taken in the house at the time the government agents made the raid which resulted in capture of $200,000 in notes and the counterfeiting outfit.

All the money was in $20 denomination. It was practically perfect—as near so as any counterfeit money ever has been known to be, Capt. Porter declared. And while it passed the inspection of bank officials, ordinarily able to detect even expert counterfeit money, government experts immediately pronounced it "bad."

Trade Mothers-in-Law Idea is Suggested by Vienna Journalists

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VIENNA, Sept. 24.—Interesting figures published by the Austrian Bureau of Vital Statistics reveal that while the Austrian collapse has not hindered marriages, which on the contrary are more frequent than the prewar days, unhappy marriages and divorces are extraordinarily frequent and the birth rate is far below the prewar average.

Marriages have increased 180 per cent, but the birth rate in all Austria is only 80 per cent of the prewar rate and the population is constantly dwindling. There are scarcely any children, the greatest number being near the Swiss border, where they form only 40 per cent of the population and at Salzbury only 50.

Childlessness and divorces are attributed mainly to overcrowding, the housing shortage and the prohibitive cost of furnishing a home if one were obtainable. Hence newlyweds are forced to enter either the bride's or the bridegroom's parents' houses, which invariably lead to family wrangles.

Vienna journalists have advanced a brilliant idea of an exchange of mothers-in-law as a solution. The wiseacres argue if young people lived with strangers and their parents took in unknown newlyweds, everyone would be happier. Strangers would be polite and leave the newlyweds alone.

TORREY PINES GRADE ACCIDENT KILLS ONE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Frank K. Solin, wife of a minister of Chicago, was killed last night and the Rev. Mr. Solin was badly bruised, when the automobile in which they were making a trip by way of Houston and San Diego to San Francisco, got out of control and plunged over a fifty-foot bank on the Torrey Pines grade, north of this city.

CZECH CROWN NOW POOR SPECULATION

PREMIER UNABLE TO MAKE GOOD ON PROMISE TO REDUCE DEFICIT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PRAGUE, Sept. 24.—The Czech crown, which earlier was considered one of the best speculations in the European exchange market and showed an extraordinary improvement, has suffered a considerable relapse in the last few days. Premier Benes's return from Geneva seems to indicate the cause.

It was announced in the Tribuna that M. Benes had returned to help correct the deficit in the state budget, amounting to 1,250,000,000 crowns, and especially to cut the military appropriations. The Premier had promised the deficit would not exceed 500,000,000 crowns, and while it is considered impossible for him to make good this promise, and though the retirement of the government seems to be assured, it is likely to be postponed until the Geneva negotiations have ended.

ECZEMA ON HAND IN BLISTERS

Burned and Was Painful. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema broke out on the palm of my hand in blisters. Later the blisters broke and were so sore that I could not open my hand. It burned and was so painful that I could not put my hand in water. I had to keep it bandaged for over a month.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I could see an improvement so purchased more, and when I had used one cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Clara Axe, Myrtle Point, Ore.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. K, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

It's Neuritis! NOT RHEUMATISM

That sharp, stabbing pain in the upper arm, about the shoulder blade, in the nape of the neck, along the forearm or down the thigh and leg, is often Neuritis—not Rheumatism.

If you have severe frontal headache with a feeling that something is twitching or pulling at the eyelids—a dull aching pain in the back, accompanied by an occasional shooting pain in the side—numbness or tingling in the fingers or "stitches" of pain here and there, the chances are that your trouble is Neuritis.

No matter where your pain is located, you can get prompt relief without taking bromides, narcotics or other dope. Take a few Tremol Tablets in hot water according to directions. Tremol is guaranteed harmless. It helps to soothe and heal the weak, inflamed nerves.

HARDING FEELS REST NEEDED

President Reported Saying "Too Much Congress"

Plans Being Made to Speed Up Short Session

Time on Important Bills Up to House

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—President Harding, his party helmsmen at the Capitol, and the administration heads generally are virtually agreed, it was learned today, that the country needs "a rest from Congress." Too many sessions and too long sessions in recent years, they have about decided have literally fed up the people on Congress and legislation and have entirely killed the old stimulus to business industry and the public mind that formerly accompanied the calling together of a Congress. The result is that there is an almost unanimous feeling here that the government's business must be so arranged that the legislative slate may be cleaned up by March 4 of next year in order that there may be a long period, possibly until the following December, of Congressional inactivity.

This program is vouched for by Chairman Martin Madden of the House appropriations committee upon whom rests a large share of the responsibility for its accomplishment, inasmuch as the big work of the short session which ordinarily will open on December 4 will be the Federal appropriation bills for the next fiscal year.

It is pointed out that in addition to a possible restoration of the old significance which attended the gathering of the representatives and Senators at the Capitol, a long vacation from Congress next year would undoubtedly be a "salve for the 1924 election."

LITTLE IN SIGHT

The major portion of the administration's legislative program is already out of the way. The attention of the winter session will be occupied only with the money bills for government expenditures, the ship subsidy bill and a few less important measures, and with these disposed of there will be no real need for holding Congress here, it is declared.

President Harding's discussion a few days ago with Speaker Gillett, Republican leader Mondell and others of the possibility of a special session to be called about the middle of November had the sole purpose, it is said, of providing for the long recess.

PLANS ARRANGED

Chairman Madden's view is that no special short session is in advance of the regular convening on December 4, will be necessary. He is remaining at his desk until the first of next month to lay the groundwork for the appropriation measures and has notified the thirty-five members of the Appropriations Committee to return to Washington on November 10 to begin the actual work of drafting the bills. Although the estimates from Gen. Lord, the director of the budget, are not legally required until the day Congress meets in regular session, all needed data will be in the hands of the committee sometime before that date and five of the eleven principal appropriation bills will be ready for consideration by the House, without a minute's delay, according to Rep. Madden's program.

These five, which he said may easily be sent on to the Senate by January 10, putting much of this sort of work out of the way and leaving plenty of time for consideration of the shipping bill and other measures, are the Treasury, Army Navy Agriculture and commerce and labor bills.

UP TO HOUSE

"By the time these five money bills are passed," said Chairman Madden, "there will be five more ready and it will be entirely up to the House how long it takes for the disposal of the appropriations.

"In any event whether there is a special session or not the appropriation bills will be ready for the House and there is no reason why the session should not get away by March 4."

MOVE STARTS TO AID DISABLED VETERANS

SURVEY PLANNED TO SETTLE WHETHER MEN CAN BE SENT HOME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—One of the important steps undertaken by the United States Veterans' Bureau to improve the condition of ex-service men has been started in Ohio upon the recommendation of the Federal Board of Hospitalization, of which Gen. Sawyer is chief co-ordinator, and soon will be extended to every section of the country.

Details of the scheme were announced today by C. Hamilton Cook, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, following a conference with government officials. Briefly, the plan provides for a survey of every patient to determine:

What cases can best be treated by allowing them to enjoy the normal environment of their homes, and sending all such to their homes without any reduction in the compensation allowed by the government.

What changes in treatment or hospitals are desirable for those patients whose ailments best can be treated in a hospital.

How the medical attention for all permanent patients can be improved so that the most scientific and sympathetic treatment can be given every one with the aim of bringing about ultimate recovery.

Brig.-Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, chairman of the Federal Hospitalization Board, and Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the Veterans' Bureau, are both in hearty accord with the plan, and it also has the approval of President Harding.

FRAU KAISER'S GEMS STOLEN

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH. (Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger)]

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—Frau Kaiser, widow of a German diplomat who once headed the Imperial Department of Colonies, laments the loss of several pounds of barbaric gold ornaments presented her in bygone days by the Sultan of Zanibar, and a large collection of jewelry, antiques, decorations, silver, etc., accumulated during her husband's diplomatic career.

Frau Kaiser took a walk yesterday. Thieves then climbed in by a window. They made off with her diadem, armlets and chains, which are understood to once have decked the person of the Sultan's favorite. The loss is placed at more than $500,000.

ARIZONA REPUBLICANS TO CLASH, FORECAST

SHAKE-UP IN STATE COMMITTEE POSSIBLE AT MEET THIS MORNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—The Republican and Democratic State committees meet in Phoenix Monday morning for organization. In the former is a sharp contest for control. The main issue is whether there shall be continuance of the present organization selected with Gov. Campbell's support a couple of months ago in a meeting at Tucson, where Judge Peter T. Overfield of Pinal county was named chairman; Roy Davidson of Yavapai, secretary, and Dr. John Dennett of Phoenix, treasurer.

Yesterday the Maricopa county convention was captured by the opposition interest and Fritz Holmquist, Assistant State Engineer, was named chairman, while a large majority of the fifty-eight delegates then selected to the State meeting are understood favorable to the election of State Engineer Tom Maddock as State committee chairman, a position he has filled before. Present indications are that unless the Governor intervenes Maddock will be successful. In the struggle are echoes of the late Phoenix city campaign.

The Democratic State Committee is to be organized according to the wishes of the gubernatorial nominee, George W. P. Hunt, if it expresses any preference. Judge R. W. Stanford is understood to have been dropped as a possibility for the chairmanship, with the office now likely to go either to E. W. Samuels, who was Gov. Hunt's primary campaign manager, or to Duane Bird of Nogales, late Arizona department commander of the American Legion. There is suggestion also of Judge Francis J. Duffy of Tucson, who was chairman of the State Democratic convention at Tucson. The Maricopa county delegation to the committee meeting mainly is composed of Hunt supporters. As county chairman Don N. Babbitt of Mesa has been selected. The county convention was notable especially for its large proportion of women members.

SEES CALAMITY IN ADDITIONAL TAXES

TREASURY EXECUTIVE SAYS GOVERNMENT MUST CUT EXPENDITURES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—That it would be a national calamity to impose additional taxes upon the American people to meet the estimated government deficit of $672,000,000 for the current fiscal year is the opinion of S. P. Gilbert, Jr., Undersecretary of the Treasury, writing in the October number of The Nation's Business on the subject of the nation's finances.

Mr. Gilbert issues the warning, however, that if there is persistence in any program of expenditure beyond the limits of the government's income there would be no other course open than the introduction of new taxes to restore the balance.

"To reduce the deficit, and if possible to eliminate it by the end of the year," Mr. Gilbert points out, "is the end toward which the whole administration is striving, and the best hope of accomplishing it will be through increased revenues from realization on securities and surplus property and more particularly in further reductions in expenditure.

"Nothing can be clearer than that this effort was to itself and to the rest of the world to keep its finances clear and to make every effort to balance its budget in 1923 and 1924 as successfully as in the previous fiscal years. The sound way to accomplish this is to reduce expenditures and to avoid new avenues of expenditure to such an extent as may be necessary to wipe out the indicated deficits."

TOMBSTONES ARE NO LONGER LUXURIES

COUNCIL OF STATE RULES GERMANS ARE NOW FREE OF TAX

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—Tombstones by official decision no longer are a luxury in Germany. The Council of State has stroken them from the list of articles under special sales tax. Pianos, unless in rare woods like ebony, and a long list of articles in daily use like china, textiles, etc., on which the Germans heretofore have been compelled to pay a heavy luxury tax, also have been cut from the list.

The government simultaneously with lessening the burden of taxation in this respect voted a 50 per cent increase in salaries to government employees to meet the increased cost of living resulting from the mark's depreciation.

AIR TRAGEDY INQUIRY SET

Cause of Crash Killing Six Board's Objective

One of Victims Reported to be Stowaway

Photographs of Big Bomber to be Studied

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINEOLA (N. Y.) Sept. 24.—Preparations were under way today for an Army board inquiry into the crash of a Martin bombing plane which killed six Army men at Mitchell field last night at the conclusion of the mimic air attack on the land forces at the cantonment. Maj. Weaver, commanding the field, will appoint a board of Army officers tomorrow to hold an inquiry into the crash, the cause of which, it was said, probably never would be known.

One of the six victims, it was reported unofficially at the field, was a "stowaway." Those killed were:

First Lieut. Raymond E. Davis, a regular Army pilot of Langley Field, Va.

First Sergt. Thomas Benfield of Chicago.

Corp. David H. Stivens of New York.

Private Henry J. Nichols, Route 8, Carr Hill, Tex.

Private Irving M. Whitney of Ashburnham, Mass.

All but Lieut. Davis were stationed at Mitchell Field.

ONE UNASSIGNED

An unofficial check-up of post assignments of the victims of the tragedy failed to show that he had been assigned as one of the men to man the bomber in her single turn of the field.

The point most often stressed by Army officers in discussing the tragedy is that the bomber was beyond the field of powerful searchlights, which were used by the "blue" or defensive forces in the maneuvers. It was at first believed that Davis had become blinded by the brilliancy of the shaft of light which crisscrossed the dark skies.

Officers also disbelieved that the purple land mist which drifted down Long Island had in any way confused Davis, who was recognized as one of the best fliers of bombing planes in the air service.

"Just another one of those air tragedies which probably will never be explained," Maj. Weaver said in his brief official announcement of the accident.

Photography is expected to play a large part in the inquiries to be conducted into the accident. Men of the Fourteenth Photographic section, headquarters of which is at Mitchell Field, were on the scene and had been making night pictures of the maneuvers for records at Washington.

LAST PICTURE STUDIED

A picture was made, it was said, of the bomber a moment before she banked. Photographs also taken of the wrecked plane after the crash, before the wreckage was cleared away. Scores of persons, however, hunting for souvenirs who flocked to the field today, dug parts of the plane out of the ground.

Explaining the application of the term "stowaway" to Private Whitney, it was said that there are any number of privates and noncommissioned officers stationed at the flying field who have never had time in the air. Many of these men entered the service in the belief that flying would become an everyday occurrence in their lives. When they found, instead, that their lives were filled from reveille to taps with an endless round of humdrum details, which seldom take them inside an airplane hangar, no opportunity is lost of "going up." Whitney, it is believed, hopped into the plane in the last minute and during the excitement of taking off.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at Mitchell Field for the six victims, after which their bodies will be shipped to their homes.

WOODRUFF OUT AFTER DAUGHERTY EVIDENCE

BACKS IMPEACHMENT MOVE BY SEEKING WAR-FRAUD CASE MATERIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Additional evidence designed to establish laxity on the part of Atty.-Gen. Daugherty in prosecuting war-fraud cases will be sought by Representative Woodruff, Republican of Michigan, during the short adjournment of Congress. Mr. Woodruff, who, with Representative Johnson, Republican of South Dakota, demanded investigation by a House committee last spring of the Attorney-General's conduct of the war cases, plans to present testimony to the Judiciary Committee in support of the Daugherty impeachment resolution submitted by Representative Keller, Republican of Minnesota.

While Mr. Keller asked removal of Mr. Daugherty from office principally on the ground he had obtained a Federal Court injunction against striking railroad shopmen which violated constitutional prerogatives of free speech and freedom of assemblage, his resolution mentioned alleged failure of the Department of Justice to prosecute the war cases.

Mr. Woodruff, it was stated by friends here after his return home, hopes to be able to present the same evidence submitted to the House last spring, and at the same time add evidence gathered while the House was not in session. The investigation resolution was killed in the Rules Committee shortly after it was introduced.

VICTIM OF PARALYSIS

Creación de una Corte Industrial Federal

WASHINGTON, septiembre 24. El Diputado Homer Hoch, de Kansas, Estado donde se originó el primer plan de Tribunal Industrial, ha sometido formalmente al Congreso un proyecto de ley para el establecimiento de dicho tribunal, según la idea aplicada en Kansas; pero llevado al terreno federal. Este tribunal dilucidaría las disputas ferrocarrileras.

En vista de que el Congreso tiene ya jurisdicción sobre las vías férreas, el Diputado Hoch ha limitado el proyecto que somete a las disputas ferrocarrileras; pero se comprende claramente que si se promulgara esa ley para calmar la intranquilidad y las desavenencias ferroviarias, constituiría esto la entrada de la cuña para ampliar estas facultades reguladoras y aplicarlas a las dificultades industriales de todas clases, que pueden clasificarse como amenazas para el bienestar público.

Lloyd George Insiste en la Neutralidad del Estrecho

LONDRES, septiembre 24.—Hoy en la noche confirmó Lloyd George la enfática insistencia con que afirmó esta tarde que la importancia del mantenimiento de la neutralidad del estrecho de los Dardanelos era absolutamente vital para la Gran Bretaña. En fuentes oficiales se declaró que era inquebrantable la política británica sobre este punto; pero que la Tracia era mirada como cuestión de menos importancia para el Imperio, y que la Gran Bretaña pidía las reclamaciones turcas "generosa y desapasionadamente."

LLOYD GEORGE EXPLAINS

Severe Criticism of Premier's Secrecy Brings Him to Statement on Position

BY SIDNEY THATCHER
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The Lloyd George government, suffering the roughest criticism it has had on any subject since the armistice at home and in the eastern possessions, and treated with dignified reserve in its dominions, today threw aside its reticence and in a statement the Premier, after a hurried Cabinet meeting, explained its position.

What he stated he wants is "freedom of an effective character" for the straits to prevent the spread of war to Europe and for the League of Nations to take the job of maintaining the freedom of the Dardanelles. He held a brief for neither the Turks nor the Greeks in their fighting.

ANSWERS CRITICS

Lloyd George has effectively answered those critics, who demanded an explanation from the government, but it hardly can be expected the more vociferous ones, who derided his idea of the whole business, will be satisfied with his statement that "we are taking the most effective means of averting war."

Nothing was said about the invitation to Canada and South Africa to join in, but he said Australia and New Zealand had been asked to, because he believed they want to get in on anything that would protect the land—Gallipoli—where troops from their dominions made such sacrifices.

The statement today seemed to be the culmination of a change of policy of the government toward the public that has developed within two or three days. At first the people simply were told that the government was making war-like preparations, but all information in this connection was carefully guarded.

HELD TO SECRECY

A delegation representing labor waited upon the Premier to ascertain what it was all about, and were sworn to secrecy about what he told them. They maintained it, which brought added criticism. The departure of different military contingents was widely heralded, while at the Admiralty it was no trouble to ascertain that when the Revenge gets to the straits the British will have sixty 13.5-inch guns and eight 15-inch guns, which will give the navy ample weapons to prevent Kemal from planting any guns powerful enough to seriously affect the fleet.

While Premier Lloyd George did not back down one iota from the stand taken in the bombshell "semiofficial" statement of exactly a week ago, his action in again addressing the press is interpreted as listening to the public clamor for more information.

The question as to what Great Britain may want at the peace conference in view of playing a lone hand is being heard now and then. Next Thursday the Hindus in London will hold a meeting to protest against keeping the Turks out of Constantinople and Adrianople, which will be attended by several tited Indians residing here.

BORAH GOING INTO BATTLE

Senator's Political Future Hinges on Idaho Fight for Re-enactment of Primary

BY ROBERT BARRY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Senator Borah of Idaho is going back to Idaho next Wednesday to wage the greatest personal political battle of his career. He is to return to fight his own party with hammer and tongs. Although not a candidate this year, the outcome may determine whether he is to serve another term in the United States Senate. The issue is to be the direct primary law.

The Republican party of Idaho anticipated in 1920 the program of President Harding, Secretary Weeks, Senator Watson of Indiana and other national leaders to kill direct primaries. It brought about repeal of the State primary law by the Legislature. The Republican State platform this year stands pat on that action in a "point with pride" plank.

Senator Borah knows full well he could not be re-elected to the Senate in 1924 by an organization-controlled Legislature. He wouldn't have a chance. They know it. He knows it. He proposes to fight his party now instead of two years hence. His campaign is to be directed toward election of candidates to the Legislature who pledge themselves to re-enactment of a primary law.

WILL IGNORE PARTY LINES

He will disregard party lines. A Democratic candidate favoring the primary will be supported by the Senator over a Republican against it. His chief desire will be to elect "progressive" Republicans who are opposed to this "return to the old order." Senator Borah believes it possible to have chosen a "progressive" and Democratic majority that will restore the primary system.

Defeated this year, he would expect to be steam-rollered out of the Senate in 1924 by the party machine. Defeated this year, he probably would not be a candidate for the Senate in 1924.

Senator Borah was re-elected in 1918 in the direct primary and election without a contest worthy of the name. He never campaigned in the Senate. Now he is in very bad with the G.O.P. organization because of his brilliant fight against the soldiers' bonus bill and his vote against high tariff duties on sugar and wool. His colleague, Gooding, voted the sentiment of Idaho on those measures.

Aside from the interest attaching to Mr. Booth's personality, the Idaho fight will compel added attention because it will afford a test of popular sentiment on the direct primary system against which President Harding and Secretary Weeks have declared open opposition.

WON'T LEAD THIRD PARTY

Furthermore, there has been widespread agitation lately to have the Senator undertake to lead a third party movement. That he has refused steadfastly to do. Although practicing individualism in the Senate he has remained "regular" in national campaign years.

He was fond of Roosevelt personally, but he refused to bolt Taft in 1912. In 1918 he could have prevented organization of the Senate by Republicans. Although opposed to and critical of Senator Penrose, his vote gave the Pennsylvanian the chairmanship of the finance committee.

His present determination to ignore party lines in his effort to restore the direct primary in Idaho is regarded as touching closely on political developments in other States. Democratic and Republican labels no longer mean anything in Wisconsin. It is La Follette and anti-La Follette, radical and conservative. In North Dakota it is Nonpartisan League and Anti-league. In Missouri it is very largely Reed and anti-Reed. In Texas where Republicans and Independent Democrats are united against the regular Democratic nominee it is Ku Klux Klan and anti-Ku Klux Klan.

BLOOD TO TELL PATERNITY

Husband of Mrs. Tiernan Will Go to Chicago for Test to Determine Child's Parentage

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Sept. 24.—Not a pound of flesh, but a drop of blood, may become the pivotal point in the Tiernan-Poulin paternity case, which tomorrow begins its second week of hearing before City Judge Chester Ducomb.

Shylock demanded that he be given his pound of flesh. Prof. John P. Tiernan asks that he be permitted to offer a drop of his own blood, in order to prove scientifically that he is not the father of his wife's third child, whose fatherhood Mrs. Augusta H. Tiernan charges to Harry Poulin.

Prof. Tiernan this afternoon said that he was going to Chicago Wednesday to confer with Dr. Albert Abrams, San Francisco scientist, whose evidence in a case involving the identification of children through similarity of blood corpuscles has obtained a legal standing in California.

SEEKS BLOOD TEST

Commenting upon the statement of counsel for the defense, that we'd like to see anybody get a drop of Harry Poulin's blood unless they assaulted him," Prof. Tiernan said.

"It will probably be impossible to compel Mr. Poulin to submit to a blood test. But I am making arrangements to have a test made of my blood and the baby's. The result will show whether I am the father of the child.

"I wired Dr. Adams about this case several weeks ago and he replied that he would confer with me Wednesday in Chicago. My conference is in preparation for the higher court trial and in all probability will not affect this preliminary hearing."

Prosecutor Floyd O. Jellison today said that the State's case is sufficiently strong legally to make any consideration of a blood test for paternity entirely unnecessary.

Harry Poulin declares himself more than ever ready to take the stand tomorrow morning and refute "absolutely" the testimony of Mrs. Tiernan regarding their alleged misconduct which, she charged, resulted in the birth of the baby, whose paternity the court is to determine.

Mr. Poulin is especially anxious to "explain this thing now," he said

COX CHAMPION OF NATIONS' LEAGUE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Sept. 24.—In the first speech since his return from Europe and since his campaign two years ago, James M. Cox, Democratic Presidential candidate in 1920, who championed the League of Nations in that campaign, in an address before the City Club yesterday again came forth as its champion.

The former Governor of Ohio laid the responsibility for the crisis in the Near East at the door of the United States, calling this nation's refusal since November, 1920, to take part in world affairs "base betrayal by America of her Allies." Practically his last word on this subject, replying to a question from the floor, following his address, was that participation in the league will be an issue in 1924's Presidential race.

JAPONETTE

BY ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS.

James Edgerton returns from Paris, and finds that the house of Edgerton, Tennant & Co., from which he has derived his income, has failed, leaving him practically penniless. Arriving in New York he goes to his club and resigns. Thence to his apartment, left a year previously in care of a janitor. Upon entering he finds the apartment occupied by two young women, Diana and Silvette Tennant, distant cousins, likewise left stranded financially by the failure of the firm. Edgerton, upon entering his own apartment, is mistaken for a burglar by Diana, and she threatens to call the janitor and begs him to leave at once. He asks for an explanation. Diana explains. Then her sister, Silvette, appears on the scene and insists upon Edgerton's remaining and occupying the spare room. The Tennant sisters have taken the apartment for the purpose of advertising for engagements as social entertainers. Edgerton proposes that he be allowed to join the group, his name, with its social prestige, and the charm and beauty of his cousins being sure, he insists, to attract newly-made millionaires, thus insuring the trio a comfortable income. The young women agree, and a Mr. Rivett calls, accompanied by Colonel Curmew. An agreement is quickly reached, and the trio arranges to go to the Rivett home in the Berkshires for the summer to assist the millionaire and his wife in entertaining their guests. After the departure of Rivett, the cousins exchange personal confidences. Edgerton christens Diana Japonette and the first stages of a love affair develops.

"Jim," she remarked, "isn't it rather bad taste of you to say that?"

"Why? I am paid for being here." But he realized that she was right, and it made him sullen.

"His roof shelters you none the less," she said quietly.

"Yours is rather a fine-drawn sense of hospitality, it seems to me," he retorted.

"All right," he said, reddening; "only I supposed I could be frank with you."

"Are we actually on any such footing?" she asked quietly.

"I thought so—even a footing on which I permit myself to accept such a rebuke from you."

She turned in her saddle.

"Permit yourself?" she repeated. "Do you mean condescend?"

"I mean what I say," he retorted sulkily, still smarting under her rebuke.

Her cheeks were bright with anger, her lips compressed as though silence had become an effort. Presently, however, she looked across at him with perfect sweetness and composure.

"No, you don't mean what you say, Jim. If you did, you would be at a disadvantage with me, and you don't want to be that; nor do I wish to be, ever."

He said obstinately: "I'm getting sick of this Adriutha business."

"I think," she said, smiling, "that you are also a little bit bored with us."

"Diana," he said, impulsively, "I'm just a plain brute and rather a vulgar one; but, do you know, there isn't anybody else in the world I'd have permitted to hear that outburst—whether you take it as a compliment or not."

"You mean you don't care what I think of you?"

"You might, very easily."

"I couldn't; I do care what you think of me. Probably what I meant was that I—dare say things to you; that I've a sort of instinct that I can come to you in an emergency—"

"In other words, that I'll stand anything from you?" she said, smiling. "I don't know about that, my friend."

He looked at her curiously. "I believe you'll stand a good deal from me—and still like me. I, somehow, count on it."

She met his gaze directly, unsmiling now.

"A hair divides my sentiments concerning you," she said. "Extremes I'e on either side."

"Extremes?"

"I think so. It would take very little to fix definitely my opinion of you."

"Extremes of what?"

"Dislikes—friendship—I suppose. . . . I'm a person addicted to extremes."

"Hatred is one extreme. Did you mean that, Japonette?"

"It is conceivable, fair sir."

"And—the other extreme?"

"Which?"

"The opposite extreme to hate. . . . Is that conceivable, too?"

"Do you mean love?" she asked coolly.

"Yes, love, for example."

"Well, for example, ask yourself how likely I am to entertain that sentimental extreme in your regard."

"Oh," he said, "then all you threaten me with is hatred!"

"Absolutely all, cousin James."

"Hobson's choice for mine. No matter how agreeable I may be, placid friendship is my only reward, and if I'm not agreeable, hatred. Is that it?"

"Are you not satisfied?" she asked, lifting her prettily-shaped eyes.

He made no reply.

That afternoon there was some tennis played; a number of commonplace and very rich people departed, leaving as residue the original house party which Edgerton and his cousins had found there on their arrival.

Thus, Judge Wicklow, Mrs. Rivett and Mrs. Larrimore played Chinese Kahn under the terrace awning; Col. Wollis Curmew, who had been rash enough to discard his coat and reveal an unlooked-for excess of abdomen, played tennis with Silvette against Jack Rivett and Mrs. Wemyss; Mr. Rivett and Mr. Snaith indulged in laborious clock golf and talked of oil, and Christine and Edgerton, down by the river's edge, continued a conversation begun the evening previously, and which was near enough to meaning something to stimulate their attention.

Later the game ended, Mrs. Larrimore victorious, and His Honor unusually peevish. Mrs. Rivett rose and, advancing to the terrace edge, gazed down at the river bank, where her daughter and Edgerton still sat in the floating canoe, holding it inshore by grasping willow branches overhead.

For a few moments the little old lady watched them, one hand gathering the fleece shawl over the magnificent sapphire at her breast; then she turned quietly away into the house, wandering through it from one gorgeous room to another until at last she came to the high organ.

Here her husband found her in the semidusk, sitting motionless and silent under the tall pipes, hands folded in her lap.

"Well, mother?" he said in a voice which nobody else ever had the privilege of listening to.

She lifted her head, smiled and laid one hand over his as he seated himself beside her in the semi-twilight.

"Are you happy?" he asked, patting the worn fingers.

"Yes, Jacob—when you and the children are."

"The Tennant girls are so kind to me."

"Why the devil shouldn't they be?" he said harshly. "They never met a better woman!"

"Jacob, dear, don't speak that way."

"Well, then—don't be so eternally surprised if people are nice to you, mother. They'd better be!"

She smiled. "I am a rather plain and unattractive old woman to young people—to most people. I have little to say, but Diana Tennant and her sister are very sweet to me. Poor, motherless girls! I wonder—it troubles me—sometimes—a great deal—"

ENGLISHMAN SCOLDS AMERICA OVER DEBT

BRITISH EDITOR FINDS FAULT WITH US FOR ASKING ABOUT PAYMENTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Sept. 24.—Hon. Harold Spender, editor of the Westminster Gazette, a member of the delegation from England and Canada representing the Sulgrave Institution, took the United States to task tonight for demanding payment from England of war debts.

In a speech following a banquet tendered the visitors Mr. Spender declared "the only thing we hear from Washington in this time of stress and danger is that you want us to pay the money we owe."

He declared that the American people did not realize the tragic nature of the developments in Turkey, and he pictured England as standing alone "in one of the greatest crises in history."

The party included Sir Charles Wakefield, former Lord Mayor of London, and Lady Wakefield; Sir Arthur Haworth, Member of Parliament, and Lady Haworth and others.

BILL OFFERED FOR BOUNTY ON COTTON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Sept. 24.—Word from Washington tells that Senator Ralph H. Cameron of Arizona has offered a bill granting a bounty of 10 cents a pound on long-staple cotton; this to be in lieu of the failure to given protection in the tariff bill from which the conference removed a 7-cent duty on imported long staples. Gov. Campbell and scores of prominent Arizonans have wired the leading Republican members of the Senate and House of Representatives to effect that, without protection from Egyptian imports, the bounty now is a dire necessity if a basic agricultural industry of Arizona is to be saved. There is an indefinite impression that the lack of a duty will mean almost complete abandonment of the Pima cotton growing industry in the Salt River Valley where have been erected gins capable of caring for 200,000 acres of crop, while there also are several large cotton oil factories and an immense cotton compress is nearing completion.

PAIR NABBED FOR FLEECING CHINESE

MANN ACT CHARGE MAY BE FILED BY ARIZONA AUTHORITIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—Robert Ryan and John Derwae are in custody here on a charge of securing money under false pretences. Ryan may be charged with the violation of the Mann Act in connection with Lula Hugill, a girl who gives her home as Blue Springs, Mo., the authorities assert. She tells that the three traveled by auto and have operated in El Paso and near-by towns. At Lordsburg the machine broke down and was left.

Police state that the men have been representing themselves as officers of the Associated Christian Volunteers, an organization said to have its headquarters in St. Louis and to operate along lines similar to those of the Salvation Army. Inquiry in St. Louis fails to develop information concerning the Volunteers.

The pair is said to have visited Chinese merchants in the various towns and on representations of having Federal backing to have secured money. From nine such merchants here was secured $5. The tenth approached here consulted the police and the arrests followed.

MOTORCYCLE SPEEDING RESULTS IN DEATH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—John Gorzeff, injured last Saturday night on the Jerome highway, has died in Mercy Hospital.

He and Theodore Kolis, Bulgarians, were approaching Prescott at an estimated speed of seventy-five miles an hour, Kolis bouncing in a side car attached to Gorzeff's motorcycle, when the machine was overturned.

Kolis, who was thrown clear and who suffered little from his experience, told "the gait was so swift that I simply closed my eyes and trusted to luck. So I don't know much about the cause of the accident."

SWELL BILLIARD ROOM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Ex-Baikline Billiard Champion Willie Hoppe has spent over $100,000 fitting up his Broadway establishment. It has forty-three tables.

A Livable Living Room

The living room should be a most livable room—comfortable and attractive. A restful effect is obtained with a neutral tint for the walls and the woodwork treated with a dark stain. The floor should also be dark. Richly figured rugs on the floor and harmonizing drapes at the windows afford contrast. Spots of color may be obtained by means of a bowl of flowers, silk pillows on the window seat or a picture.

Mathews Products To Use

MATHEWS WALLPAPER of numerous varieties, or MATHEWS PLASTONA FLAT WALL PAINT in several tints will supply the proper covering for the walls. Pratt & Lambert's Varnishes for the wood work and floors is the only other finish you need.

STAND FIRM FOR JUSTICE

American Plan Good Enough for Bakersfield

Open Shop Declared Benefit to Everyone

Want Peace on Basis of Square Deal

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 24.—Declaring that the Industrial Association of Bakersfield wants peace, "and wants it as badly as anyone," but that the association will not retract "one iota" from determined prosecution of its American plan policy, and asserting that the reported proposition of paying Richard V. Fisher $3500 for six weeks' services to lead a better industrial relations campaign here is not a feasible or sensible one, F. N. Scofield, president of the Industrial Association, last night issued a statement defining the stand of the employers' organization on the open-shop versus closed-shop fight in this city.

Mr. Scofield took issue with statements made by Mr. Fisher to the effect that better industrial relations workers in San Jose had brought about satisfactory termination of the open-shop controversy there. The association head here stated that he has a letter from the Industrial Association of San Jose informing him that "the present agreement as presented there is not satisfactory and that the Industrial Association cannot accept the same and they will continue their efforts to fight for the American plan, pure and simple."

That does not look to me," the statement continued, "like the industrial relations people are doing anything for San Jose. I also have the agreement, which certainly would not be satisfactory to the Industrial Association of Bakersfield."

The local executive predicted that "in the very near future" employees of members of the Industrial Association will have a voice in the election of the association board of trustees. Regarding this the statement says:

"It (the Industrial Association) proposes to see that the workingman and woman get a fair living wage.' This is taken care of by the board of trustees. The board of trustees consists of a man from every craft and business represented in the membership of this association. That in itself should satisfy anyone that the workingman or woman will have a square deal, for it certainly is not to the interest of the majority of these trustees that anyone should work for less than a living wage, otherwise the goods of the merchants and business men would remain on the shelf with no buying power.

MAY CHANGE METHOD

"Suppose that the men working for the members of the Industrial Association had a voice in the election of these trustees, who set the wage scale and working conditions? Then would you say that the workingmen would have a square deal? I believe that that condition will be brought about in the very near future."

Mr. Scofield announced that the Builders' Exchange of Bakersfield passed a resolution to keep in force for another year present wage scales and working conditions in the building trades. "The trustees of the Industrial Association will approve of the resolution," the association executive declared, "and there will be no cut in the wages in the building trades of this city for another year."

SAYS FEW WITHDRAWALS

The statement claims that the Industrial Association membership totals "nearly 400," and that withdrawals from it can be counted "on the fingers of one hand." Vigorous denial is made of reports that members of the association are dissatisfied with the organization and with its methods in waging the fight against the closed shop.

"Bakersfield is an American plan town," Mr. Scofield declares, "and our members would not go back to the closed shop under any consideration whatever."

"We want peace," the statement concludes, "and we want it as badly as anybody, but we want peace with justice, and when we get that we will shake hands with any union man and all work hand in hand for a bigger and better Bakersfield."

FUNDS FOR RAISIN MEN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Sept. 24.—Means of funding the 1922 raisin crop were provided Thursday afternoon in agreement made between the Sun Maid Raisin Growers' Association and local banks, F. A. Seymour, general manager, announced yesterday.

Under the agreement the local financial institutions will provide funds for payment as deliveries start to come in. This will permit continuance of the usual partial payments following delivery.

Until the entire crop is sold and adjustments made next fall this year's returns will not be definitely known. First payments will be on a basis of 4 cents a pound on delivery.

DESPERADO KILLS HIMSELF

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Sept. 24.—Cornered by the police after an all-night search, following his shooting of Mrs. Marianna Laxargue, Marino Martinez, aged 38, committed suicide early yesterday morning as officers were breaking into a room at 1204 Tulares treet, where he had gone into hiding. Believing that he had killed Mrs. Marianna Laxargue, during an argument over a card game Thursday night, Martinez sought to hide at the home of a friend. The woman was seriously wounded, being struck four times. Her wounds will not prove fatal, physicians report.

FRESNO FAIR OPENS

FRESNO, Sept. 24.—Bigger and Better than ever, the Fresno District Fair will swing open its gates tomorrow morning at the fair grounds here to call throngs from all sections of the San Joaquin Valley for a week. New buildings have been added, exhibit space has been greatly increased and predictions are made that the event will be nearly on a par with the State fair at Sacramento.

Daily horse racing will be a feature and the crowning event will be the San Joaquin Valley classic race Saturday in which a dozen drivers will compete on the one-mile board speedway here.

BANKS HOLD BONDS

FRESNO, Sept. 24.—Bonds taken from the Eagles' Lodge by Roy Marshall, former secretary of the organization, are held by local banks which advanced money to him on them as collateral, according to a statement by Herbert F. Briggs, attorney for the lodges. Briggs said that the lodge may bring action to reclaim the Liberty bonds if it is possible.

Marshall, who evaded arrest here and went to Mexico pleaded guilty to a grand jury indictment charging embezzlement and asked for probation.

LOOK FOR JOBS

FRESNO, Sept. 24.—Numerous applications are being received by George R. Lovejoy, who will take office January 1, as district attorney for Fresno county, for positions in his department, he said today. He announced that he would not name his deputies for some time. It is understood that part of the office staff under District Attorney B. W. Gearhart may be retained.

WOMAN TO FLY IN POSTAL AIRPLANE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Postmaster-General Work today granted permission to Miss Lillian Gatlin of San Francisco to fly across the continent in one of the air mail service airplanes as part of a movement of honor the "Gold Star" mothers of aviators, Miss Gatlin, the department stated, would be the first woman to fly across the United States.

Assistant Postmaster - General Henderson, in charge of the air mail service, will join Miss Gatlin when she reaches Detroit.

No date for the trip had been set.

ARIZONA PRISONERS WORK SHOE FACTORY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FLORENCE (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—The State penitentiary, under Warden Tom Rynning, is becoming an industrial center. Eighteen prisoners, with an ample machinery equipment, are making shoes for the prison inmates and for the State Industrial School, while clothing now is being manufactured for all institutional needs. Inmates are encouraged in the learning of trades by which they can support themselves on release. On the prison farm this year was produced 3000 sacks of barley, as well as large supplies of vegetables, while milk is secured from a prison herd of twenty-four cows.

WHO'S TO FEED PETS AT ZOO?

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 24. How to feed the birds and the beasts in the zoo at Murry Park, the city's principal recreation center, is a problem to the city fathers.

Complaints are made concerning the condition of inhabitants at the "zoo." Meat bills run high, pens are said to be ill-kept and the raccoon, owls, hawks, badger, coyote, peacocks and coons are growing tired of each other's society.

Unless some one comes forward with a suggestion to finance further care of the pets, there ain't going to be any "zoo" here, it is said.

WILKENS UP FOR MURDER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Henry Wilkens, automobile repair shop owner, charged with murder in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Anna Wilkens, May 30, last, is scheduled to face trial here tomorrow. Arthur Castor, who, police state, confessed to complicity in the murder, will be the State's chief witness.

Wilkens and his wife were out riding in the evening of May 30, when a fake hold-up is alleged to have been staged by Castor and his brother, Walter Castor, who later committed suicide after killing Detective Tim Baily and Mrs. Anna Downs Castor and wounding Detective Ernest Gable while resisting arrest. Castor in his alleged confession, placed full responsibility for the murder upon Wilkens's shoulders, asserting that he and his brother were hired by Wilkens to kill Mrs. Wilkens.

WOMAN IN CASE

Dist.-Atty. Matthew Brady contends that the motive for the murder was caused by Kilkens's fascination for his sister-in-law, Miss Helen Lange, who, he states, confessed to him that she and Wilkens had been intimate, prior to Mrs. Wilkens's death.

Frank J. Murphy, attorney for Wilkens, declares that the case against Wilkens is a "frame-up," designed to "railroad" him to the gallows. In the trial, Murphy states, he will produce witnesses who will testify that Castor confessed to the murder and that the murder story was a "frame-up."

SECOND CONFESSION

On the other hand, Brady declared he will produce witnesses who will testify that Wilkens confessed to them that he instigated the murder of his wife.

Both the prosecution and the defense expect one of the most bitterly contested murder cases here in years.

The State has ordered a special venire of 150 composed equally of men and women. The prosecution has called more than thirty witnesses, by whom they hope to establish their case against Wilkens, while the defense has subpoenaed almost twice that number. Judge Lewis H. Ward will preside.

ENJOY AUTUMN CAMP

Many Take Advantage of Delightful Weather of First Fall Days; Other Tulare News

GIANT FOREST, Sept. 24.—The autumn season of golden days has opened at Giant Forest. Although many campers have gone, others have come in their place and camp fires twinkle through the Sequoias. The first rains have laid the dust and there is a refreshing tang in the mountain air. Weather records at Giant Forest for August show a mean maximum temperature of 75. deg., a mean minimum of 53 deg., with precipitation of .43 of an inch.

Traffic to the Sequoia during August consisted of 1833 automobiles and 6101 persons, as compared to 1597 cars and 5588 persons in 1921.

Chief Ranger Hopping, with Rangers Gunigen, Clarence Fry, Henry Alles, W. Smith, W. Hankins, F. Door and George Brooks, is patrolling the park line for sportsmen who attempt to kill deer within the park.

Fred McClure of Three Rivers, H. R. Carlton and E. E. Thompson of Visalia were arrested by Ranger Gunigen at Horse Creek, near Hockett Meadows, inside the park boundary, with unsealed firearms. They appeared before Judge Fry at Giant Forest and were assessed fines of $100 and $50, respectively. Under park regulations, the arms were forfeited.

Ranger Smith, at Quinn Horse Camp station, arrested Aaron H. Hitchcock of Ducor for killing a deer on Carmel Mountain, 150 yards within the park boundary. He was fined $50 by Judge Fry.

JURY TO DECIDE

VISALIA, Sept. 24.—Motion of the defense for dismissal of the action against Guy L. Burhman, former cashier of the Lemon Cove Bank, on the ground that the prosecution had failed to prove its point, was denied by Superior Judge J. A. Allen. The judge admitted that the defense's argument was sound, but declared it was for the jury to decide whether Burhman had been guilty of embezzling funds of the bank.

This motion came after a motion of the prosecution asking permission to abandon the third count, asserted embezzlement of $100, which was granted. The District Attorney declared it would be impossible to secure a perfect audit of the bank's books without having almost every record of the bank, some of which were missing. It was also said that the door between the bank and the Honora Realty Company office in the rear of the bank building was rarely closed and was something of a general admittance into space behind the counter. These points were brought out in the contention that a cashier wishing to embezzle would also remove evidence.

The defense argues that only a perfect auditing of the books as of the dates charged can be proof that a shortage actually existed.

FALLS FROM AUTO

TULARE, Sept. 24.—Annette Marr, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Marr, is confined to her home by injuries received in falling from an automobile on West Tulare street. The little girl was standing in the car and fell to the pavement, striking her head, concussion of the brain resulting. The child was taken to her home and immediate surgical attention given, but her condition still remains serious.

FIGHT FIGHTING FLY

VISALIA, Sept. 24.—Congratulatory messages from men high in official life of the State and from officials of various cities have come to the Visalia Welfare Club urging the women to carry on their campaign against the mosquito.

Dr. Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University; Walter H. Nichols, principal of Palo Alto Union High School, and State Board of Health officials have written Mrs. De Witt Montgomery, president of the Visalia Welfare Club, urging the continuance of the work and telling of results attained elsewhere.

Acting on petition of the Visalia Welfare Club, Tulare County Supervisors recently formed the delta mosquito abatement district, including Visalia and surrounding territory.

LOSES LICENSE

TULARE, Sept. 24.—The first high school boy to lose his operator's license since the beginning of school was Clifford Gingerich of Porterville, who pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding before Judge Ward G. Rush of Tulara.

The lad was a minor and came under the Juvenile Court and Judge Rush was unable to sentence him. However, his operator's license was taken up and sent to the Motor Vehicle Department at Sacramento, where at the end of thirty days the youth may receive another on application.

TO "MOTHER" VETERANS

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 24. Members of the Women's Auxiliary of Porterville Post, No. 20, American Legion, will "mother" ten of the disabled veterans in the Palo Alto Hospital.

This action followed report by the auxiliary president, Mrs. Emma Shore, upon a visit to the hospital by the Porterville auxiliary delegate who attended the recent State convention in San Jose.

Letters to the soldiers, eats and other comforts which can be supplied by "mothers" will be a part of their work.

A committee has been appointed to work for the passage of the two soldier measures, No. 1 and and No. 3, on the November election ballots. Mrs. H. C. Carr is chairman and will be assisted by Mmes. Lula Guinn, Charlotte Collins, Anna Richardson, Mary Gibson and Miss Ethel Pratt.

MISSING LAD FOUND DEAD IN WATER TANK

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN JOSE, Sept. 24.—Seven-year-old Johnny Livacich of Los Gatos, twelve miles from here, missing since Friday afternoon, when he was reprimanded by his mother for having lost his hat and coat on the way home from school, was found drowned this afternoon in a water tank in the rear of a neighbor's home. It is not known whether the lad was accidentally drowned or committed suicide.

AMENDMENTS PLANNED FOR ANTI-TRUST LAW

CONGRESSMEN STRIVING WITH IMPROVEMENTS OUTLINED BY HOOVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Amendments to antitrust laws to clear up doubtful points in connection with the activities of trade associations are to be taken up for consideration at the December session of Congress.

Senator Edge, New Jersey, who introduced a bill dealing with the subject last fall, has been perfecting his measure with the co-operation of Secretary of Commerce Hoover and expects to be prepared to press the matter at the opening of the new session.

Before starting hearings Senator Edge plans to introduce a new bill revised to meet the suggestions of Secretary Hoover. This bill is now being put into final form by the legal staff of the Department of Commerce. Secretary Hoover will be one of the chief witnesses at the hearings before the Senate committee.

The bill as favored by Secretary Hoover amends the Clayton Act to permit interstate trade associations to file with a government agency the plan of their operations and the functions they propose to carry on. Upon the approval of such of these functions as do not appear to contravene the restraint of trade acts they may proceed with their operations. If, upon complaint of either of individuals or the law officers of the government that these functions do restrain trade, the right to continue their operations may be suspended after a hearing, and if they continue, the associations shall be subject to prosecution. The associations also may be subject to prosecution if it is shown that they have extended their activities beyond the functions in their original proposals.

It is not made obligatory that trade associations avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining governmental approval of their plans. Failing to get such approval, however, they must assume full responsibility for their own interpretations of antitrust laws.

Secretary Hoover does not propose that large corporations whose activities may infringe upon antitrust laws shall be able to obtain immunity through any such scheme as suggested for the trade associations.

DEADLOCK LOOMS IN MILEAGE BOOK PLAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—With nearly 100 large railroads questioning the constitutionality of the act directing the Interstate Commerce Commission to require the railroads to issue mileage books at just and reasonable rates, and approximately 350 small railroad companies prepared to ask exemption from the act, commercial travelers' organizations will not have easy sailing when they appear before the commission on Tuesday to urge the issuance of mileage books at reduced rates.

Railroads which have notified the commission they will ask exemption from any order it may issue contend that their passenger revenues will not permit any reduction in passenger fares. The same argument was made by the railroads when the legislation was under consideration by Congress. A number of railroads have informed the commission that the expense of issuing mileage books and the necessary accounting in connection therewith would have a vital effect on their passenger revenues.

BILL PROPOSES RAILROAD COURT

Federal Industrial Tribunal Aim of Measure

Kansas Man Would Abolish Labor Board

Says Present Peace is Only "Patched Up"

BY GRAFTON WILCOX

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Establishment of an industrial court, the Kansas idea in a Federal field—to deal with railroad disputes—has been placed squarely before Congress in a bill introduced by Representative Homer Hoch, who comes from the State where the Industrial Court plan had its inception.

With Congress having jurisdiction over the railroads, Representative Hoch confines the scheme he has submitted to railroad disputes, but it is admitted that enactment of such a law applying to railroad industrial unrest and disputes would constitute an opening wedge for extension of regulatory power over industrial disputes of all kinds which could be classed as menacing to the public welfare.

The proposition submitted by the Kansas Congressman would begin by abolishing the Railroad Labor Board and set up in its place a disinterested tribunal for settlement of railroad disputes.

TO PENALIZE STRIKERS

The Hoch bill would provide that the industrial court or commission should recognize the right of the individual to quit work. It also would recognize the right of collective bargaining. But it would penalize the railroad lockout, and penalize also any concerted move or conspiracy to quit work and disturb transportation. All such acts would be proceeded against as detrimental to the public welfare.

Summarized by Representative Hoch his bill provides:

(1.) Abolition of the Labor Board, which was formed on the mistaken theory of group representative, he emphasizes.

(3.) Disinterested adjudication, instead of compulsory arbitration.

(4.) Directs fair wages with the element of hazard and every other factor considered, proper working and living conditions, and the full protection of seniority and other rights.

(5.) Encourages voluntary settlement of disputes without resort to the board.

FULL INQUIRY POWER

(6.) Gives full power to inquiry and determination to the board where disagreement threatens to disturb transportation.

(7.) Expressly recognizes the right of the individual to quit work, and expressly recognizes the right of collective bargaining.

(8.) Puts all possible protection around the right of individuals to work free from molestation and intimidation—as President Harding insists.

(9.) Penalizes the lockout for the purpose of forcing employees to terms and any other purpose contrary to public interest.

(10.) Penalizes any conspiracy, any concerted movement to quit work for the purpose of forcing employees to terms, or for any other purpose contrary to public interest.

FIVE ON BOARD

It would direct appointment of board of five disinterested members by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate—one to serve two years, another four years, a third six years, a fourth eight years and the fifth for ten years. Subsequent appointments would be for a ten-year term. Removal would be only for malfeasance. The salary would be $7500.

Representative Hoach regards the peace in the railroad strike as a patched up strife which will mean only a temporary relief. It is Congress' clear duty, he maintains, to seek a more permanent settlement, and urges his colleagues, especially on the interstate and foreign commerce commission to take active leadership in this effort. These recurrent industrial disputes cannot longer be treated as a matter of private concern only, in which the great public has no right to interfere to tie up the transportation arteries of the nation is to threaten the very life of the people.

Only two courses are open, Representative Hoch points out. One is government ownership and operation with all the evils of political management so recently demonstrated. The people do not want that, the members of the commerce commission of both House and Senate have been assured in a deluge of letters and telegrams from business interests all over the country. They will not have government ownership and operation except as a last resort. The other course, Representative Hoch insists, is to attempt to secure some regular, orderly method for settlement, without abandoning private ownership, and then having provided a just and fair tribunal to make the lockout and the strike unlawful, just as they would be if we had government ownership.

Representative Hoch says the effort to provide this better way is in the interest of labor and not against it.

ACKER FOUND GUILTY OF ARIZONA MURDER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—A verdict of guilty, carrying the death penalty, was returned here yesterday by a jury trying William E. Acker for the murder of Iver Enge, near Prescott, last June.

Enge was found lying near death in a ravine. He had been stabbed and beaten. He died a month later.

Acker was arrested in Los Angeles. He is said to have admitted that he was present when Enge was attacked, but maintained that a companion committed the actual attack. Thomas W. Burge was arrested later in Yuma, charged with being this companion.

GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR IN A USED CAR.

When you purchase a used car be sure that you get not only a motor, frame, paint, tires and the things that make up its physical appearance, but the real value that should go with it, its ability to perform as you expect it to.

That is what you pay for and what you should get in a used car. We will be pleased to have you call and inspect the cars we offer for sale, to assure yourself that you are paying only for what you receive.

DEFENSE OF HERRIN STRIKERS DETAILED

INDICTED WILL ATTEMPT TO SHOW UNIONS BEING PERSECUTED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MARION (Ill.) Sept. 24.—The whole theory and outline of the general defense which the Illinois Mine Workers' Union will present at the Herrin massacre trials, which will be put in motion tomorrow morning by formal arraignment and pleading of at least thirty-eight prisoners, are made public today in a statement issued by A. W. Kerr, chief counsel for the miners, after a conference with attorneys and union officials.

This defense in brief is that this is a "private persecution by a political boss and labor-hating organizations." A bitter attack is made upon Atty.-Gen. Brundage and the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, which is raising funds by State-wide subscription for the prosecution. The grand jury report, in which twenty-four indictments charging murder, rioting or assault against twenty-four members of the union, is declared to have been prepared in evidence by Mr. Brundage at the instigation of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Kerr made no comment upon the work of the grand jury as such except to comment on the failure to return indictments against the slayers of union men. The grand jury declared it had no evidence in those murders and could not get any, as the miners' attorney refused to produce witnesses.

REPORT MADE ON CHICAGO RIOTING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—After investigating all phases of the race riots in Chicago in 1919, a commission made up of six white men and six negroes today made their report in the form of a booklet under the title, "The Negro in Chicago."

The commission frankly admits its has found no panacea for racial ills, but submits fifty-nine recommendations to citizens of both races, the observance of which will remedy the situation. Briefly these recommendations are:

That the police and militia work out at once a detailed plan for joint action to control race riots.

That militia, black and white, be mobilized at the beginning of the outbreak. That street cars be guarded; that all rioters be arrested immediately, regardless of color, promptly tried and speedily punished.

That especial efforts be made to punish hoodlums who bomb the homes of negroes, this being one of the chief causes of outbreaks.

That the negro residence district be immediately cleared of all vice resorts.

That particular attention be given "athletic clubs" so called, made up in large part of hoodlums, loafers and troublemakers—a fruitful source of race conflict. These are to be closed if necessary.

The more stringent control of the sale of firearms and other deadly weapons.

The condemnation and razing of all houses unfit for human habitation for which negroes are now charged exorbitant rentals.

The establishment of night schools and community centers and strict enforcement of compulsory education laws for both whites and negroes.

DEATH MASK OF COLLINS TAKEN

Sculptor to Make Bust of Dead Irish Leader for Exhibition Here

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH. [Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

PARIS, Sept. 23.—The death mask of Gen. Michael Collins was brought to Paris from Dublin last week by Dr. Fogarty and turned over to a sculptor, Theodore S. Simson. The medallionist now is engaged in making a life-sized bust of the late Irish leader. It will be taken to America aboard the Rochambeau, October 3, for exhibition by the Irish societies in American cities.

The sculptor was a great friend of Gen. Collins and has already made a medallion and several studies of him, although the greatest part of the present work is being made direct from the death mask.

FATE OF EXPLORERS WORRIES CHIEFTAIN

STEFANSSON FEARS PARTY ON "TEDDY BEAR" HAS MET DISASTER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson announced today the schooner "Teddy Bear" which left Nome, Alaska, four weeks ago to succor the Stefansson expedition which reasserted British claim to Wrangell Island has been caught in the ice and was drifting northwesterly off the Siberian Coast. The explorer said he was deeply concerned for the fate of the three white men and party of Eskimos aboard.

Although a little more than a year has elapsed since the Wrangell Island party landed and briefly told of the reclaiming of the Isle under the Canadian flag, Stefansson said he was not worried over the party's plight. He said the four white men and their Eskimos were well-stocked with ammunition with which to obtain food. He also pointed out that if their situation became serious an 800-mile sledge trip for help might be undertaken, but not before next July.

Word of the trapping of the "Teddy Bear" came in a cable which Stefansson received. It was dispatched from Nome and merely related that wireless advices had reached the Alaskan city from a wireless station at an unnamed point on the Siberian Coast. The transmitted wireless reported Siberian reindeer herders as having seen the vessel moving slowly off.

Stefansson said the mere report that ice had closed in around the schooner indicated it had been unable to make Wrangell Island, since at this time of year it should not have encountered floes strong enough to make the ship a prisoner. It was indicated, he added, that the "Teddy Bear" has been caught before it could work its way in toword the island and land its supplies.

GERMANY NOT APT TO JOIN LEAGUE

REPARATIONS DEBATE BLOW BECAUSE OF FRENCH VETO POWER

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—The result of reparations debate in Geneva is interpreted here as a knockout blow to the prospects of Germany joining the League of Nations instead of as an invitation as intended by Lord Robert Cecil and his supporters.

The rejoinder of the French delegate De Jouvenel to the argument for Germany's association with the League, particularly his insistence that the decisions of the Big Four Entente powers were not subject to modification by other members of the League, are considered incompatible with Germany's insistence upon joining the League upon a footing of equality or not at all.

German editorial writers, even of the liberal press, argue that they prove to the hilt the German contention that the League is the instrument of the leading Entente states and not a nonpartisan international tribunal of equity. Even the recommendation in favor of increasing the elective members of the council from four to six so as to deprive the Entente of the great powers of the control in council, does not change their opinion that it is possible for Germany at present to apply for admission though a large majority vote favorable application.

The Tageblatt writes that De Jouvenel's words show that neutrals' views are without weight in the League and German opposition to the League is fully justified. Mittag Am Zeitung declares they prove France maintains its veto privilege over the League's decisions and the question of German entrance is settled for the present.

BUSINESS UNCHECKED BY LABOR TROUBLES

AUGUST WAS ACTIVE MONTH, DESPITE COAL AND RAIL TIE-UPS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Figures so far received by the Department of Commerce indicate that there was no significant recession in business activity during the month of August, in spite of the dislocation caused by the coal and railroad labor difficulties. There was a marked decline in the production of iron and steel, largely due, no doubt, to fuel shortage. The unfilled orders of the steel corporation continued to increase, indicating no important let-up in the demand for these products.

On the other hand, there was increased activity in the textile industries. The mill consumption of both cotton and silk was the largest for any month in the past two years. The building industry showed the effects of the usual seasonal slump, but the production of building materials continued at about the same level as in July.

The practical assurance of good crops has done much to keep business at its high level during the recent trying months.

MONEY FOR MINERS IS INCREASED

Relief Fund Swelling as Remittances Are Received Every Day

The Times will receive, acknowledge by publication and forward funds or the relief of the victims of the Jackson Mine disaster—the widows and orphans of the entombed miners.

Contributions should be addressed to the City Editor. The Times, Los Angeles, Cal. They will be forwarded at once to the Amador county Chamber of Commerce, which has charge of the relief work. The names of the donors will be printed in The Times.

Forty-two of the forty-seven miners trapped on the lower levels of the Argonaut Mine were married and left children.

Grief-stricken women and little children, whose husbands and fathers will never again serve them as bread-winners will receive this money. All are invited to give as much as they can.

Bucket Kills Employees in Mine Accident

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CARLESTON (W. Va.) Sept. 24. Five workmen employed by the Raleigh-Wyoming Coal Company at Glenn Rogers, Raleigh county, were killed today, when a hoisting bucket loaded with stone fell down a 700-foot shaft, crushing them to death. Glenn Rogers is an isolated mining town.

Britain Loses Warship Speedy in Collision

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The British torpedo boat Speedy sank early today in the Sea of Marmora as the result of a collision with a Dutch trawler, says Reuter's dispatch from Constantinople. Ten of the destroyer's crew were drowned and eighty-seven saved. The Speedy sank within seven minutes.

NEW SCIENCE SEEKS RESTORATION OF LIFE

DEAD CAN BE BROUGHT BACK, CHICAGO PHYSICIAN TELLS SOCIETY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Dr. Thomas J. Allen, who today addressed the Chicago Society of Anthropology, announced the development of Vitamode, a new science, whereby the dead may be brought back to life, provided the organs of the body are not worn out.

Vitamode, as its name implies, is the science which explains the mode and nature of life. It is based on the fact that all life is a series of tenso-laxing movements; in other words, a series of alternate contractions and relaxations. Revival of the apparently drowned is an example, where the result is brought about by alternate pressure and expansion of lungs and other organs.

The science is being rapidly developed, and even now it is claimed that by adherence to its practical methods it is possible to increase the physical and mental ability of any person by two or three times. Dr. Allen stated that Dr. A. Kyle of Aurora, Ill., had succeeded in reviving dead dogs to the extent that they could walk and do everything except function mentally.

Dr. Allen said that it was only a question of time before the same effects could be produced in the body of a dead man or woman, provided the organs were sound and too long a time had not elapsed, and that he looked forward to discovery of a means of restoring the mental processes also.

WYOMING OIL MEN BURNED TO DEATH

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CASPER (Wyo.) Sept. 24.—Three oil workers were burned to death and two others were injured when an oil rig on a lease of the Mid-West Oil Company in the Salt Creek field burst into flames after a terrific explosion yesterday.

Kenneth Randall, connection man, died at 5 o'clock from burns which he received in the fire. Bill Duncan and Augustus Lance are believed to have been burned.

FLYER AT EL CENTRO ON WAY TO CHICAGO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Sept. 24.—A. L. Wilson, former "stunt" flyer of Los Angeles, who arrived here Saturday night, "took off" from the Fort Bliss flying field at 6:30 o'clock this morning en route to Chicago.

Wilson said this morning that he expected to take a week in reaching Chicago as he was not trying for a record trip, but was simply making a sightseeing trip for pleasure.

He said he had no route mapped out and could not say where he might land tonight.

CLARENCE C. WORTHAM

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Sept. 24. Private telegram received here tonight announced the death of Clarence C. Wortham, noted show man of San Antonio, on a train near Danville, Ill. Wortham was said to be the largest individual owner of carnival shows in the country.

JAPS DEPORT LABORERS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOKIO, Sept. 24.—The Japanese have begun deporting hundreds of Chinese laborers, who have been invading Japan and cutting wages, while thousands of Japanese workmen are idle.

ARGONAUT QUIZ WILL START SOON

Committee Appointed by Governor Will Begin Mine Investigation at Once

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 24.—Announcement of the personnel of a special committee of three to investigate the recent Argonaut mine disaster at Jackson in which forty-seven miners lost their lives was made today by Gov. Stephens. Those named were A. B. C. Dohrman of San Francisco, chairman; W. J. Loring of San Francisco and John S. Williams of Grass Valley.

Special instructions have been issued to all members of the committee to make a thorough "investigation into all the facts and conditions surrounding the tragedy" by the Governor. They are instructed to proceed at once with the investigation.

In his telegram to Dohrman the Governor said:

"I fully appreciate the gravity of such investigation and the responsibility which will rest upon your committee, and in appointing this committee I do so with full confidence that it will make such findings as accord with the facts and will make such recommendations as will tend to further safeguard the workers in mines and prevent disasters of this kind in the future. Will you call this committee together and commence investigation at once?"

Dohrman is a San Francisco merchant and Loring is a mine owner and president of the American Mining Congress. Williams is a miner and was vice-president of the miners' union at Grass Valley.

DESPONDENT, KILLS SELF

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JEROME (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—Despondent over delayed recovery from an injury received in the mines eight months ago, George Abbott, a miner, has taken his life by a bullet wound through the head. Preparations had been made to send him to the Coast for treatment.

ONLY a few generations ago the barber with his limited knowledge and skill was the community surgeon. Today surgery is a very highly specialized and respected profession.

As in the medical profession so in another calling, one we do not often think about or appreciate, the progress is similarly striking. The service of the modern funeral director is founded on a large fund of new scientific knowledge. It is backed up with facilities that provide for every possible requirement and take the place when desired of hospital, church and home.

It is a service that knows no eight hour day or any social or financial distinction, that places no limitations on what you may wish, that serves you this very day, through its complete preparedness.

Husband Took Too Many Days Off, She Says

Saturdays, Sundays and holidays were days off for Carl R. Dean, and practically every evening in the week was a night out, according to a divorce complaint on file in the Superior Court here, where Mrs. Lottie G. Dean has brought suit for divorce. She states in her document that her husband spent as little time at home as was possible.

When he first drifted away from the family fireside, the complaint recites, she was annoyed but not suspicious. Then she discovered that her husband was finding amusement elsewhere. To substantiate her fears, she found letters addressed to "Honey Boy," and there seemed to be no question but that her husband was referred to.

When she accused him of having affairs with other women, the complaint states, he dismissed the matter with "the simple phrase, "Mind your own business."

MINERS SHRINK FROM BROADWAY TRAFFIC

MEN OF RESCUE CREW, HERE IN COMRADES' BEHALF, SAY MINE SAFER

They are five brave men. They showed it hourly during the terrible twenty-one-days' fight to save their entombed comrades in the famous Argonaut mine, yet they tremble to encounter the traffic on Broadway here.

This is the experience of the miners from Jackson, who are appearing at Grauman's Theater in behalf of a relief fund for the dead men's survivors, and they declare in unison that there is far more to be feared in the racing automobiles, speeding trucks and crowded electric cars that congest our streets than in working in a gold mine a mile below the earth's surface.

Paul Santanelli, the young Italian who held the drill that shattered the last bulkhead before reaching the dead miners, laughs at the idea that his work is fraught with undue dangers. He waves his hand toward the crowded street and says there is far more danger there than in the mine. "I'm glad to get back," said he. "I no like so many people, so much noise, so many cars that chase you. No, the mine, it is much safer. I go back there and stay."

RUGS VANISH

Seven of Persian Weave, Valued at $10,000, Found Missing

Police detectives are searching for seven royal Persian rugs valued by the owner, A. Samisian, at $10,000 which disappeared mysteriously from the Kismet Rug Company establishment at 934 South Hill street early yesterday morning.

Following the report made by A. Faffee, proprietor of the store, that the rugs were missing detectives investigated and found that there was no evidence that thieves had broken into the shop. The thieves might have, the detectives believe, used a pass-key to gain entrance.

Mr. Samisian declared that one of the stolen rugs is one made up of twelve prayer rugs from Constantinople and is worth $5000.

TWO KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

Auto Struck at Archibald-Avenue Crossing

Driver Said to Have Had Right of Way Signal for Search

Victims Escape by Jumping Out of Machine

Two persons were killed yesterday afternoon when a touring car driven by C. B. Homan of Chino was struck by a Union Pacific train at the Archibald-avenue crossing over the railroad tracks, two and one-half miles south of Ontario. The dead are Mrs. Edward Cochran of Ontario and Mrs. Marguerite Hawker of Cucamonga, wife of the other occupant of the car.

Homan's machine was demolished when the train struck it. The automobile stalled on the crossing and was being driven over when struck by the train. Homan is arrested and held under $5000 bail for investigation by the district attorney's office. The engine was damaged.

Mrs. Hawker was thrown from the car and killed instantly. Mrs. Cochran was pinned under the machine and was not rescued until it was lifted from her body by the wreckers. She died on the way to the hospital. Her skull was crushed and her body mangled.

Homan is the only person who can tell how the accident occurred, according to Ontario police officials. He is said to have told them that he was driving at a speed of from thirty to thirty-five miles an hour when the train struck his machine. He said that the train was not sounding any warning signal. Homan is reported to have told officials that he was driving his machine at a speed of from thirty to thirty-five miles an hour when the train struck his machine. He said that the train was not sounding any warning signal.

REPORTED ACCIDENT TOO SOON

Steele Should Have Waited Until He Had Sobered Up, Police Say

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PASADENA, Sept. 24.—Failure to take advantage of all his rights landed Leonard L. Steele, 21 years old, of 772 North Mentor avenue, into a peck of trouble today.

Steele, driving a hired machine, collided with an auto driven by J. H. Stoesser of 124 North Marengo avenue, at the intersection of Pasadena and Colorado street. Instead of waiting twenty-four hours, as permitted by law, he went to the police station to make out an accident report at once.

"Shay," he is alleged to have inquired of Patrolman Shelton, who handed him a blank, "whazzmatter this guy won't pay damages on my machine right now, huh?"

"He says you rammed his machine from the rear and took a back wheel off," said the officers.

"I do'care, I wannim pay it now," the youth is asserted to have replied.

Then, Officer Shelton says, he got the full benefit of Steele's breath and was further convinced he was not mistaken when he saw the accident report Steele was attempting to make out.

They booked Steele on a charge of driving while intoxicated and led him to a cell. They told him if he had waited till tomorrow when he was sober to report the accident he might not have been caught.

FLAMES DESTROY FOUNDRY

Long Beach Iron Works Gutted by Fire; Cause Unknown

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 24.—Fire last night gutted the foundry building of the Long Beach Iron Works at the foot of Seventh street. All of the downtown fire companies answered the fire call. The flames shot high into the air and attracted a large crowd. The cause of the fire could not be determined.

Capt. Charles Jones of Fire Company No. 1 was injured when he stepped on a high-tension electric wire in a field adjacent to the burning building. The shock knocked him off his feet. He was pulled from the water-filled hole in which the wire was lying by other firemen who were attracted by his shouts. He was treated by Dr. Frank Fleet, police surgeon, who said that his injuries were not serious.

The chiefs of the fire and police departments criticised the Southern California Edison Company for not shutting off the current in power lines in the vicinity of the fire.

James M. Locke, an official of the Long Beach Iron Works, was not in the city last night and the department officials failed to find other members of the firm. For this reason the valuation of the property destroyed has not been determined.

FATHER SHOT BY DAUGHTER

Woman Says Parent Ruined Her Life

Reveals Asserted Relations to Police

Three Bullets Take Effect; Heavy Bond Set

Accusing her father, Charles B. Williams, aged 63 years, of having ruined her life, Mrs. Sylvia Rowlett, 26 years of age, yesterday afternoon drove to his home in South Pasadena, called him from the house, and without warning fired five shots at him, three of which took effect, inflicting serious injuries.

During the shooting, her husband, Frank Rowlett, with their 9-month-old daughter, remained in the machine in front of the Williams residence, 1037 Adeline avenue. When her father fell to the ground, Mrs. Rowlett calmly returned to the machine with the smoking gun still in her hand and awaited the police, called by a next-door neighbor who appeared on the scene immediately following the tragedy.

When Officer J. M. Cheek arrived, the baby was sprawled in the back seat of the machine, crying, and Mr. and Mrs. Rowlett were in the front seat. The gun, a .32 revolver, was lying on the floor between them.

Last night they were arraigned before Justice of the Peace J. R. Crump of Pasadena on a complaint filed by Officer Cheek charged with assault with the intent to commit murder. Both were remanded to the County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail each. Justice Crump will call a preliminary examination within the next few days.

SOBS STORY OF LIFE

In a remarkable confession given in the presence of Acting Chief of Police Williams and Officer J. M. Cheek, Mrs. Rowlett, clasping her nine-months-old babe in her arms, sobbed out the story of her life and the asserted improper relations with her father.

Mr. Williams was taken to the Pasadena Hospital, where it was declared he had been shot in the left forehead, in the right thigh and in the left hip.

The shooting occurred shortly after noon. Mrs. Rowlett and her husband drove to the home of her father in an automobile. She called her father from the house, and without saying anything, according to police, began to fire at him. He rushed toward her as she shot. Five times she fired at him in quick succession and then dropped the revolver on the ground. There was one unexploded cartridge in it when Officer Cheek arrived to make the arrests.

BOTH TAKEN TO JAIL

At the jail Mrs. Rowlett declared her father had ruined her life and that a child which was born to her in 1916 had been adopted and that she had been brooding since than about her plight.

Late last night it developed that Eugene Spurr, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Spurr, 1031 Adeline street, was the sole witness of the shooting. According to his story, Mr. and Mrs. Rowlett drove up to the house in their machine and the woman began shooting as soon as she saw her father sitting on the lawn near the curb.

The boy ran to his home two doors away and called to his father.

"Robbers are shooting Mr. Williams."

Mr. Spurr ran out of the house and lifted Mr. Williams to the porch.

Mrs. Rowlett, was married about three years ago, and, according to her statement, she told her husband at the time of their marriage of her relations with her father.

When arrested by Officer Cheek she is said to have admitted that she did not intend to kill her father, but only to hurt him so that

WANTS HIS CHILDREN TOGETHER

Slayer of Wife Fears Separation of Five When Serving Sentence

With the departure for San Quentin on Friday night of Augustus M. Estes, convicted of second degree murder, it is feared another tragedy of the family may follow, it was disclosed yesterday. It was believed by the father, as he prepared to begin a sentence of from ten years to life for the murder of his wife, that his five minor children would be separated from each other while he is in prison.

Estes shot and killed the mother of the children, he said, because he thought she was drifting away from him, and being more attentive to another man. Then the father lodged in jail and the five children were taken temporarily to the home of Mrs. Elma Schmidt, 127 South Everett street, Glendale, where they are now.

Estes has been in jail for two years, having appealed to the District Court of Appeal and lost. He said that he knew his wife when she was a little girl, and they had lived happily until the "other man" appeared.

"I worried until I thought I could not stand it any more," said Estes. "Then I decided to end it all. I met my wife and shot her and myself."

The wife died, but the husband recovered to face trial. In the meantime, through the aid of charitable persons, the children were cared for and separation was avoided. Mrs. Schmidt herself is unable to care for all of the children. Various persons have offered to care for one or another of them, and even adopt them, but the father hopes they will be able to live together to work out their destinies.

The children are: Glen Warren, aged 3; Rand, aged 5; Paul, aged 7; Ernestine, aged 10 and Alma, aged 12. It was stated that all the children will not be able to stay with Mrs. Schmidt much longer.

Services Held for Prominent Mason Tuesday

Funeral services for William Henry Gaynor, prominent Mason and retired business man, will be conducted at the Masonic Temple, Pico and Figueroa streets, tomorrow at 2 p.m.

Mr. Gaynor had resided in Los Angeles for the last thirty-five years and been identified with Masonic activities as a member of Signet Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, as Past High Priest of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of California, as Past Commander of Los Angeles Commandery, No. 9, and as the founder of the South Gate Lodge.

AIRSHIP AS RAIL RIVAL

Commander of Army Dirigible Sees Great Future for Craft for Passengers and Freight

Will air lines carry passengers and freight across the continent in less than three days? What will be the result of the first coast-to-coast flight of a lighter-than-air machine?

These questions and others of similar import are buzzing about aeronautical circles today, after a highly optimistic statement by Maj. H. A. Strauss, commander of the Army dirigible C-2, which landed at Ross Field Saturday night after a flight from Langley Field, Va.

SIXTY-SIX-HOUR FLIGHT

The elapsed time of the flight was little more than sixty-six hours, over a 3200-mile route. Two and a half days' actual flying time for the distance, in view of the fact that no attempt was made on the flight to establish a record, gives high hopes to the optimists who predict an early development of air transportation.

"We believe our trip proves that aviation will meet all hopes for it in the line of transportation, not only of passengers, but of freight," said Maj. Strauss last night.

"Our elapsed time was sixty-six hours and ten minutes over a route approximately 3200 miles long. We had very little trouble, that little being mostly along the Arizona border, where the heat and head winds made it difficult to carry enough gasoline for long flights.

"Yes, we are very much gratified with the flight, especially as it was made in an airship not designed for such long journeys nor for the high altitudes we reached.

ROUTE SATISFACTORY

"The route we took was satisfactory and now, having made the trip, we believe that in airships with larger carrying capacity, providing more comfort for crew and passengers and adequate arrangements for freight, with longer flight-range, equipment for more gasoline and designed for higher altitudes, so more direct routes may be taken, the transcontinental trip can be reduced from the 3200 miles we flew to approximately 2500.

"We plan a flight over Los Angeles city and harbor and suburban cities Tuesday and, if the weather is favorable, we shall start at midnight Tuesday for San Francisco, where we expect to arrive at 8 or 9 a.m. Wednesday. We shall start back to Los Angeles and Ross Field Wednesday midnight, arriving here about 8 or 9 a.m. Thursday.

"Our next step will be to give the C-2 a thorough overhauling and in a week or ten days after our return from San Francisco, we expect to start back to Langley Field."

ITALIANS HERE CELEBRATE

Commemorate Unification of Homeland Anniversary at Colorful Fiesta

You know how it is when you have one of those Italian table d'hotes—the hors d'ouvres, the piece de resistance and the desserts. That's how it was at the Italian fiesta at Rosehill Park yesterday—dashing fencing exhibitions with tingling thrills for the appetizers; a political speech for the heavy course, and, for dessert, a series of exotic dances, rich—and rare.

Several thousand Italians attended the affair, which was the Italian colony's celebration of the fifty-second anniversary of the Fatherland's unification. To Cleto Baroni, president of the directing committee, is due a big share of the honor for the success of the affair, and the entertainment program owed its varied appeal to the assistance given by Mrs. Herman Edward Herta, whose efforts resulted in the appearance of an array of colorful talent.

The fiesta began at 10 a.m. and continued well into the evening. The entertainment program occupied the afternoon, with the following artists appearing:

Miss Maurine Vallon and 6-year-old Dodo Lloyd, pupils of the Jack Wallace School, in dances; Miss Gilda Marchetti and Carlo Bravo, soloists; fencing by Philip Brigandi, fencing master of the Hollywood Fencing Club, and Philip E. Brigandi, H. C. Berls, Rudolf Monaco, Karl Brigandi and Miss C. Leggett. There were also dance numbers and musical numbers by Karl Brigandi and Miss Leggett.

Janeski Robinoff was a colorful feature in a series of Russian dances. Dist.-Atty. Woolwine spoke against present prohibition laws.

SYSTEM OF SEWAGE IS APPROVED

System to be Completed Within Three-Year Period by Private Contractor

Plans for the new $13,000,000 sewage system, submitted recently to the Board of Public Works by City Engineer Griffin, have been approved, according to Charles H. Treat, president of the board. The plans provide that all of the work will be divided into fourteen parts and that all of the units will be completed in three years.

Prior to the recent election, when bonds were passed providing money for the new system, the Board of Public Works had considered it advisable to build the system by private contract. It has been decided that the construction work will be done in this manner. The contracts for the several units will be awarded to the lowest bidder, the city reserving the right to reject all bids.

In case that the contracts for the work are too high, it is possible that the city will do the work. The Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association have recommended that the work be done by contract.

The work is to be rushed as rapidly as possible, so that the conditions which prevailed last winter will not reoccur this year.

Chinaman Held for Violation of Poison Law

"You smoke yen shee, eh?"

"No, I no smoke."

"Hmm, why you no smoke?"

"No smoke, heap sick."

The above conversation took place yesterday in a Chinese laundry at 917 West Temple street, between Detective Sergeants Yarrow and Littlejohn and Art Wong, proprietor.

"Art, you no tellee truth, I smellee," said Detective Littlejohn.

"You smellee? No, you long, you smellee hot ilon."

"Allight," said Wong, "I go."

At Central Police Station, where Wong was booked on a violation of the State poison law, Wong deposited $200 bail and went back to his laundry.

RAWLINSON ACCUSERS DISAPPEAR

Girl and Mother Leave on Eve of Important Decision by Prosecutors

On the eve of a prosecutors' conference to determine what action is to be taken in the case of the charges launched by Mrs. Ethel Clark and her 17-year-old daughter Dorothy against Herbert Rawlinson, film star, both the women in the case have vanished.

At 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon Mrs. Clark and her daughter left their apartment in a house on North Harvard street, near Hollywood Boulevard, where they have been making their home. Since then no word from them has been received.

Mrs. Ruth Clark, who says she is no relative of the Clark women in the Rawlinson case, but admits she has known Dorothy since she was "a little tot," and who makes her home at the same address, stated last night that Mrs. Clark had gone away for a rest and that Dorothy accompanied her to take care of her.

"Mrs. Clark did not say where she was going when she and Dorothy left. I have no idea where they are or even if they are together," said Mrs. Ruth Clark last night. "Ethel (Dorothy's mother) said she would telephone me Monday morning, but I have no idea where she is now."

The disappearance of the women came on the eve of a decision to be made this morning by Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Deputy Joor whether to prosecute charges on the women's complaint against Rawlinson or whether blackmail charges against the women by the actor are to be presented.

Mrs. Clark learned Friday that the District Attorney's office is considering bringing charges against her of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, whether or not Rawlinson is prosecuted. The action against Mrs. Clark would be taken, it was stated, because of her admittedly having countenanced meetings between Dorothy and Rawlinson.

What effect the absence of Mrs. Clark and her daughter will have on the disposition of the Rawlinson matter could not be learned last night.

NINE-SPOT OF SPADES MYSTIFIES

A large black question mark cloaked in long flowing robes of mystery stalked to and fro through the resounding corridors of the Detective Bureau at Central Police Station yesterday.

The unanswerable interrogation point followed R. C. White, master of a house-on-wheels near Seventh and Colan streets, into the bureau. It marked the end of such questions as "Who is it? Why is it? When is it? and Why is Who?" Detectives, experienced in the unraveling of mysterious problems, clutched their hands behind their backs and marched with it back and forth through the corridors.

It all concerned Mr. White's report that someone for some unknown reason has left for five consecutive days a "nine of spades" on the door-step of his house on wheels. Mr. White says, "I have no enemies."

But he told the police that he fears that someone wishes to warn him of impending danger. Is it a joke? Or has someone a sinister motive? The detectives admit they do not know. The theory is advanced that on the day that the ninth "nine of spades" is left on the doorstep the question will be answered. Until then—"Quien sabe?"

TRIO BELIEVED PART OF GANG

Another Band of Car Thieves Thought Unearthed

Woman Arrested on Stolen Property Charges

Two Men Booked by Police as Robbery Suspects

Two men and one woman are in the City Jail in connection with the discovery of what the police say is another gang of auto bandits such as is accredited to the leadership of "Little Mack" Lenahan, now awaiting trial in the County Jail.

They are Mrs. Jennie Cotham, aged 20 years, charged with suspicion of receiving stolen property and vagrancy; her asserted husband, Paul Manary Cotham, aged 30 years, and Joseph Johnson, aged 18 years. Both Cotham and Johnson are booked on suspicion of robbery. Mrs. Cotham said she is a waitress. Cotham claims no occupation and Johnson says he is a dishwasher.

GUN FOUND

A revolver stolen in a hold-up in the southwest part of the city August 19, when Dr. Holcomb of Watts and companions were said to have been robbed of more than $5000 worth of jewelry, was found in Cotham's possession, according to Detectives Barr and Hickey, who arrested the three suspects. The revolver, according to the detectives, was taken from Dr. Holcomb.

Cotham was taken into custody, the detectives declared, when he attempted to sell a number of diamonds to a waitress in a downtown restaurant. When the detectives searched his personal effects they found the revolver, they say.

The detectives declare that they believe that the gang in which they say Cotham, his wife and Johnson are supposed to be implicated, obtained more than $40,000 wort hof loot in recent robberies in Los Angeles.

In Cotham's possession the detectives say they also found a number of capsuls containing sulphur and potash with which Cothams is asserted to have been overheard to say that he would "blow up the first copper who tried to arrest him."

STOLEN AUTO

Roy Johnson, arrested by Detective Carl Williams several days ago in an automobile said to have been stolen by him in Fresno, Cal., is also believed by the police to be a member of the gang and to have used the stolen automobile in numerous robberies in the past few weeks. Johnson was taken to Fresno to answer to the charge of grand larceny there.

Mrs. Cotham was arrested yesterday at 520 San Julien street. She is asserted by the detectives to have used the alias of Miss Jennie Gearratario and to have aided the gang in disposing of stolen goods.

Cotham, the detectives say, at one time posed as a writer of songs and had cards printed to that effect stating that he had offices at 526 Bullard Building at 156 North Spring street.

Babe Fatally Burned by Pot of Hot Coffee

Scalded by boiling hot coffee late Saturday night, Frank Lynn Thompson, 5-month-old son of Lynn P. Thompson, of 123 West Fiftieth street, died yesterday morning, according to a report at the Coroner's office. The child's body was removed to the Ruppe undertaking establishment.

According to the Coroner's report, the child was playing at his home at the above address when a coffee pot was knocked from a table, the contents spilling over his small form.

PICKPOCKETS MAKE HAUL

Week-End Was Lucrative Time for "Dips;" Police Tell How to Protect Your Wallet

Following the filing of five pickpocket reports late Saturday night, stating that "dips" had reaped a harvest of several hundreds of dollars, police have announced the following "don'ts" for the preservation of the old family pay check:

DON'T BE TOO SURE

Don't leave your coat unbuttoned.

And don't be too confident that you can carry a large sum of money without being "looted."

The following persons reported their pockets picked Saturday night: T. K. Shibata of R.R. 9, Box 366, Los Angeles, who had his wallet containing $25 and a passport to Japan taken while riding on a street car on South Main street.

John H. Harris of 229 North Rugby avenue, Huntington Park, who reported his pocket picked of $28 while in a theater crowd at Seventh and Hill streets.

WALLETS GONE

Aron Kohn of 3932 Trinity street, who reported that while riding on a Washington-street car on Spring street his wallet containing $114 and valuable papers was taken from his hip pocket.

And B. Salveno of 619 Avenue 21, who told the police that he was riding on a West Eleventh-street car when his pocket was picked of a billfold containing $36.

Seek Burglar With Love of Bright Cloth

Police detectives will watch pedestrians on Spring and Main streets for bright varicolored ties in an effort to apprehend the burglar who early yesterday morning broke into the clothing store of S. Zimmerman, at 1505 West Eleventh street, and stole thirty-three yards of blue, green, yellow and red cloth. The thief, the police reported, disregarded other valuables and picked the different bolts of colored cloth from heavily laden shelves.

Because of the texture of the cloth and the manner in which a rack of ties was disordered, detectives believe that the burglar intends having his best girl make the cloth up into cravats for him.

DEDICATE NEW CHURCH EDIFICE

Latter-Day Saints Gather at Santa Monica

Head of Entire Organization Chief Speaker

Makes Appeal for Religion in Public Schools

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 24.—Dedication services for the new $41,000 Latter-Day Saints Church, located at the corner of Strand avenue and Washington Boulevard here, were conducted today. There were three services during the day. The first, in the morning, was at the Sunday-school. This was followed by a meeting in the afternoon and another in the evening.

Heber J. Grant, president of the entire Later-Day Saints Church, was the chief speaker at all of the meetings. In the course of his address he made an appeal for the return of religion to the curriculum of the public schools. He said that his church favored all educational work, adding that it alone had spent $890,000 in the last year in this activity.

The educational work of his church, he said, was not confined to this country alone. He recounted the missionary activities of the denomination, saying that it now had missionaries in many foreign countries.

JUDGE BY DEEDS

He described the value of the "Words of Wisdom," calling particular attention to the reference to tea, coffee and alcoholic beverages. He appealed to those present to judge the church not by the words of its enemies, but by its deeds.

President Grant and Supt. E. J. Larson were the speakers at the Sunday-school meeting. Special music was furnished at this service by Misses Dorothy Reese and Florence Peck.

In the afternoon ceremony the opening prayer was followed by a hymn. President Joseph W. McMurrin delivered the invocation. President George W. McCune, head of the church in California, and Bishop C. W. Nibley spoke during the afternoon ceremony. The dedicatory prayer was delivered by President Grant and followed his address.

BISHOP NIDLEY SPEAKS

Special music by David Reese, Ruth Jensen, Norma Huett and Harold Anderson, with the anthem "Hosannah" by the choir, were the other parts of the afternoon program. The benediction was delivered by Joseph Baynes.

President Grant was the chief speaker at the evening service.

Bishop Nibley in his address declared that the Latter-Day Saints Church has the lowest death rate and the highest birth rate of any similar body in the world. He said that members of his church were wealthier per capita than members of any other denomination. He said that a greater number of the church's members owned land than the members of any like organization. He appealed to the members to pay their tithes, declaring that this was the foundation of prosperity for both the church and its constituents.

WALKS .. ON .. WATER .. WITH .. PONTOONS

A. N. Sheldon and His Water-Walking Machine

AFTER successfully walking on water from Santa Barbara to his home town of Ventura, A. N. Sheldon now is contemplating a pedestrian jaunt from Los Angeles Harbor to Catalina Island, according to advices from the northern city.

To accomplish this novel stunt, Mr. Sheldon will use a device consisting of two airtight pontoons joined side by side to a rigid steel rigging which supports a seat for the walker and a sail. The pontoons resemble the canoes used by northern Indians and Esquimox. Each pontoon is held in the water by a keel fastened to its under surface. Near the center of the pontoons there are openings in which the feet of the walker are placed.

Progress through the water is accomplished by a striding movement of the feet. As the legs are moved forward alternately the pontoon supporting the respective foot also slides forward along a track on the steel rigging. The pontoons are prevented from sliding backward through the water by cups attached to the lower surface. The cups are similar to those of a steam of water turbine. The action of the walker is not dissimilar to that of a person walking on snowshoes.

Steering is accomplished by a rudder fastened between the pontoons and to the rigging. The walker controls the course of his craft by means of bicycle handlebars.

MAYORS WILL FIGHT PROPOSED AMENDMENT

CITY EXECUTIVES MEET TODAY TO MAKE WAR ON STREET CAR PLAN

Mayors of Southern California cities will assemble at 10 o'clock this morning at the Mayor's office in the City Hall, upon call of Acting Mayor Criswell, to plan a united campaign against the proposed constitutional amendment which will appear on the ballot at the November election, under which all control over street railway and motor bus transportation, through the issuance of franchises, is transferred from the cities to the State Railroad Commission.

The Mayors of all cities of Southern California of 5000 population or over have been invited to attend the conference. This includes the Mayors of Glendale, San Bernardino, Venice, Santa Monica, Inglewood, Pomona, Redlands, Riverside, San Diego, Whittier, Long Beach and many other municipalities.

It is expected that after the conference is called to order S. C. Evans, Mayor of Riverside, will be elected permanent chairman, and that he will set forth ways and means of defeating the amendment. The conference is expected to continue throughout the day.

Lucky Strike is First in Boat Race at Harbor

SAINT MARY'S OPENS STREET FAIR TONIGHT

Members of the congregation of St. Mary's Catholic Church will open their fair tonight in a large tent at the corner of Fourth and Chicago streets. The entertainment has been planned after the county fairs of the Middle West. It will continue for a week.

Each evening between the hours of 6 and 8 p.m. chicken and Spanish dinners will be served. The booths and entertainment have been designed to represent the activities of the congregation.

OIL COLLEGE TO OPEN

The opening exercises of the College of Petroleum Engineering and Geology at 1150 West Twenty-ninth street will be held October 3, next, at 8:30 p.m.

OH, YES, IT IS QUITE POSH

At Least English Flappers Believe So

Get Plucked Eyebrow Idea from Film Stars

Movies Also Responsible for Beauty Parlors

The English girls who bobbed their hair because they saw American motion-picture queens with the scrambled coiffure, now are plucking their eyebrows for the same reason.

This intelligence is brought to Los Angeles by Frederick Banks English baritone, who also acts in pictures now and then.

"Our English girls had their eyebrows natural until a few months ago—all bushy," Mr. Banks related yesterday. "But now the thin line over the eyes of your American picture stars has caught on. They think it very posh.

"Our flappers—oh, yes, we call them that, too—have had the bobbed hair some time, and that, too, was caught from the American actress of the picture shows. For those women that have not chopped off their locks the permanent wave is popular—something American an dquite new with us. Beauty parlors on the American plan are springing up everywhere—something we never had before. Your American cinemas have done it."

Mr. Banks reports that the American pictures are still supreme in London show houses, and that the concensus among British theatrical men is that they will continue to be, if for no other reason because of the fine atmospheric condition in Los Angeles and the difficulties of photographing in a deep fog off the straits.

However, he says, several English companies have sprung up, engaging in specialty work. One of these, the Istra Films, recently imported the Los Angeles actress, Mae Marsh, and she has done one picture for them and after returning to New York was called back to do still another.

"It is this company's project," Mr. Banks explains, "to make one more picture in England. These two Mae Marsh pictures have plots of English life and are destined for consumption in this country. Then the English company, managers, directors and all, are coming here to Los Angeles, rent a studio and equipment, and make some pictures of American setting here—these destined for English consumption.

"There is no question about it—we haven't nearly the scope in England you have here, and if the Istra Films project is a success I think it is likely they will be followed by other English companies."

Mr. Banks, whose brother is the managing promoter of the Istra company, worked with Miss Marsh in her first English picture. He, however, is better known as a singer than an actor, having appeared in concert, opera and music-hall work in London for several years. He is accompanied on his American tour by Miss Ethel Gordon, soprano, who has done many light camedy parts on the English stage. It is their first time in America.

BOOKS RELATING TO CIVIL WAR

Important Addition Made to Huntington Library

Contains Complete Record of American History

Nicholson Collection Bought at Private Sale

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 24.—The addition to the Henry E. Huntington library in San Marino of the Nicholson collection of books relating to the Civil War was announced today by Dr. George Watson Cole, librarian. It will make the Huntington collection, when other recent purchases are considered, one of the finest and most complete in the United States of books on American history.

The collection was made by the late Lieut.-Col. John Page Nicholson of Philadelphia and contains nearly 10,000 titles, of which about 7500 were collected prior to 1914 and catalogued and to which more than 2000 have been added since the catalogue was printed. It does not touch the subjects of Lincoln and the Navy, Col. Nicholson feeling that these subjects were adequately covered by other collections, and consequently making no attempt to secure books on these subjects.

REMARKABLE FOR SIZE

"The collection is remarkable for its size and inclusiveness," said Dr. Cole. "The subjects of personal reconstruction and the like are covered thoroughly. The collection is rich in public documents, Federal, State and Confederate, and contains a large number of regimental histories and personal narratives of men on both sides of the struggle. Publications of the reunion organizations, such as the G.A.R., are included very fully.

"The Confederate items are present in goodly number and include, besides official publications and documents, many books printed in out-of-the-way places and by southern authors, which are difficult to secure.

"There is a mass of autographic material, portraits, maps and clippings. Altogether the collection is most complete, and, of course, very valuable, with its wealth of original sources as well as secondary material. It was purchased at private sale."

HISTORICAL MATERIAL

The collection contains not only historical material, but a number of volumes of Civil War fiction.

The Judd Stewart Lincoln collection of Plainfield, N. J., one of the finest ever brought together, and the naval collection of Charles T. Harbeck, with about 3000 titles giving a complete history of the United States Navy since the beginning of the republic, were recently added to the library, so that all sides of the Civil War are now well represented in Mr. Huntington's collections.

"We have also an unusually fine collection of autographs and letters of the Civil War period," said Dr. Cole. "They include the signatures of about 95 per cent of the general officers of both Union and Confederate armies, with many photographs.

"While many libraries, both public and private, make specialties of various phases of American history, and State historical societies collect material of their particular States, I believe our collection is the finest general collection now in existence."

The Washington period is covered, Dr. Cole explained, by the recent purchase in Boston of a large collection relating to Revolutionary times. There was much Washington material already in the library.

The Nicholson collection is now being packed for shipment here, and will probably arrive some time next month. The Nicholson collection, the Stewart collection of Lincolniana, and the Washington material purchased in Boston, are all additions of the present year. They were all purchased privately.

TO STRESS NEED OF RESCUE WORK

RED CROSS CONFERENCE TO DEVOTE TIME TO SHOWING LIFE-SAVING WAYS

Plans now well under way for the Red Cross regional conference, to be held in Pasadena early in October, will lay stress on a new angle of activities. The recent mine disaster at Jackson and drowning horrors have brought attention forcibly to the need of training boys and men and girls, too, for rescue work.

In line with this the committees propose to put on a life-saving demonstration at the Alhambra municipal plunge for the delegates and others interested.

Arthur Bonner, superintendent of the plunge, Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will show the visitors how underwater rescue work is done. Mr. Bonner will submerge himself and allow two boys, and later two girls, to drag him to the surface, exhibiting the holds and clutches which lifesavers should use in rescuing drowning persons.

Yeggs Blow Up Safe in Auto Sales Office

Gaining entrance to the H. J. Wurstburger auto sales rooms at 1101 South Hope street by crawling along the roof and dropping through a narrow trap door, yeggs early yesterday morning blew open the office safe and rifled the contents. They obtained but $15, Detective Sergeants Oker and Wells found when they investigated the case.

The door of the safe, they reported, had been blown from its fastening by a charge of nitroglycerine. The yeggs made their exit through a side door after breaking off an inner lock.

BANDITS ROB HIM

H. H. Jordon, R. F. D., Burbank, reported to the police that as he crossed the intersection of North San Pedro and Arcadia streets early yesterday morning two Mexicans, armed with revolvers, held him up and robbed him of his gold watch and chain, a check for $67 and $20 in cash.

CHURCH MEETS IN HOME

Services Held in Living-Room of Old House With Sincere Worshipers and Intimate Understandings.

BY ALMA WHITAKER

It is very easy to worship God in Los Angeles. Some people think there are too many churches and too many creeds, and that there are not enough church-goers to fill them all.

But neighborhood churches are sort of neighborly, you know, and perhaps just as essential in their way as neighborhood picture shows.

ONE LITTLE CHURCH

There is one little church at Second street and Grand avenue called the Grace Baptist Church (independent) where fifty-seven souls found solace and inspiration yesterday morning. An old house among old houses, in the old, unfashionable part of the city—not even a real church, architecturally speaking, but a very real church of prayer and thanksgiving.

Gathered there in one large living-room, with a fireplace, old-fashioned gas bracket, a good piano and plenty of chairs, forty-two women, seven children and eight men met to commune with their God. It was all very simple and informal, minus any of the formalities and ceremonials of my own Episcopalian Church, and the pastor is unpaid and appeared in a cool Palm Beach suit. The smaller children, restless as babies are, were often bribed to good behavior with a piece of candy coaxed from papa's pocket, who believed in preparedness. Sometimes their little voices piped up in the midst of the pastor's discourse, but he only smiled good-humoredly.

ALL PART OF CHOIR

A charming young lady in a stylish gown sang one sweet solo, while another played that piano, but generally everyone joined heartily in the singing and formed their own choir. And even if we didn't always hit the key and sometimes missed the tune altogether, we knew that our music was acceptable to God.

This little church has only been established one short month, because its pastor and his wife have been away for two years in China, so they counted that congregation of fifty-seven as rather an achievement. And if sincerity and enthusiasm count for anything, that living-room is not going to be nearly large enough to accommodate the worshipers in another month or two.

It is the vogue to wax cynical about modern religious laxity, but to visit these little neighborhood churches is to restore one's faith. To hear that pastor preach and to hear the murmured "Amens" when he made a telling point, to see the devoted attentiveness, the keen appreciation of the sacrificial philosophy of life which this pastor offered them, was to realize that those people who still do go to church are tremendously sincere. They are holding the faith for the rest of us, carrying on for God against that day when the backsliders come back into the fold.

And they are praying for that day. Every Wednesday this little congregation meets to pray—to pray for that religious revival which they believe must come for the salvation of the world, to pray that God will answer the subconscious prayer of the many to "Help Thou our unbelief."

The pastor's sermon was taken from the twelfth chapter of St. John. And particularly that verse wherein Jesus told of the corn of wheat—its immense potentialities for harvest, its unproductiveness when it is selfishly retained, as when the Egyptians placed a corn of wheat in the palm of the hand of their dead, preserved but unproductive through the centuries, as modern Egyptologists have discovered. Hence Jesus died that the harvest of spiritual benefit might be attained, hence each and every Christian must make daily sacrifice that their own spiritual harvest, that the spiritual harvest of the world may be reaped.

DAILY PARALLELS

But he made this daily sacrifice tremendously worth while, giving us some very materialistic examples to make our understanding clearer. Thus in finance, to hoard the dollar and preserve it, wins no profit. But to pass it on, to loan it out for some one else's benefit, to forego its possession and its immediate purchase value for a while, is to receive it back with accrued interest, greater value later. And so, said the pastor, it is with those earthly pleasures, those immediate joys we forego in everyday life—every small sacrifice returns to us enhanced in spiritual value, increased and multiplied. But otherwise the earthly pleasure, the earthly personal advantage, like the corn of wheat that is preserved, "abides alone."

It was the simple philosophy of the cross made beautiful, made easy and human, and made intensely spiritually profitable. And eight men and forty-two women keenly, cheerfully, enthusiastically took this doctrine of daily sacrifice to heart, this creed of personal renunciation. And were obviously the happier for it. A doctrine wholly opposed to "having a good time," to "look out for yourself," to "take your pleasure when you may."

And for this the little congregation contributed to its limit when the collection was taken up. For this they have established this little neighborhood church. For this they meet thrice weekly in earnest prayer and thanksgiving.

The Lord's Supper was served at the close of the service, from a simple living-room table, in deepest reverence. And the men and the women and the children sang and went away with songs in their hearts. But not before kindly greetings had been exchanged at the door, not before some sweet human friendships had been cemented with kindly interest, not before the pastor had sent each forth with a personal blessing.

Just an old house in an old unfashionable neighborhood — but the spirit of the Holy Ghost was there.

GOLDEN STATE BUTTER

Golden State butter is dependable. Fifteen modern creameries are at your service—churning selected cream into Golden State. These creameries are located in the choicest dairying sections from Humboldt and Del Norte Counties on the north to Imperial Valley in the south.

The cream for these plants is produced in 35 California counties, and when productive conditions are not favorable in certain sections—as may happen due to seasonal influences—your supply of Golden State butter comes from our creameries in the dairy districts where conditions are at their best, and where clover and alfalfa are green.

It is this constant watchfulness that has made Golden State the standard of excellence. It is fresh when you buy it and it stays fresh until the last tempting bit has been cut from the dainty quarter-pound squares—wrapped by our new inventions—and protected from the touch of human hands.

DEFENDS THEORY OF EVOLUTION

"The doctrine of evolution is proving itself on the battlefield of the human mind," said Rev. E. B. Backus in a sermon at the First Unitarian Church yesterday. "It has enabled science to make more progress in the last half century than in all previous years of history.

"Violent enemies of evolution need to listen to the sage advice of Gamaliel to the priests when they talked of putting the apostles to death," said Mr. Backus. "'Refrain from these men and let them alone; for if this council, or this work be of men, it will come to naught; but if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it, lest haply ye be found even to fight against God.' We don't need to be afraid of the new ideas that come up from time to time. Life very quickly tries them out and if they be errors casts them on the scrap heap. If they be truths life takes them up into herself.

"The man who wants to rely on threat of prison to enforce his truth doesn't have as much faith in God as the one who says 'let our ideas grapple in free combat and the better one win.' The doctrine of evolution is proving itself on the battlefield of the human mind. It has enabled science to make more progress in the past half century than in all the previous years of human history."

"AS MAN THINKETH," BROUGHER'S SUBJECT

The necessity for pure motives and right thought in the development of character was emphasized in a sermon by Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher at the Temple Baptist Church yesterday. Dr. Brougher's discourse in part was as follows:

"Some people try to divorce acting and thinking but there is no puzzling debate as to which comes first. The old question whether the egg or the chicken came first is not involved in this present situation. For it is thought that precedes action and action precedes character. Character is the result of thinking. The wise man well said 'As a man thinketh in his heart so is he.'

"It is true that temporarily and under peculiar circumstances the duality of human nature is portrayed strikingly in the fact that a man may be one thing and think and talk another thing. He may be vinegar and talk molasses. It is even possible that he may be ordinarily sweet as an orange and under great provocation be as sour as a lemon. Unregenerate men have written books on theology and in some countries have occupied theological chairs.

"We do not stop thinking any minute during the day. It is then of course important that Christian people should learn to think upon the things that will make them what they ought to be in character and that will guide their conduct along the way of the largest success and truest happiness."

SAYS GOOD HEART MAKES FAIR FACE

Taking his theme from the "Old Man of the Mountains" in New Hampshire, Dr. E. E. Helms preached at the First Methodist Church yesterday on the topic "Faces." The following stories were told to illustrate the point that true beauty is the beauty of character which "makes the face to shine."

"As Florence Nightingale passed through the hospitals of the soldiers the wounded and sick men would kiss the shadow of the passing woman. Hers was a very plain face, but a blessed, benign, kind face.

"One day on the streets of Liverpool a beggar met that saintly man, William Pennyfather, in company with that successful but hard-faced lawyer, Reginald Radcliffe. The beggar quickly turned from the lawyer's face to that saintly face and said: 'Oh, you man with heaven in your face, give me a penny.'

"A woman coming from the presence of Lincoln with her husband's life in her heart and in her hand, exclaimed: 'They've lied about him; they said he was homely. His is the handsomest face I've ever seen.' Abraham Lincoln had the face we all need and, thanks to God! may have—a face, benign, kind, considerate, full of blessing and benediction."

DIAMOND-BUYING JOURNEY IS BEGUN

J. G. Donavan of Donavan and Seamans Company, Jewelers, has gone on a visit to the large diamond markets. Mr. Donavan's special mission, besides the purlarge stocks of mounted and unchase of mounted diamonds, will be to make a careful study of the latest European creations in diamond and platinum jewels.

Los Angeles is recognized throughout the Middle West and East as a market place for the finest jewel pieces made, Mr. Donavan says.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

HOW ABOUT A HEARTY BREAKFAST?

Recently the Medical Review of Reviews sent out a questionaire to physicians all over the country asking their professional opinions on the subject of a hearty breakfast for persons in sedentary occupations. It seems that 73 per cent of the physicians questioned believed a substantial breakfast, followed by a light lunch and a heavy meal in the evening, was conducive to better mental work.

One of the officials of the Medical Review tells me that most of the letters were sent to members of boards of health of the various States, and to physicians who specialize in dietetics. I think I can safely say, then, that the 27 per cent, who did not agree to the hearty breakfast for sedentary workers must have been those physicians who have specialized in the study of dietetics and therefore should be in a position to know more about the subject than those who have not. You can see from this remark where I stand on the subject.

In an editorial in the New York World this was said: "It is only common sense that the intellectual worker needs as much food as the manual worker. Writing a law brief stimulates the appetite quite as kneely as a round of golf. The plan of a hearty breakfast and a light luncheon is exactly contrary to continental practice. But the point for special remark is the return of the traditional American breakfast to its old status. Expert medical opinion took it away and expert medical opinion now restores it, to most people's satisfaction."

As this editorial probably expresses the reaction of very many others to this questionaire, I am going to point out the fallacy in it. It is not "common sense" that the intellectual worker needs as much food as the manual worker. It is because of this fallacious reasoning that three-fourths of our adult sedentarily occupied people are overweight.

It has been proved that the hardest mental work requires very little more nourishment than if one were idle. The old chap, who was always seen sitting outside his door, day by day, and on being questioned how he occupied his mind during that time responded: "Sometimes I sets and thinks and sometimes I just sets" does not need any more food when he sets and thinks than he does when he just sets.

Of course if, combined with the sedentary work, there is a goodly amount of physical exercise indulged in, that gives a different aspect to the case But the majority of sedentary workers get very little exercise.

Some years ago Dr. Edward Dewey started the practice of going without breakfast. He published a book on the No-Breakfast plan which gave the results of his observations that going without breakfast was beneficial. Very many individuals adopted this plan and were remarkably improved in health in consequence.

I believe, however, that they were improved in health not because they went without their breakfast, but because going without the breakfast cut down their daily consumption of food. While it is not true that everybody overeats, we have strong evidence to the fact that the majority of sedentary workers do.

Breakfast seems to be the easiest meal to omit. As a rule the evening meal is a hearty meal. During sleep this food is not all utilized and there is usually enough energy remaining from it to supply the morning energy.

I believe this question of the breakfast depends largely upon the total amount of food consumed during the day. For those who are overweight, those who belong to the vast F. F. F.—you know, the Friendly Fat Fraternity—I believe that a breakfast consisting of no more than 100 Calories is the best plan.

Dewey did advise the usual cup of coffee. I find that I do not get any hungrier with simply a cup of coffee with some cream in it than I do if I have a slice of toast also.

The whole question, to my mind, is a question of individual preference. If you like a hearty breakfast, and do not eat during the day more than you should for your activities, then it is all right for you to have that hearty breakfast. My preference is for a very light breakfast, a moderate lunch, some fruit or a cup of tea at tea time, and a moderate sized dinner. I find that I do better work on this plan.

IN THE CIRCLE

One of the lionesses in national politics says that some time back the women were trying to reach the votes of men through the influence of their wives. Now they are trying to catch the votes of the wives through the influence of the husbands. Whether this is a report of progress we are not informed.

HALL OF CONVERSATION

One of the leaders of the United States Senate is quoted as saying that if he were to make the Senate effective and responsive to the spirit upon which it was founded he would require that no man could be elected to the Senate unless he had first been a conspicuous success in some field of honorable endeavor aside from politics and oratory. It is the orators and politicians who are gumming up the works.

THE GREAT UNWASHED

There is a case in the divorce court which was prompted when the wife commanded the husband to take a bath. The husband naturally took a poke at the lady and then put on his hat and left the house. No red-blooded man would care to live with a woman as particular and finicky as that. Lots of husbands shrink when washed. They do not care to expose themselves to the wear and tear of the bath and no woman should insist upon it. Anyhow, let the man decide. If he cares to take the chances it should be up to him—not the matter of a woman's whim.

UNHOOKING THE HOOKWORM

Pathologists in the United States Army service in Manila say that almost nine out of ten persons in the Philippines have hookworm infection. The cases are not serious, but they lower the efficiency of the Filipino worker and likewise reduce the powers of resistance against malaria, tuberculosis and other ailments. The army scientists are using carbon tetrachloride as a specific against the parasite. This is powerful stuff, but, if chemically pure, seems to be safe. The doctors tried it out by giving four times the usual dose to prisoners under the death penalty. They got so spry and boisterous that the only way to get rid of them was to hang them. It is a big job to unhook the hookworm, but science is going to do it. Give it time and practice.

GROWING PAINS

The increase in school attendance in Los Angeles makes for a continual race between the taxpayers and the bondholders, but other communities also have their congestion problems. In the adjoining suburb of Eagle Rock the school registration has increased more than 60 per cent in a single year. It is doubtful if any California community will show so conspicuous an advance for a single season. The Eagle Rock building permits for the year thus far exceed $2,000,000 and the assessed valuation has almost doubled since the last general assessment was made. It is getting to be a mighty hard thing to build schools and homes fast enough to supply the immediate needs of many California communities in the Los Angeles neighborhood. This is a great country.

CROWNING GLORIES

In France the women are now dressing their hair so as to make their heads seem as small as possible. They are running it to a point on top of the dome and then covering it with a swell lid. A lady with a wee head is excused from much thinking. The smaller the bean the daintier the noodle. If she carries a tiny conk she doesn't have to be responsible. That may sometimes save her a lot of trouble if she is pinched for crime. So it is that the girls of Paris are now showing their ears and combing the hair toward the crown. They would not think of bobbing it. So far their American sisters have given no serious indication of following Parisian ideas of dressing the hair or lengthening skirts, but they are exposing their ears to the public gaze once more.

THE ARTFUL DODGERS

Some of the Senators and Congressmen who have privately approved the Presidential veto of the bonus measure have asked and been granted leave to "extend their remarks" on the bill in the Congressional Record. This will enable them to send out to service men an apparently glowing speech lauding the heroes of the war and demanding substantial recognition of them on the part of the government. In reading the proof a fine sprinkling of "applause" will be bracketed—and yet the speech was never delivered. Three-fifths of the Congressional Record is fraud and sham. It purports to carry words of wisdom that were never spoken on the floor. Statesmen find fault with the inaccuracies of the daily press. They complain when they are misquoted, yet they permit the Congressional Record to go forth bearing columns of grandiloquence attributed to them—words that were never uttered. Congressmen who are really dumb in the presence of their superiors may thus masquerade as Websters. Washington is full of hollow mockeries and many of them wear the trappings of a statesman.

CONSTANTINOPLE, SEAT OF EMPIRE

The Greek has long aspired to be the natural inheritor or, at least, executor of the estate of the Sick Man of the East. When the Turk appeared before the walls of Constantinople 469 years ago the Byzantine Empire tottered. Unable to break the chain which protected the entrance to the harbor, the Sultan Mohammed II had his fleet carried on rollers ten miles overland and launched it into an inner gulf. Constantinople fell. The Emperor Constantine died heroically in the breach. The city was delivered over to rapine, the mass of its inhabitants sold into slavery. The terrible Sultan, mounted on horseback, rode through the high door of the magnificent temple of St. Sophia and gave orders to slay the thousands who took refuge within its sacred walls. He destroyed every trace of its Christian use; cast out the holy vessels from the sanctuary and chiseled away every sign of the cross which had been carved in its ancient marble. That day the Christian temple became a Moslem mosque. On that day perished an empire which had kept the light of letters burning through all the night of the Dark Ages. Prostrate before the Turks lay the high hopes of Greek ascendency. Thence rose the Ottoman Empire.

At that hour was born in the hearts of the Greeks a resolve which has endured during the centuries, that the cross should yet fly above the crescent over the dome of St. Sophia and above the minarets of Constantinople. Since that day has the Greek watched the slow decay of the Turkish Empire, with an ear tuned to the click of the death watch. It was this long-inherited ambition which impelled the Greeks to cast off, unhonored, the great statesman who embodied all that was best in Greece, Venizelos, in favor of a king who promised to regain Constantinople for them. The Greeks displayed a desperate willingness to transfer their capital from Athens to Constantinople. The colossal defeat which the Greek armies have just suffered at the hands of the Turks makes that ambition again a dim and far-off possibility.

Consider for a moment the insoluble problem which thrives under the titles of the Near East question, the Turkish question, the eastern question and the position of the Greeks in it, for the Greeks have forced the present issue and put the torch to a conflagration which portends to sweep the world. The Turkish Empire, until it went under the knife at the Peace Conference, ranked with the greatest in the world. Half in Europe, half in Asia, she spanned the vast arch from Bagdad to Belgrade. She was an Asiatic power planted in Europe, a Mohammedan power ruling over millions of Christians, occupying the strategic situation, where two continents touch, where two seas mingle, sitting on the Bosporus holding the gates of Europe and Asia. When Napoleon and Alexander sat down to divide up the world between them Alexander pleaded: "Give or take what you will, but give us Constantinople." Napoleon replied: "Constantinople. Never. That means the rule of the world." Such is the importance of the erstwhile Turkish capital. When a rich man dies there are always plenty of heirs to step in and take possession of his property. The Greeks regard themselves as directly in line. The Armenians consider themselves numerous enough to form a state—but the Greeks and the Armenians hate each other more than they hate the Turks. Russia, Hungary, Serbia would scarce hesitate to take possession of the Ottoman Empire. To whom would go the prize?

No European statesman was wise enough to solve the difficulty. Along came the World War and appeared to settle the matter for all time. The declining Turk was driven out of Europe back into the little province of Angora in Asia Minor. Her empire was dismembered, her rich provinces divided up among her conquerors. France, Greece, Italy all got their shares and England, wise old England, took possession of the key to the Dardanelles, through which pass 12,000 grain ships a year to feed 50,000,000 peoples.

The Greeks, awarded that rare jewel, Smyrna, by the Treaty of Sevres, set about a merciless persecution of the Turks by fire and sword. Suddenly the Turks, harassed and driven, united by adversity under the leadership of that bold and astute man, Mustapha Kemal Pasha, turned upon the Greeks, scattered them to the winds and advanced to within striking distance of Constantinople, which they will undoubtedly attack, unless it is restored to them peaceably by the powers. And the powers are at this moment offering an exceedingly attentive ear to the Turkish proposals. England will compromise, if only the straits be kept neutral. Italy and France have already withdrawn their flags.

The Greeks have bungled their mandate; they have restored the Turk to Europe. Greek ambitions must take the direct consequences. The long-coveted inheritance of the Sick Man of Europe appears to have slipped through Hellenic fingers, never to be recovered.

THE BOGY MAN

Under the significant title of "The Bogy Man of the Bosporus" the Century Magazine publishes, in its current number, an avowedly open-minded article on the Turks, written by an American correspondent in Constantinople. It purports to be the first fair hearing which the Turks have yet had in the columns of an American journal and uncovers that long-shrouded thing, the Turkish point of view.

"The Turk, when he is allowed to talk, is as eloquent on the subject of his grievance against the Armenian and the Greek as the Armenian and the Greek are eloquent about their wrongs. Every Turk is not an assassin nor every Armenian a saint or a corpse. Why," asks the writer, "was the report of the commission of investigation of the Greek occupation of Smyrna suppressed? Why has no one blamed the Greeks for atrocities committed against the Turks in that occupation? Why does everyone write of Armenian refugees and never mention 70,000 Turkish refugees in Constantinople?

"Smyrna is the sorest of tender Turkish spots. The Turk maintains that atrocities were committed there by the Greeks under the very eyes of the Allied battleships and that the Allies, well aware of this, did not lift a voice in protest nor raise a hand in protection."

Since that article was written, however, the Turks have retaliated with such ferocity that the Greeks are broken and scattered and the once beautiful Smyrna is a heap of smoking ashes.

"The Turk maintains that the Armenian stayed at home during all the years of war and reaped his harvests, while the Turk went out to fight and die. The British policy," according to the correspondent, "has been a series of blunders since 1914, when Turkey was precipitated into the World War on the side of Germany by an order to British-Indian troops to invade Turkish territory. While the Allies have been quarreling over the white meat and the dark, a handful of Nationalist Turks have molded the Turkish people into a determined unit." And further: "It was simple enough to put the Greeks in Smyrna, but getting them out is another question." It may now be stated, ironically, that the Turks themselves have solved that problem for England.

A young Turkish editor has attributed the growth of the National movement to British blundering. "If England had been humane and fair," he says, "Turkey would be lost as a nation. England's mistakes have given us unity and action. The occupation of Smyrna was a part of the plan to destroy Turkey."

The Turkish Crown Prince told the writer that "No one has lost as we have lost, nothing is left of us but a little bit of Asia Minor. Surely we have a right to that. We have a right to live." Excerpts from the conversation of the Crown Prince reveal the Turkish trend of thought. "Our enemies are Curzon and Lloyd George. They are blind men. They will not see the truth. We have a great desire to be friends with England if she will permit it, but what are we to do? Our capital is occupied; our power is in Angora." And then he sounds the menace, "Any attempt to occupy Constantinople permanently would bring about a holy war, calling the Mussulmans of every land to the defense of the sacred capital."

The writer further notes that, though the Turks think America unfair in never giving their people a fair hearing, they are far more kindly disposed to America than to any other foreign power.

Since the "Bogy Man of the Bosporus" was written the Bogy Man has materialized into definite shape and appearance. But a few weeks ago the Turk was pleading for the very right of existence and now we see him dominant in Asia Minor and marching 450,000 strong on his way to retake the "Holy City." It is England who now fears for her safety, who is assembling her forces, feeling out her alliances, working her munitions factories twenty-four hours a day, preparing to stop the advance. Whether or not the Bogy Man is saying "Boo" will be proven shortly.

THE DANGER OF THE BLOC SYSTEM

The announcement that Samuel Gompers will stump the country on behalf of a political Labor-Union party, the elected members of which are to form another "bloc" in Congress, opens up nightmare visions of the future of government in this country.

Ostensibly "nonpartisan," any such party is obviously formed for purely selfish ends. Not the best interests of the country as a whole, but always the best interests of the particular bloc represented, will inevitably sway its judgments.

Whether it is a farmers' bloc or a motion-picture bloc or a business man's bloc or a woman's bloc or any other sort of a bloc, no matter how loudly they may assert their nonpartisan ethics, such groups of people are going to consider all legislation purely upon the merits of what their particular clique will get out of it.

"Blocs," as has been seen in European countries, stand ready to vote with any party or any group which will undertake to vote for some measure of theirs. You scratch our back and we will scratch yours. Nonpartisan means any sort of partisanship that will buy reciprocal support. It has no relation whatever to unselfish patriotism, the greatest good for the greatest number. It means nothing but a salable loyalty to be transferred to the best bidder for value received.

This was the condition in the British Parliament when the Irish Nationalist representatives swung their votes to Liberals or Conservatives at will for the wrecking of any administration which opposed their own cherished Irish dreams. Many a British administration has gone down to defeat for no other cause. The Irish question being what it was, this condition was unavoidable, but in this country such a situation is unthinkable among our own peoples. And the Irish were at least frank in their attitude, they never claimed "nonpartisanship."

But imagine the conduct of our country with several such blocs all vying with one another to subvert the administration, to terrorize it into measures for purely selfish interests, under the most refined "public-be-damned" principles. In self-defense every trade and profession and group would be trying to form aggressive blocs to protect and advance their special interests, every group for itself and the devil take the hindmost. What manner of stability and responsibility could any administration attain under such conditions?

It is this condition which is creating such an unspeakable situation in Italy today, with its confusion of selfish blocs, each intent upon winning support for its own class measures, conceding support only for support, opposing any and every measure which does not bear directly upon the particular bloc and the political advantages it aspires to.

If Samuel Gompers and labor-unionism succeed in forming any such political bloc in Congress there won't be any patriotic nonpartisanship about it. It will be for labor-unionism and only for labor-unionism. Any measures it supports for any other group will be paid for by the support of that group for some labor-union measure.

With one or two of such blocs in Congress a condition will be created under which no responsible administration can function. But, unlike the British system, our administrations cannot "go to the country" in the face of defeat, and the nation would simply have to endure such a corroding and stultifying situation until the end of each Presidential term.

In fact, the whole bloc idea is utterly pernicious and cannot be too ardently opposed, whether it be Labor Unionism, Farmers, Women, or any other selfishly inspired group.

THE NATION'S CONSCIENCE

Philip Kerr might be considered a lucky dog. He can stay at home and pass into the House of Lords, but he prefers now to come to America from England with a message. He is accused by many of being a protagonist for the League of Nations. That is no crime—in fact, it might be said to be an honor, but Kerr denies that he is speaking for the League or any part thereof. He prefers a world communion of thought and understanding. With a spell of fair play over the world there would be no possibility of war. Mr. Kerr does not pose as a spokesman for England, although for years he was the political secretary for Lloyd George. He says that the British Empire cannot long endure in its present form. If the world slips backward into the jaws of war the British Empire will be sundered in its Balkanization. If the progress is toward unity and peace the English empire will be replaced by some greater thing. It is for that greater thing that Kerr comes. The empire will yield to something worse or it will yield to something better. It will not continue indefinitely as it is. Unity of mind and purpose on the part of the English-speaking peoples would help to stabilize things. National selfishness that extends to injustice must be guarded against. It was a slow process, but the nations of the earth are gradually beginning to realize that America is not nationally selfish. We have a national conscience that would not consent to a manifest wrong against another country. If that is understood it will improve the position of this nation with the peoples of other lands. If we can keep our national conscience white and clean it will in time have a marked effect in shining up the rest of the world.

MAID TO ORDER

At the convention of the American Chemical Society it was promised that chemicals will have a great deal more to do in the matter of beautifying our women in the immediate future than they have had in the past.

The flapper of a few seasons hence may be a synthetic one. She may be a laboratory product. Her gown may be made from wood pulp. At that, it will be lustrous, rustling and shimmery. It will be possible to duplicate any fabrics now known and even add to their beauty. The shoes may then be made from a chemical formula that improves on leather and still enjoys its staying qualities.

Whether skirts are long or short will make no difference. The materials will come in general patterns or individual designs. It may not be necessary to use a needle. The chemist can create the costume as if it were done in a mold.

Likewise, the most delicate lace may be made by machinery after the materials have been provided through the genius of the chemist. Many jewels are synthetic and it is promised that the girl of the future will be "maid to order."

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

When to Become Dissatisfied

When the stomach's filled the brain's stilled.

Contentment is a cat-like sort of virtue that dims observant eyes and smothers fertile fancy.

Self-satisfaction is a subtle poison—it sleeps men stupid; it coats mind and muscle with fat; it rots the gristle in the meat.

But for our ordinary, every-day fight for a place in the sun the most of us would remain eternally infants—in mentality, physique and achievement.

Resistance makes men; troubles and struggles are fertilizer of progress.

There are a great many men whose outlooks are now threatening because they preferred a third-rate certainty to a first-rate opportunity.

Civil service ruins almost every good man who braves it; security of tenure and freedom from competition ease itching mind and muscle, mental inactivity dulls the senses, circumscription warps potentiality.

That is one reason why so often talent sleeps in mediocrity, the rut buries much genius, sameness robs saneness.

Our greatest men were and are, for the most part, just ordinary, every-day men except that they would not and do not "let well enough alone."

Always they fought and fight—for something better, bigger, broader.

The imperative time to become very much dissatisfied is when you are very much satisfied—the abyss of failure is choked with the wrecked remains of satisfaction-bound victims.

RIPPLING RHYMES

BUYING JUNK

We spend too much for foolish things,
For things we do not need; for Airedale pups and piston rings, for idle tales to read.
Tired father draws his weekly wage and says to wife and kin, "Since blowing coin is all the rage, come, let us blow it in.
I may be broke when I am gray, like other shiftless skates, but while I live no man can say that I have tightwad traits.
So, now, Miranda, don your lid and, children, come with me; along the village street we'll skid and buy all things we see."
Tired father labors long and hard to earn the helpful scads; through weary days he renders lard or fashions liver pads; through long, long hours he greases pigs for use at county fairs or manufactures oakum wigs like that which grandma wears.
And when he draws his weekly pay, all stained with honest sweat, he should to wife and kindred say, "The bank's the one best bet.
Just now you handed me some hints that you would shopping go, but I must see your plans and prints before a cent you blow.
I give you, wife, a silver dime, the children each a cent; there'll be no carnival of crime, no coin for doodads spent.
In yonder bank I'll place my roll and when we're old, eftsoons, we will not freeze for lack of coal or starve through dearth of prunes."

WALT MASON.

Never Said Damn

Senator Lodge says he knew Col. Roosevelt intimately for thirty years and never heard him say damn or anything of the kind, and we guess if a progressive man could go around with Cabot for thirty years and never cuss he wouldn't under any circumstances whatsoever.—[Columbus State Journal.

WILL CRESSY AND CALIFORNIA

Will Martin Cressy, a noted actor and sketch writer, recently entertained a group of people in Fresno, at the Commercial Club, with a clever essay on California. Our well-advertised cities, climate and fancies in turn are bombarded. No matter how much we love California, we can all appreciate Cressy's survey of our State.

Along about 1840 California really began to advance. A couple of fellows by the name of Lewis and Clark began running cheap excursions out over the Union Pacific Railroad.

The Barbary Coast was made an open port.

Joaquin Miller and Bret Harte began writing poetry about the climate.

But the State did not really get its start until a fellow by the name of Marshall started a gold cure up near Sacramento. Inside a year there were 6,000,000 of gold diggers—of both sexes—working there.

Thus we see that California was discovered by the Spanish, fought for by the Irish, settled by the Yankees—built by the Chinese—owned by the Jews—and run by the native sons.

With the Spanish in the south, the Yankees in the north and tourists all over it, California had a marvelous growth. In fact, it grew so fast that they had to divide it into two parts; Northern and Southern California. And had to place two deserts and a mountain range in between to keep the two parts from fighting.

The capital of the northern part was called San Francisco. That of the southern portion was called Los Angeles.

"San" means "Saint"—"Angeles" means "Angels." But that was quite a long time ago.

Los Angeles, including all the rest of California, is still larger.

San Francisco is bounded on the north by Alaska, on the east by Utah, on the south by Hollywood, on the west by the Hawaiian Islands and on the top of heaven. That is, by daylight. After dark it has no limits.

The Mount Tamalpais Railroad and the San Francisco City Hall are the two crookedest things in the world.

San Francisco has more restaurants named for dogs than any city in the world.

Seal Rocks and the St. Francis Hotel are renowned for the number of sealskins to be seen there on any afternoon.

The rest of the world dates its time before and after the birth of Christ. San Francisco dates hers before and after the fire.

The name of Los Angeles is Spanish. There are twenty-two ways of pronouncing it, all wrong.

It is inhabited by emigrants from Iowa and New England, tourists, real estate agents and movie actors.

Los Angeles is a seaport—situated eighteen miles from the sea. The only wonder in this is that they did not get it through to the Atlantic. For nothing stops Los Angeles.

They were short on water. So they ran a subway somewhere up into Canada and tapped the Arctic Ocean.

Then they had so much water they did not know what to do with it. And so they annexed another country to use up the water. Owing to these various annexes Los Angeles is now the largest city in point of farm acreage in the world.

One of the greatest assets of Los Angeles, although it is never mentioned by its inhabitants, is its climate. There are two kinds of Los Angeles climate. Perfect and unusual.

Owing to the fact that all Los Angeles dwellers are either rich or hopelessly broke, it is a great city for amusements. Golf, polo, baseball and bringing charges against the Mayor being the most popular.

There are more beautiful women in Los Angeles than any city in the world. But they all come from somewhere else—to go into the pictures.

Hollywood is a suburb of Los Angeles and is called "The City of Happy Homes," this being caused by the fact that husbands and wives there always occupy separate homes.

The imports of the southern cafeteria end of the State are rubes, boobs, hops, malt and actors. Her exports are oranges, films, canceled checks and raisins.

California leads the world in hotels, good roads, diversity of beautiful scenery, wonderful press agents, climate, moving pictures, automobile owners, flowers, hospitalities and local jealousies.

Oh, but I love California. Love it as only a native son of New England can love it. I love its lakes and rills, its mountains and hills, its deserts and seashore. But, best of all, I love its soil. These lots I own in Los Angeles.

I have an attachment for these lots I shall never lose. That is, it does not look now as if I ever would. The man who sold them to me said I could sell them some time at a profit. But he was a poor prophet. I just noticed the other day that the deeds read "To have and to hold."

But the great dream of my life is some time to settle down there in my own little bungalow, on my own little ranch and there, in the golden sunlight and the silvery moonlight of California, dream the hours away, seeing visions of other places and other times. And where can you find more to recall such visions than on a California ranch?

You wake in the morning to the music of a Connecticut alarm clock. You button your Boston garters into your Paris socks, your Baltimore suspenders on to your Duluth overalls—put on your Lynn shoes and your Danbury hat—and you're up for the day.

You sit down to your Grand Rapids table and eat your Hawaiian pineapple, your Quaker oats and your Aunt Jemima flapjacks swimming in New Orleans molasses.

Then you go out and put your Concord (N. H.) harness on to your Missouri mule, hitch it to a Moline (Ill.) plow and plow up a couple of acres of land covered with Ohio mortgages.

At noon you dine on Cincinnati ham, cooked in Chicago lard, on a Detroit stove, burning Wyoming coal.

And then, as the twilight falls, you fill up your Pride of Detroit with Mexican gasoline and dash out to the beach and, while sitting in a Greek restaurant, smoking a Boston-made cigar, you watch a New York girl dance the Memphis shimmy to the music of a New Orleans jazz band.

And then you go home, eat a Mexican tamale, smoke a Turkish cigarette, read a chapter of a Bible printed in London, Eng., say a prayer written in Jerusalem, put on your China silk pajamas, crawl in between your Fall River sheets and fight all night with the fleas—the only native product of your whole damned ranch.

JAPAN'S MUSIC MANIA

A music mania has descended upon Japan, according to a Japanese journal, which clearly has an editor with an unsympathetic ear. This same editor has a discerning eye, however; for he notices that Germany is supplying most of the instruments which support the "mania." German goods of other kinds, too, traveling to Japan are said to be increasing by leaps and bounds.—[Nation's Business.

A SPECIALIST IN TOOTHACHE

"Where were you yesterday, Jackie Jones?" asked the teacher.

"Please, miss, I had a toothache," answered Jackie.

"Has it stopped?" asked the teacher sympathetically.

"I don't know," said Jackie.

"What do you mean, boy?" remarked the teacher, her suspicions at once aroused. "You don't know if your tooth has stopped aching?"

"No, miss; the dentist kept it."—[London Answers.

THIS IS THE DAY

The first newspaper printed in America was issued in Boston by Benjamin Harris in 1690. The printer was Richard Pierce. It contained nothing but a synopsis of the various happenings in the colonies, ran no editorials, attacked no person or political party and promulgated no political, religious or social doctrines. Yet it was suppressed by the colonial legislative body as a dangerous innovation after the first numbers had been distributed.

Ethan Allen, the hero of Ticonderoga, was captured by a force of British and Indians near Montreal in the year 1775. He was harshly treated by his captors and sent in irons as a prisoner to England. He remained a prisoner till the spring of 1778, when he was returned to his home in Vermont. He died there in 1789 at the age of 52.

Home Sewing Week

Finds the Store Laden with Interesting New Fabrics and Other Dressmaking Aids

AND now a woman's fancy firmly turns toward home sewing. Here in the Store everything conspires to cement this determination. Exquisite brocaded silks suggest an evening frock for Winter dances and dinners, a dashing oriental silk, an overblouse, a woolly piece of camel's hair, a fascinating coat for little sister.

FALL SILKS
Gifted With Novelty

FROM the shimmering new crepe satins and other new crepe weaves, to lustrous Jacquards, supple brocades in velvet, satin or chiffon or striking metal brocades, to the new French fabrics, matelassee, and striking pieces of oriental inspiration, Silks strongly accent novelty and charm.

NEW WOOLENS
Stress Pile Fabrics

NEW pile fabrics, lustrous, supple, glowing with such hues as Genoese, vatican or new woodbrown shades are named ardenna, marleen or preciosa. They were plainly created with luxuriously fur-trimmed wraps and suits in mind. Dashing novelty eponges, prunellas, mannish mixtures, camel's hair and twills are here.

COTTONS
Include Gay New Prints

NEW Fall Cottons—prints, voiles, ginghams, suggest attractive house frocks or children's apparel. Gay new prints with Persian designs are exceptionally effective, and with but little trimming and a simple pattern, they will achieve very smart garments.

TRIMMINGS
Were Never So Beautiful

MANY a woman will build her frock around the Trimmings, so beautiful are metallic laces or beaded bandings for evening gowns, oriental bandings for blouses or the afternoon frock, smart new braids for street costumes, and a wealth of new girdle arrangements that accent striking flower novelties.

FOR LINGERIE
Supple Silks and Cottons

TO fashion new Lingerie out of the delectable new silks—the sheer white and flesh colored batistes and voiles, some cross-barred or plaided in effect, is surely a winsome task. Rose-colored crepe de chine, radium satin and tricot are here in an especially large selection.

Corset Values

FOR your immediate acquaintance with the enlarged and improved Corset Section, we offer:

From Regular Stock

Three Lots

No. 1, Values $3.50, for...$1.98 (Sizes 20 to 30)

ASKS INFORMATION OF BOY IN MEXICO

LONG BEACH WOMAN FEARFUL THAT PRISONER HELD BY BANDITS IS HER SON

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 24.—Mrs. May Sullivan of 237½ Olive street, this city, has asked the aid of local and Federal authorities to determine whether or not her son, Niles E. Sullivan, was one of the three Americans reported yesterday as having been captured by Mexican bandits near Tuxpam.

The young man is reported to have left Houston, Tex., for the vicinity of Tuxpam, last February. He is said to have entered the employ of an American oil company. Late advices show he reached his destination and Mrs. Sullivan told local authorities today that she fears he is one of the trio of Americans being held by bandits for ransom. Mexican Federal troops are said to be in pursuit of the bandits.

California's Crew Easily Wins Rowing Match

Eight thousand men of the Pacific Fleet yesterday afternoon watched the champion raceboat crew of the superdreadnaught California completely outclass the Tennessee's twelve crack oarsmen in a special three-mile race at Los Angeles Harbor.

"Bugs" Huckaby's crew had the men from the Rebel Ship taking their wake from the drop of the flag and finished six full boatlengths ahead.

A fund said to total more than $15,000 went to the California men as a result of their victory.

DISCUSS AMENDMENTS

Pasadena Open Forum to Instruct Voters on Proposed Changes

Pasadena will tonight inaugurate a weekly open forum at the Raymond Temple on Walnut street, opposite the public library. Voters will be instructed by speakers on the significance of proposed constitutional amendments.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock Harold Landreth and Dan J. O'Leary, commander and adjutant, respectively, of Pasadena Post, American Legion, and Dr. Franklin Mather will discuss six of the amendments to be voted on.

Los Angeles speakers have been invited to later meetings.

EXPLAINS TREATMENT OF AQUEDUCT WATER

The treatment of Los Angeles Aqueduct waters will be described in an illustrated lecture to be given on the evening of October 10 by Dr. Carl Wilson before the Synchronous Club at 255 South Hill street.

Newly elected officers of the club, which is composed of Los Angeles electrical men, were announced yesterday. They are as follows: President E. B. Pinson; vice-president, J. G. Moojen; secretary, H. D. Easterbrook; treasurer, J. E. Glenn; sergeants-at-arms, N. B. Hinson and Vernon Brown.

CRISWELL TO SPEAK AT ELECTRIC CLUB

Ralph Criswell, president of the City Council and acting Mayor, will be the principal speaker at the Electric Club luncheon to be held at noon today in the ballroom of the Hotel Alexandria. He will address the club on "Charter Changes in the Election of the City Council."

Mr. V. Kersey, director of part-time education in the city schools and principal of Polytechnic Evening High School, will speak on "Education in Business." Miss Fritze Fern of Hollywood will read an essay on "Industries of California." K. E. Van Kuran will preside.

People and Their Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

Girl Babies Drug on Market

BY DOROTHY DIX

One of the most curious things in the world is that when people are going to have a child of their own they almost invariably importune the stork to bring them a boy baby, yet if they are going to adopt a child they nearly always choose a girl baby.

Orphan asylum officials tell you that they have a never-ending demand for female infants, while scarcely anybody is willing to take as a gift the male of the species. Yet in the family circle where people's babies are wished on them instead of their having a chance to choose the kind of a one they want boy babies are universally regarded as a valuable family asset, while girl babies are always below par and generally below M. A. in public estimation.

Of course, it is easy to see why boys should be in demand in Europe, where there are titles to be inherited and great names to be perpetuated and where a dot has to be thrown in, like a chromo with a pound of tea, with a girl, to get her married at all.

In America, where all babies are born free, and are equally entitled to get out and support the family, there seems no reason for this invidious class distinction.

Nobody will deny that it exists, however. When the first baby turns out to be a girl, instead of the expected boy, the good wishes offered her parents are polite, but without effusion, but everybody gushes over a bouncing baby boy.

Now, regarded as babies, it would seem to the dispassionate observer that there was no choice. Both are mere wobbly masses of muslin and lace in which only a parent's inspired gaze can distinguish a difference. Both are leather-lunged, and when a girl baby goes after high C in the stilly watches of the night, she can fetch it with the same unerring precision, and murder sleep with it as effectually as any boy baby.

Moreover, both are equally valuable as training parents for papa when he qualifies in the long-distance nocturnal walking match. Both prove that the art of oratory is not a lost art by saying "Goo" in a way that the mendacious parents translate into bursts of eloquence, and both achieve the unparalleled feat of cutting a first tooth that the satellites around the cradle regard as the most beautiful and rare object of virtue in the world.

Of course, it will be urged that the chief pleasure to be derived from a baby is the pleasure of the imagination, and the stimulus it gives to fancy. All the great romancers and liars have been parents. The cruel world may see nothing remarkable about a wobbly, moon-faced little creature, but its father and mother can detect genius in a countenance with no more expression in it than a saucer of breakfast food; they behold intellect stamped upon the noble forehead that is so broad that it runs to the back of the hairless head; they marvel at the logical faculty, so fully developed in one so young, that leads it to cry when it is hungry, and when the little face gets as red as a boiled lobster and the little hands beat the air in impotent rage, they are filled with admiration of its precocity at knowing how to howl for the things it wants.

The chief wonder, however, to every parent is that his own baby should be so different from every other baby.

But, granting all this, why doesn't a girl baby offer just as much field for the disporting of her parents' imagination as the boy does? Indeed, one might almost say that she should be a preferred risk, as she has two chances at a career to her brother's one. She may either be something herself, or marry a man who is somebody. A girl is just as liable to marry a president, or a trust magnate, as a boy is to become one.

Another advantage in girl babies is that they stay babies longer, and take naturally to being dressed up and shown off. From the start a girl recognizes that curl papers, and acting pretty in company are her predestined lot in life, but the boy who doesn't rebel against bobbed hair, and who doesn't behave himself in a manner to bring shame and disgrace upon his family when he is being exhibited to guests, ought to be taken out and chloroformed for the benefit of the human race.

Later on in life, it is still incontestably true that the girls are a greater comfort to their parents than boys. Except in very rare moments, no weeping mother sits up nights to open the door to a prodigal daughter. It is the girls who stay at home and bear the old people company when the boys have gone away. In poor families it is the girls who work and bring all of their wages home for the general support of the family, while the sons are spending their earnings out with the boys; and at the last, it is the married daughters, not the son, who usually shelters and supports her father and mother in their old age.

As a matter of fact, from the time a boy begins life in the dairy business, until he ends it watering stock in Wall Street, he is generally a good deal of a disappointment to his parents, and the only time they get much of his society is while he is in the cradle. By the time they get through nursing him with the measles, patching his trousers, paying his college debts and harvesting his wild oats, they have to begin putting up with his wife, and the race is run.

Yet, for all that, except for the sake of variety in a family, nobody wants a girl baby.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

The Turkish Problem

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have had the occasion to read several editorials in your paper lately regarding the recent crisis in the Near East. These articles would lead one to believe that the Allies, representing Christianity on the one hand, stand united against the forces of Mustapha Kemal, whose military successes may unite a united Islamic movement. You even call upon Germany to side with her late enemies in the cause of Christianity, and perhaps she will then be permitted to take her place among the nations of the world. The issue is clear. It is to be Christian vs. Mohammedan.

However, I do not agree with this attitude. I feel that it is provocative to a religious war, potentially far more fanatical, and far more terrible than the great war. Religious intolerance is a noxious plant, whose roots go so deep that even in this liberal day, it is still undestroyed. Your editorials go far to reanimate this dread weed among your readers and you seem to be unwilling to give all the facts of the case.

Probably that which is most conducive to unrest in the Near East, has been the discovery and development of oil lands. Britain and France, jealous of each other's material gains, stand arrayed against each other, diplomatically. Instead of these two confessedly Christian countries standing shoulder to shoulder against the followers of the Crescent, the reverse appears to be the case.

From Greek dispatches, France has been accused of aiding the Turks with armaments. I quote from the Living Age: the following, "The French . . have sent field artillery, machine guns, airplanes and aviation instructors to Mustapha Kemal at Angora." What have we here? A Christian country aiding the heathen Turk? Here surely is no religious war at present? It is only the outcropping of greed, hatred, and political aspirations. I agree that it is filled with the portents of a religious war, in which our Christian God-fearing and oil-seeking nations will have to withstand the united Musulmans, at last forgetful in the blind fury of fanatical warfare of former intrigues and political promises.

Your editorials tend to provoke sympathy toward the Christian sufferers recently ravished by the Turks in the last drive on Smyrna. Any attempt which will put before the public the horrors attending any war cannot help but be conducive to thought; however, I must decry any attempt to place all the blame for the suffering produced upon the Turkish army. May I quote from another dispatch: "It is feared the Turks may take reprisals against the Christian population for the action of the Greek army in burning scores of Turkish villages on its advance toward Angora."

Thus, at present, there are at least some who see in the present imbroglio a continuation of the selfish dominance of larger powers over more helpless peoples. That the present crisis is pregnant with all the possibilities of ferocious warfare, is indisputable, but surely the cause cannot be attributed to the Mohammedans alone, as our Christian countries are doing more than their share in bringing trouble about in their insatiable desire for more and more power.

The Bonus Veto

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Let us see, in part, if the reasoning as set forth in the President's veto message on the bonus measure consistent with past and prospective legislation that has and will be enacted.

The bonus, it is so stated, is "a perversion of public funds." As a premise concede that there were no ex-service men who at the expiration of their service found themselves as a result of lending their lives and time financially in a better situation than just prior to the time of enlistment. Do not say that we were better paid than any of the Allied soldiers. We were, but likewise our expenditures such as insurance, allotments, toilet articles, tobacco, laundry, hospital fees and an occasional change from the Army ration cost more in a like proportion. Some men of my acquaintance had as high as $3 and $4 left after the above. Also in this connection do not tell us about the generosity of the insurance feature. We paid for it at the regular rates that prevailed for such insurance and this at a time when the men in the munition factories, railroads and shipyards were being protected at no expense to themselves by compensation insurance which prevails in every State in the Union. If then compensation for the ex-service men is "a perversion of public funds," how is the annual billion-dollar interest now paid to those who only offered dollars justified? How was the guaranteed war-time price on wheat warranted? How is the unknown amount, presumably from a half to a full billion, granted the railroads for so-called war losses to be upheld? What about the war cost-plus contracts? So on ad infinitum. What about the subsidies now about to be saddled on us, the ship subsidy and a tariff higher than in all tariff history before? Do not these "mean increased taxation?" Other than the tariff is there not "the failure of Congress to provide a means of financing" in except the "general revenues?"

Is it better to hold out to the man only the prospect of an old age pension (charity) as so intimated in the message than to subsidize the man to that end that he may become self-sustaining through the features of the act, land aid, education, or the cash to help embark on a small business venture?

We are told that this would be legislation for a "class." It means a distribution of approximately $4,000,000,000 among 5,000,000 of our population of 110,000,000. With the Secretary of the Treasury please inform us into how many hands the interest in the war debt ultimately to amount to $12,000,000,000 now goes. Aye, he will find the number of these bondholders less by far than the number of ex-service men. It will be said that in these instances there is a beneficial reaction for all people by these measures, granted, so would have good reactions resulted from the "bonus legislation."

My vision is limited, my reasoning, maybe wrong, the compensation may not be justified, but how then from the same viewpoint for all is the rest to be considered right and this one measure wrong?

Antivivisectionist Speaks

GLENDALE, Aug. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Were your letter, Alice McCann, not an expression of a tragic attitude, it would furnish amusement for a majority of your readers.

You say we antivivisectionists know nothing about vivisection; that we have never been in a vivisection room; that all our "facts" are stories told to us by people of "over-stimulated imaginations." We do not need to visit the vivisection-hells. Some of the evidence comes to us. Call upon Miss H. H. Jacobs, 2908 Roosevelt street., Kansas City, Kan. She will show to you a dog, "Mike," which was almost cut to shreds, bearing fourteen wounds made by a surgeon's knife. In some way he was rescued, and was nursed by gentle hands, back from death's door in the torture-trough.

We have the testimony of the vivisectors themselves, printed as "scientific data" in their own magazines. We have the affidavits of those who have been eyewitnesses. An affidavit is hardly the product of one's imagination. We have the exposures given by some of our own members, physicians themselves, fearless, humane, progressive, free from politics, graft and commercialism; honest enough to admit the utter futility of these atrocious, hellish outrages against our fellow creatures.

Pray tell us, Alice McCann, what vivisection-hells have you visited to gather your first-hand knowledge? What torture-troughs have you stood over? Tell us what vivisectors have thrown open for your inspection their worse than Spanish-Inquisition chambers. Perhaps you visited the laboratory of a sanatorium run by a certain religious sect not far from Los Angeles, or that of our State Medical School. Maybe you were piloted through the sacred precincts of the Rockefeller Institute. By chance you may have journeyed to Geneva, Switzerland, and there was ushered into the animal purgatory founded by $100,000 of Red Cross money.

Or have you merely swallowed the mendacious soothing-syrup of the M. D. butchers, and then, pharisaically set yourself up as a censor of your seniors, a body of women and men who, personally, have nothing to gain, but who are endeavoring to and who will stop the hideous practices now carried on behind the "closed door."

You bring out the old, box-office stuff that it is better to experiment upon a dozen dogs than upon one child. You are, indeed, callow if you still possess the delusion that the experiments of vivisectors stop with the animals! We would like to show to you "a report upon the thousand tuberculin tests in young children" published in Archives of Pediatrics.

With calm assurance you say that the animals do not suffer at all. You contradict the vivisectors themselves. They do not deny the suffering, but say, "The test of some experiments is the pain they cause." Rest assured they do not waste much money on anaesthetics. Straps and thumb-screws are cheaper. Callisection, indeed!

Alice McCann! Put your ear to the ground! Can you not hear that ominous sound? It is the crying and the moaning of thousands upon thousands of agonizing creatures, it is the pad, pad of millions of weary little feet! That sound is growing in volume—it is drawing nearer and nearer. The heavy throb of its anguished rhythm shall beat upon the ears of those who sleep. The whole world shall awaken and cry, "Vivisection shall be no more!"

Answer: In fog, mist or falling snow, steamers under way must sound blasts of four to six seconds' duration at intervals not to exceed two minutes when at sea. On inland waters the foghorn must sound once a minute. Should the steamer stop, she must sound two such blasts about a second apart. Sailing vessels when under way sound one blast each minute when on the starboard tack, two blasts when on port tack, and three blasts when the wind is abaft the beam. Vessels at anchor ring the bell for about five seconds once a minute.

Q.: Is there more than one dead letter office? E. V. L.

A.: Besides the office in Washington, D.C., there are dead letter offices in New York City, Chicago, San Francisco, Honolulu and San Juan.

Q.: Can street car, engine and steam roller wheels be made out of papier mache and, if this is possible, is it done? M. E. R.

A.: The Bureau of Standards says that the only case it knows of where wheels of this class are made is in Pullman cars. Pullman car wheels have been made very successfully by glueing together a large number of plates of cardboard with two outside plates of thin metal surrounded by steel tires.

Q.: How can fruit juice be kept from spoiling? W. M. J.

A.: Fruit juice held at freezing temperature of 0 deg. Fahr. to 10 deg. Fahr. retains its fresh fruit flavor and color, while fruit juice kept at 32 deg. Fahr. will become moldy and ferment. The flavor and color is better than that of fruit juice kept at room heat preserved by pasteurization.

Q.: Did the soldiers beguile the tedium of the winter at Valley Forge by gambling and card playing? C. R. S.

A.: Gambling games were not allowed and even playing cards were not permitted at Valley Forge.

Q.: Has Pennsylvania ratified the Prohibition Amendment? E. H. L.

A.: Pennsylvania has not yet ratified the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

Q.: What German paper is offering a prize for distance flight in a motorless airplane? G. C. A.

A.: The Berlin Tageblatt has offered 100,000 marks to the German pilot making the longest distance flight in a German plane before September 1st next. At the present rate of exchange the prize would not interest outsiders, even if they were eligible.

Q.: How many kinds of dogs are there? J. G.

A.: The American Kennel Club recognizes sixty-eight breeds besides eleven that are classed as foreign dogs.

A.: The fall line is the boundary between the Atlantic Coastal Plain and the Piedmont Belt to the west, which is marked by falls or rapids in most of the streams, due to the fact that the rivers can cut more rapidly in the soft unconsolidated rock of the Coastal Plain than in the hard crystalline rocks of the adjacent regions. In early days the falls marked the head of navigation for the coastwise trade, and power is developed along the fall line, to which is ascribed the location of many cities, among them being Washington, Richmond, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Trenton, Columbia, Macon and Montgomery.

free from destructive "Sulpho" compounds

How you can save money on gasoline

Cycol is the motor oil free from destructive "sulpho" compounds. These are removed by the new Hexeon process used only by us. Cycol does not thin out nor break down rapidly under engine heat. It retains its "body" and maintains an "oil-tight" piston seal.

This prevents power loss and leakage of gases into the crankcase. The direct result is a saving in gasoline. It is also the conclusive proof of the high lubricating value of Cycol. Flush your crankcase and refill with Cycol.

HOPPE IS TEACHING PATRONS TO PLAY

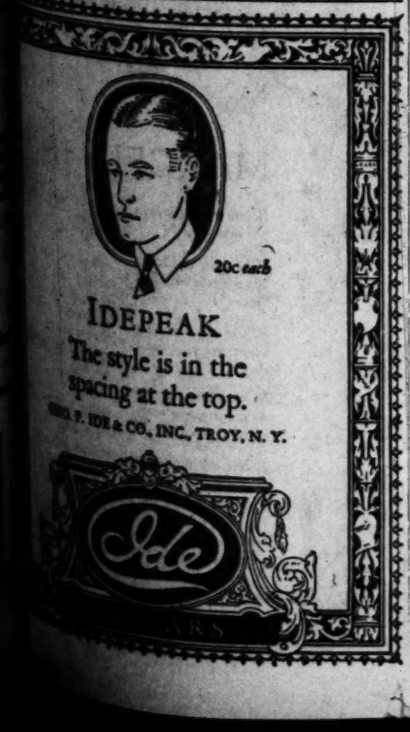
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—One of the features of Hoppe's new billiard room in New York City is that every morning until noon, Hoppe and Charles Peterson, the fancy shot expert who is associated with him, will give instruction in billiards to patrons without charge. This means they will answer questions and demonstrate shots when asked to by players.

ONLY FOUR PLAYERS MAKE 3000 SWATS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Only four baseball players in the forty-seven years of the Major League baseball history have succeeded in making 3000 hits during their respective careers. They are Hans Wagner the famous Pirate shortstop who leads with 3430, Cobb, Lajoie and Cap Anson. Cobb in eighteen years has a record of 3240. Lajoie in twenty-one years got 3236 and Anson in twenty-two years registering 3051.



SIXTEEN COP TROPHIES

Success Crowns Opening Shoot of Los Angeles Gun Club at Griffith Park Traps

The opening shoot of the Los Angeles Gun Club at the new Griffith Park traps yesterday was greeted by a large crowd, among which were numbered many stars with the shotgun.

Sheriff Traeger fired the first shot and was not surprised, he said, when he smashed the target. After the official had started the smashing everyone went wild and Bob Bungay, local star, made a perfect score.

The weather was just as it should have been and altogether the first affair was a decided success, according to Secretary Fred Teeple.

AWARDED TROPHIES

Bob Bungay, Frank Mellus, H. Pfirmann, Mrs. Greenfield, Mrs. Knight, Miss Leonard, D. L. Reed, Mrs. Creighton, H. Weatherwax, C. J. Hurst, Lou Reed, E. M. Nutting, G. B. Warmath, C. W. Tabler, Homer Smith, J. C. Deagan.

WORK SPEEDED UP ON TIJUANA TRACK

Despite the report that the Bassity interests are seeking to have an attachment levied on the Tijuana (Mex.) race track, the work of making ready for the season which is set to be opened November 30, is going ahead without any interruption. This is the situation, according to those who have visited Tijuana within the last few days.

A force of men is busily engaged in improving the track, painting the buildings and in other ways giving the plant a rejuvenated appearance. Without result the Bassity interests have several times sought such an attachment against the Tijuana Jockey Club, the Mexican courts always denying the writs.

JESS WILL SPAR FOR VETERANS

Willard Tenders Services to American Legion at Fresno October 6

Jess Willard has accepted an invitation to appear in a boxing exhibition for Fresno Post No. 4, American Legion on Friday night October 6. Willard will box four rounds with a sparring partner.

When the former champion was apearing in vaudeville in San Francisco two weeks ago, he was approached by a representative of the Frenso Post, and Gene Doyle, representing Willard, promised that as soon as Willard had an open date he would go to Fresno and appear for the Legion boys.

In addition to Jess Willard's appearance there will be a regular boxing show. The proceeds of this show will go toward helping the Legion Post equip a football eleven.

BIG DEMAND

Willard and his representative, geles the day before the show. Gene Doyle, will leave Los An-The former champion will put in the next few weeks sparring exhibitions at boxing shows. He is in big demand now that the general public realizes that he is going to be the man to meet Dempsey when Tex Rickard promotes his next big match at Jersey City. The bout will in all probability be held between April and July 4 of next year.

Willard will keep working along carefully by boxing these exhibitions until the time comes for him to pitch in and do some hard work. He will train like a Trojan and declares he will be in the pink of condition when he meets Dempsey the next time.

SOCCER BODY CUTS OUT SUNDAY PLAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Although the London (England) County Council is prepared to permit Sunday soccer football, the football association, the governing body, says "No." As it was in the earliest days of the football association, it is today, and registered players who play Sunday games are liable to a life suspension.

DEMOCRATS TAKE UP THE MANLY ART

Jefferson High is the latest addition to local schools to organize a boxing team. The team will be under the direction of Coaches Costello and Mitchell who will, after the team is will under way develop boxers in every division for school bouts. Prominent among high school lads who will participate in the events are Leslie Patterson, Ray Morgan and Kenny Stottard.

Downs states that he is to play half and does not believe in yelling down despite his name.

ROMANOFF MEETS "BOOL"

Grapplers to Feature Boxing and Mat Festival Staged by Newsboys Wednesday Night

Bull Montana is polishing his famous tin ears in preparation for his wrestling match with Constantino Romanoff at the Los Angeles Newsboys' Club, 209 Court street, next Wednesday night. Mr. Romanoff has requested that the multitude assemble early, for he intends to demonstrate every one of his thousand holds at the expense of the film idol. Mr. Montana declares one hold is sufficient to flop Romanoff, but that if it will help matters any he will make every one of his thousand faces.

Romanoff is believed to see in Wednesday night's match an opportunity to add to his reputation as a mat artist. He is recognized throughout the country as one of the cleverest big men in the game. The fact that he outweighs "Bull" by twenty pounds or more is not expected to have any material bearing on the result, for the screen star is possessed of abnormal strength.

WILL SHOW OFF RING

Just before the match starts "Bull" will exhibit his three-karat diamond ring and the latest thing in brown derbies. Moreover, he will have his big shiny roadster bathed in cologne water and everyone who attends the show will be given a look and a whiff free of charge.

In addition to the Romanoff-Montana wrestling match, which promises to be a good one on account of the fact that both men are big fellows and willing, Manager Carlos Curtis has scheduled several boxing bouts. In the main listic go Kid Chili will meet Young Joe Rivers, who astounded the crowd at the last show staged two weeks ago when he stood toe to toe with Fidel La Barba for four rounds, slugging on an almost even basis. Although La Barba is considered by many the best "prospect" on the Pacific Coast, he was pressed hard by Rivers.

FOUR-FISTED SCRAP

Johnny Cooper and Battling Red also are expected to put up a four-fisted fight. These scrappers are 120-pounders. Benny Miller and Joe Fox will weigh in at 100 pounds for their argument. One of the featured events is a battle royal.

Large Number of Candidates for All Positions

Brothers of Several Stars Try for Berths

Pasadena High School has not been saying much during the last few weeks, but the work which certain members of the student body have been doing is said by the coach to speak for itself.

Pinky Griffith has been very taciturn during the past few days and not until confronted by a cameraman did he condescend to spout a little of the valuable dope.

"We have a fair team this year," stated the auburn - roofed mentor, as he parked his well-rounded figure in the shade of the new grand stand which is nearing completion, "and we expect to win some games. We are not egotistical enough to say that we are to be the City League champions, but we have hopes the same as every other team."

SEVEN VETS ON TEAM

After pumping for a long time it was discovered that Pinky had been pumped dry, however, several of the youngsters on the squad were anxious to have the world know that there was such a team as the Bulldogs.

"We have about half a dozen men who are of the stellar type and a lot more that are rounding into fine shape," said one of the men on the varsity, "and a lot of others who show signs of being good if they can get enough practice."

Seven lettermen are back, Williard Downs, captain and star fullback of last year; Jim Coburn, halfback; Harold Novis, end; "Fat" Martin, center; Roya Chapman, tackle; Tex Crow, guard; Sam Dagley, quarterback.

These men are all first-class men and made good records last year. Formost among them is Downs who was picked as all-Southern fullback. This year he expects to play half, but as the Pasadena coach does not stand very much upon ceremony he does not have a very fixed backfield. Downs may play in the "full" berth

MANY LIKELY CANDIDATES

Among some of the other likely looking candidates are O'Conner, Scoville, and Chauffeen, all backfield men who played either as substitutes or lightweights last year.

Paul Bye, Scrib Birlanbach, Herb Sundstrom, "Fat" Kieth, Al Thormgren, and Bert DeGroot are all in line for the end positions. DeGroot is the brother of Dud DeGroot, captain of the Stanford University grid team, and is one of the best men out for the job.

Elbert and Joe McClelland are a couple of heavy gentlemen who are showing brotherly love by trying to play guard on opposite sides of the line. Vey Peterson, Art Jones, Babe Orr and Toots Downs, brother of the captain, are all trying to become the varsity tackles.

Kenneth Graham claims that he is about the only man who has the nerve to try out for the center position.

SHOULD SHOW SPEED

The team averages 165 pounds to the man and considering that three of the backfield men are sprint men in track they should show some speed on the grid.

Los Angeles High School will be the first team to get a good crack at the Millionaires when they meet them on the Bulldog field Friday in a practice game. The two teams will not meet in a regular game during the City League season unless the season ends in a tie for the couple.

BOXING AT L.A.A.C. ON THURSDAY

George Blake Has Lined Up Cracking Good Card of Slugging Quality

Another well-rounded boxing card will be staged in the gymnasium of the Los Angeles Athletic Club next Thursday evening.

George Blake, boxing instructor of the L.A.A.C., has lined up a typical fighting bill. Nearly every tilt is expected to be a knock-down and drag-out affair as particular attention has been taken by Blake to select fast steppers and hard hitters.

Local boxing fans are taking kindly to the high-class boxing programs being staged by the Mercury institution and already reservations for seats for next Thursday night's bill have been received by Charley Keppen of the L.A.A.C.

SOCCERITES TO PLAY

The L. A. Scottish Soccer team will clash with the Sons of St. George soccer players in a practice match at Hazard Field this afternoon, according to Secretary Oscar Ewing.

SIKI AND WILLS BOUT PROPOSED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—An offer of $150,000, irrespective of decision, for a fifteen-round contest with Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, was cabled tonight to Battling Siki, Senegalese boxer, who defeated Georges Carpentier in Paris today, by the match-maker for the Ebbets-McKeever Exhibition Company, operators of Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn.

The offer suggested October 12 as a date for the bout with the idea that Siki is now in good physical condition and could reach this country in a week's time.

BULLY MENU FOR COAST GRID FANS

Present Football Season Looms as Greatest in State's History

With the completion of the arrangements for the football game between Stanford University and Pittsburg, to be held at Palo Alto on December 30, the gridiron fans of this State are assured the finest schedule of games that has ever been compiled. It looks as though the 1922 season would go down into history as the daddy of 'em all.

Competition is much keener than ever before. California, Stanford and U.S.C., the "big three" of the State, are much more evenly matched than has recently been the case. Henderson's eleven—with all his home-made gloom—looks to be at least as strong as last year and in all probability is stronger. California is probably a little weaker than last year. Stanford is undeniably the shady equine and a lot of folks have the idea that the Cards are going to upset things.

Here in the south the conference race looks unusually good. Whittier's championship eleven seems to be a little weaker than last year. Pomona has more veterans back than ever before in her history, and the Sagehens are already looking for a place to put the championship as soon as they win it. Caltek has a big bunch of veterans back and Trotter, at Southern Branch, is blessed with better material than usual. Redlands should be as good as last year, and Occidental is about the same.

The high school race will again continue right through until the tail-end of December. U.S.C. plays the Oregon Aggies down here early in December. The Occidental Tigers are planing a high-geared post-season game if they have good luck, and it is certain that the Pasadena Tournament of Roses will stage a big New Year's Day game with two eastern teams playing, in case California continues to behave the way she did last year and no other Coast team of prominence is available.

GIRL SWIMMERS IN A COMPETITIVE TOUR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LUCKY STRIKE WINS BOAT RACE

Hal Tuttle's Valve-in-Head Runs Close Second

Rough Water and Fog Slows Speed of Motor Craft

Magna is First in "Step-Up" Class; Fourth in Race

Alvin Frank's Lucky Strike lived up to its name and made a lucky strike by winning the first prize of a Hall Scott racing motor, in the race held yesterday afternoon at the outer harbor race course for small boats of not more than 600 cubic inches displacement.

Hal Tuttle's Valve-in-head I took second place by finishing less than two minutes behind the Lucky Strike and Griffin's Radio took fourth money.

The Magna, Miss Ansella's brilliant-hued craft won fourth place in the race but took another of the Hall Scott motors for beating out all of the other "step up" boats which were entered.

The race was run over the sixteen and a half-mile course which took away a great deal of the excitement and interest as the boats could be seen for only a small part of the way. The roughness of the water and the nasty fog which hung close to the water the greater part of the afternoon both helped to slow down the race.

WATER TOO ROUGH

Although eight of the craft started Garbutt's Mystery IV and Ralph Hamlin's Joker and Burger's Scot all had to drop out in the second lap because of engine trouble and the roughness of the water. Dustin Farnum and his high-powered speed boat, the Hot Dog, dropped out in the third lap for similar reasons.

The last lap of the Lucky Strike was the fastest which was turned in the course of the day's racing. The average for this leg of the race was 36:56 miles per hour. The average for the whole race was also won by Frank as it was 34:79 miles per hour while that of Valve-in-head was nearly as good, being 34:17 miles per hour.

Radio ran the most consistent race of the field, making an average of 32:38 miles per hour and not falling below 32 miles in any except the last lap when the rough water lowered the speed to 31:77 miles per hour.

MAGNA SHOWS CLASS

Magna ran as pretty a race as any of the boats until the engine of the speedy little craft began to give way under the strain and the lap speed dropped from 32 miles per hour to 17:14. A recovery was staged in the last lap so that the average for the race was 26:84 miles per hour.

The time of the winner was 1 hour, 53 minutes, 47 4-5 seconds, which was very fast, according to the experts, considering the weather.

Hal Tuttle, Valve-in-Head	1h.	55m.	57 3-5s.
E. R. Griffin, Radio	1h.	2m.	17 2-5s.
Frank Garbutt, Mystery IV	Out in second lap
Dustin Farnum, Hot Dog	Out in third lap
Ralph Hamlin, Joker	Out in second lap
Burger, Scot	Out in second lap

Vernon Ties San Francisco for Leadership in Mad Scramble for Coast League Bunt

TIGERS THUMP ACORNS TWICE

Bodie's Batting Main Factor in First Victory

Doyle Almost Scores Shutout Over Commuters

Bengals Lose but One Game of Seven Played

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Vernon and San Francisco stand tied like a lover's knot, which is different from being hog tied, as either may slip the noose at any time.

Vernon defeated Oakland here, 6-4 and 7-2, while Los Angeles was holding the Seals to an even break in San Francisco. Thus two teams are on absolutely even footing in matter of percentage and games won and lost for first time in history of league at this stage.

It was recalled by Bill Essick that just five weeks ago last night Vernon was five games behind Seals. This means they have pulled up steadily and inexorably at rate of one game per week, and this ratio, if continued, should give them pennant by three games, thereby practically fulfilling prediction of Dad Meek. Los Angeles won two games from San Francisco and lost five, while Oakland dropped six out of seven to Vernon.

Ping Bodie's batting was main factor in Oakland's first defeat. In second, Ping also was punching with terrific force, while Jess Doyle blanked visitors until ninth, when he seemed to ease somewhat while Oaks eozed two runs.

Howard Lorenz says league bonus, $6000 of which goes to leading club and will be divided among twenty players, is spurring the athletes. George (Cupid) Putnam of the Seals is responsible for this incentive, and it is believed he would like to see the money kept at home. Bill Essick was given big hand here in fifth when scoreboard showed Los Angeles had gone ahead in fourth up north. Then there was long period of doubt. Two or three hundred fans at finish of game here loitered in front of scoreboard with faces upturned hungrily. There were more cheers when Charley Brush flashed glad tidings that Los Angeles had walloped San Francisco. Superlative fielding by High and Smith featured second combat.

Joke was on those who retired their straw hats from active service on September 13. This is no time for closely knit, airtight hoods. Hair stewing under thick lid makes noise like third-class soup in fourth-class restaurant. Brown derby is ideal vehicle for those with tripe intellects. Port holes in brown derby admit air and keep young tripe intellect from being asphyxiated.

Lady crouched under parasol preempted large space in bleacher box. Rumor spread that she was parachute jumper, and would soon ascend, but cash customers sitting directly behind couldn't wait for that so pulled their freight to an unobstructed view. Parachute jumpers attending games are requested to view same from observation balloon.

Shade squatters again in majority. These could be found scurrying back and forth in front of grand-stand seats looking for empty space which was not to be had subsequent to 1:30. Wise bugs should bring their own toadstools.

Chemically pure official scorer was present wearing halo on top of fireman's hair cut, and seemed about ready to get his measure taken for the white robes of immortality. Lincoln's fairness was achieved through his ability to see both sides of a question. Same goes for official scorer. Only difference is that where Lincoln split rails, official scorer is compelled to split hairs. Hair splitter must have superior technique, therefore renders most painstaking service to fellow-man while acquiring astigmatism.

Herb Brenton right-handed for Oakland in opener with Bill James doing same thing for Vernon only differently. Chadbourne started off with walk, later being driven in by Ping Bodie, who has been hitting everything that looks like a baseball this week. Ping has been the chief propelling power behind club recently. Oaks went ahead in third, when Denny Willie walloped two across with triple, scoring still again in fifth on Brubaker's walk, Willie's bunt and single by Lafayette.

Headwork by J. Carlisle Smith coupled up with Bodie's timely clouting gave Tigers unmistakable victory in fifth. Hannah singled and was forced by French. Zeider and James also cocked singles, latter blow scoring French. Brenton passed Chadbourne. Brubaker squeezed High's foul for second out. Brenton again lapsed into wildness. He walked Smith, forcing Zeider across plate. Bodie then busted single to right, James and Chadbourne piling across pan. Smith was on way from first to third and about midway between second and third when he interrupted Cather's plate peg with his head. J. Carlisle didn't know exactly what hit him, but was under impression that it was a brick propelled by hand of alien enemy. Ball took off Smith's skull cap as cleanly as though he had been scalped by savage barber. Ball caromed from J. Carlisle's bump of knowledge to stand with result that he kept right on the plate with bare dome flashing in sun, while Bodie pursued his way to third. Never saw such a clean shot. J. Carlisle's cap was lifted off his head as cleanly as though somebody had exploded fire cracker under it. When hat had been salvaged Hyatt walked, and Ping was pinched at plate on attempted double steal.

TRUCK IS PEEVED

"Six an' seven balls on every batter," he yelled at James in seventh. "Ef you ain't getting enough work come out here in morning."

Bill hasn't forgotten early bird which got the worm, but he also remembers worm which lost its life by getting up early. Scores:

Three weeks remain of Pacific Coast League season. Enuff. This year it is two weeks longer than last season. And there has been talk from time to time of advancing it to thirty weeks.

Schedule makers, if they are wisenheimers, will not do this. Football has become too big a fall factor in the West. Already the gridiron Goliath is beginning to crowd the baseball Brobdinag off the front pages. The diamond pastime should not be allotted more than six months. Then about along this time comes the world series.

With this ultima thule of the diamond off the slate the public is ready to shift to the short but exciting football season. Fall thoughts and autumn meditations just naturally turn to football, and the followers of that sport, judging from the crowds, are beginning to outnumber the diamond devotees.

Not the largest, but some of the largest, salaries in baseball are paid to star players and certain managers.

Unusual success in this sport brings financial benefits equaled in few other lines. It means fame and fortune. Even the minor leaguer or the player of mediocre ability is paid out of all proportion to what he would draw in any other line. Baseball is not an unpleasant profession, and the very life for one who is observant at all is an education in itself, leaving abundant time for him to prepare himself for some other line to be entered later.

Yet it is a profession without even one school in which the youngster can prepare himself. Baseball has no school, no college, no university, save that of experience. And that is a rocky road. A youngster may find himself hazed around from one manager to another, none of whom may feel any particular interest in him. Sometimes difficulties are actually erected in his path by older players who do not want competition. It may be years before he masters inside baseball, if ever.

A school could help somewhat in teaching the mechanics of baseball. However, its real mission would be to inculcate to the sandlotter real inside baseball. In three or six months, under proper tutelage, a busher should be able to build up a groundwork for future success, providing, of course, he has the natural ability, brains and physical skill. Such a thing may be impracticable, but it is rather a startling commentary that applicants for this well-paid profession must prepare themselves hit and miss, mainly miss, while much that they are told is rank baseball heresy.

There are a few pounds in between flyweight and featherweight which you may not notice when writing them in a hurry. That explains how Pancho Villa, fiery Filipino, came to be mentioned recently as featherweight champion of these United States.

Autumn is the harvest period, and particularly the yield of alibis is plentiful. Those of baseball managers and football coaches overlap. Baseball managers reserve their alibis for the fall when the race is finished. Football coaches, more up-to-date, offer their alibis in the fall, or before the season starts.

Much trouble for reporters and printers in Gnu Y'wk next season. Yanks will have on their pitching staff a May and a Mays. Once, Maury Rath, then with the Reds, made two home runs in one afternoon at Polo Grounds. Excited linotype operator dropped the "a" in Rath's name, changing it to "u," and it seemed so natural that nobody thought of changing it. Result was Ruth.

Lightweights in Main Go at Vernon Arena

Teddy O'Hara, the hard-hitting lightweight of Oakland, will clash with Solly Seaman in the main event at Doyle's Vernon arena tomorrow night. Seaman is a real scrapper and should be an ideal match for the Northerner.

Goat Lavin and Young George will hook up in the semi-wind-up and their affair bids fair to rival the principal bout in interest. Both ringsters are sluggers and the battle will very likely be cut short of the usual four-round route when one of the scrappers kisses the mat.

Bobbie Burke vs. Sunny Jim, 105 pounds.
Sailor Constantino vs. George Wood, 126 pounds.
Bobby Gray vs. Jack Morton, 145 pounds.
Robert Moran vs. George Zaro, 122 pounds.

CASEYS NAB TILT

The Knights of Columbus baseball team yesterday beat the Fraternal Brotherhood team by a score of 15 to 0. Johnny Sisto of Caseys allowed only two hits, and Al Mose and Charlie Riley starred for the Caseys.

NEED BUT ONE MORE VICTORY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—One more victory for either the Yankees or Giants, or a defeat for their pennant rivals, the St. Louis Browns and Pittsburg Pirates will clinch the 1922 major-league championship for the New York clubs.

Both Gotham clubs were defeated today, while the Browns were winning and the Pirates dividing a double-header. Neither New York team, however, can finish in worse than a tie for first time, even if it loses all of its remaining games, while its rivals make a clean sweep of the rest of their schedules.

The Giants have eight more games and the Pirates three, while the Yankees have four and the Browns three to play.

KILLEFERS SPLIT EVEN WITH SEALS

Bay City Gang Nabs the Opener, but Angels Get Even Later

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—The Seals could only break even with the Angels today, while the Oaks did the expected and lost two to Vernon, thereby robbing the Seals of that half a game lead, to which they have clung so tightly for so long. The Seals won in the morning, 7 to 4, and lost in the afternoon, 9 to 8, and finished the day tied with Vernon for first place.

Jim Scott was expected to beat the Angels twice in the series just closed. He started twice and did not finish either game. Tom Hughes was shipped here ahead of the Angels to take two games from the Seals. He started twice and could not finish either game. So much for strategy.

Bob Geary started the morning affair and was belted out of the box in the fifth. Coumbe finally pulled through with a win because the Seals knocked Douglas from his curve ball and Herbie McQuaid could not stop the hitting.

In the afternoon Jim Scott was sent to cover in the fifth and Doug McWeeny, always rarin' to go, hopped in to relieve him. Vain hope. Doug pitched to just four men and every man jack of them cracked him for a safe hit. In that fifth round the Angels batted two pitchers until they were groggy, scored five runs and apparently sewed the game up in a sack. The scores:

THEY ARE REAL FOLKS

REMEMBRANCE HAS WHIMSY, HUMOR AND CHARM

By Grace Kingsley

"I have had a great deal of trouble in my life—most of which never happened," said an elderly wit.

That's how it is with Rupert Hughes's new photoplay, "Remembrance," at the California. But that's what makes it so real, so lifelike.

It is the imminence of things, rather than their actual happening, that composes most of our life dramas. To our neighbors we lead most commonplace lives.

But the reactions on us of our families' and friends' doings, our emotions, our fears and hopes, our joys of anticipation, the little pin-prick sorrows—these are what make the subjective drama of life, which is the realest drama of all.

In the theater, it's what the audience think and feel and fear and hope about the play which makes up the drama. The finest playwrights and actors let the audience do their own dramatizing, so some of these have told me.

Mr. Hughes has sensed this best of all the picture directors, probably, unless it be William De Mille and Eric Von Stroheim. Though the three are so different in expression, they have this in common. It is to their eternal credit that they can suggest the undertones and overtones of subjective drama.

Even a lightly realistic story like "Remembrance" has this quality.

"Remembrance" is another example of the development of a native American theme. Mothers have had their turn on the screen, and now father is having his. This father is the typical struggling, self-sacrificing American dad, who makes snobs and worse of his children through mistaken kindness. You seem to be peeping through a window at the doings of some family, rather than to be looking at a photoplay, so true are its pathos and humor, its characters, so natural its action. Even its villain, like most of the villains in real life, would be a much greater villain if only he had the courage. As it is, he's only a poor stick.

The keynote of the story is in a subtitle—"Pop felt like Atlas holding up the world. Suppose he should sneeze?"

Mr. Hughes has cunningly sustained the suspense without sacrificing the naturalness of the story. You sit breathless, indeed, when pop is apparently on his deathbed. Then what a little gasp and what a little glad laugh the audience lets out, when, as the children and wife are gathered about in sobbing groups, pop suddenly sits up and calls for his clothes, saying he has no time to die! That little surprising thrill is a masterpiece. The picture is punctuated with bits of humor and with clever subtitles.

Claude Gillingwater gives a faultless characterization of the father—a characterization full of color and whimsicality and loveableness. Patsy Ruth Miller shows such an amazing distinctiveness of talent and personality and beauty that it is impossible to predict how far she will go. Cullen Landis, Richard Tucker, Max Davidson, Dana Todd, Kate Lester and the others are all fine.

Sharing honors almost with the feature is what is probably the most amusing kid comedy ever invented. Mason Litson directed. Johnny Jones is the hero, and it is called "Makin' the Movies." The kids decide to do "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and the result is delicious beyond words. Don't miss it.

HERBERT RAWLINSON BREEZY AT SUPERBA

If you find you're a failure in life, just buy some new clothes, put on a great front and pretend you have money in the bank. This method will bring you success. Anyhow, it will according to the traditions of stage and screen.

It is proven once more, indeed, at the Superba this week, where the breezy and fascinating Herbert Rawlinson is holding forth in "Confidence." It was all quite accidental, indeed, the manner in which the hero had the appearance of owning a lot of money in the bank, but it had the same good old result. It made him believe in himself.

The manner in which he finally really falls into a good thing, makes good and grabs the gal, is all told in lively and fairly ingenious fashion.

Herbert Rawlinson is becoming a better actor, picture by picture. His attractive personality, his pep, his good looks, added to this growing power of putting over real and convincing characterization, make him one of Universal's best bets.

Century comedies are growing brighter and brighter. The current one, in which the trained donkey Maud shows up the rest of the actors assays many laughs to the reel.

Reverts to Normal

Pantages Theater today returns to its normal policy of vaudeville and feature photoplays, according to announcement. Will King terminated his engagement last night. The feature act of this week's program will be Willard Mack in his new one-act drama, "Raw Law."

Stellar Sparklers

Patsy Ruth Miller in "Remembrance" at the California and "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" at the Symphony, and Julanne Johnston (in oval) in "Manslaughter" at Grauman's Rialto.

MISSION FEATURE IN SECOND WEEK

"My Friend the Devil," the new William Fox special, is playing in its second week at the Mission Theater. The story deals with the life of a man who did not believe in God; and whose egotism blinded him to the turmoil in his household. His wife is enamored of a young artist, but the husband is so deeply in love with her that he refuses to pay attention to the warnings of his friends, and instead, drives the lovers into each other's arms. In the ensuing years he learns of her indiscretion and finds that his own unbelief was responsible for his blindness.

The picture was directed by Harry Millarde. In the cast are included Barbara Castleton, Charles Richman and others. The engagement of "My Friend the Devil" will close at the Mission Friday night.

LAVISH PRODUCTION

To see the name of Cecil B. De Mille announced as producer of a photoplay is to feel secure that it is a production, lavish in display, and with a cast of characters the finest that can be secured among Paramount stars. Such a film is "Manslaughter," which is now entering its final week at Grauman's Rialto. It is a story of the jazz-loving, excitement craving, idle class, ever seeking a good time, and Leatrice Joy as the leader of this pleasure-mad society, dances, dines, wines and motors through the photoplay, recklessly running down those who cross her, and only coming to her senses through an overwhelming catastrophe and the influence of an upright District Attorney, played by Thomas Meighan.

REVIEWS

YOUTH'S ADVENTURE

MOTHER-LOVE HIGH LIGHT IN "MY WANDERING BOY"

By Edwin Schallert

No matter how many mother-love pictures have gone before, there is apparently always room for one more. Especially if it offers some thoughts and emotions that, because of the application, seem a trifle new.

Some months or a year ago it was "Humoresque" and "The Old Nest," and now it is "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" and judging by the receptiveness of the audience at the Symphony Theater toward this newer and more modest feature, it is due for a friendly appreciation, at least, from the majority of beholders.

The difference between "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" and some of the pictures of simliar genre that preceded it, is chiefly the fact that it dwells more on the adventures of youth. The main figure in the story is, in fact, the country boy, who finds the lure of the city irresistible. His mad dash into the electric palaces of jazz on borrowed money, his subsequent sudden and very disastrous tumble out of the giddy circle and into the place where the bars are vertical instead of horizontal, and his final return to his hearthside really form the plot, for which the mother sentiment is the high light.

The story of the picture is to be recommended because of its general simplicity. While there is plenty of routine hokum of the trashier sort, this is always relieved by a certain definite severity.

Most of the glitter is in the subtitles. These are written in rather a sophisticated style, but for myself I must say that they intrigued me as much as anything about the piece.

The picture in its length inclines to tediousness. There is, in fact, too much incident, but this fault is generally offset by the humanness that pervades the scenes.

Two bits in the picture stand out especially in the memory, both scenically, and in feeling. One is where the boy makes an effort to get a glimpse of his mother on his first return home. The other is the closing episode, which is chiefly notable for the delicate dramatic suspense and the photography. There is a marring note of detail here—the appearance of the youth on the snowy evening in the garb of late spring. Where the deuce was his overcoat?

Cullen Landis is virtually the star. Youth in all its impetuosity is evidently the goal of his portrayal, and he achieves this by virtue of a fine free energy. Patsy Ruth Miller is persuasively attractive and earnest as the girl who waits for the return of the hero. Kathleen Key has vibrancy, and interprets a rather colorful role tastefully. Virginia True Boardman does not appear to me to be the conventionally ideal mother type, but perhaps that is why on occasion she seems quite real. Ben Deely does an effective bit.

A picture of human interest appeal, "Where is My Wandering Boy?" is not great in the elaborate sense of the word, but nevertheless has a straightforward feeling that is quite worth while.

IMITATES BEBAN

Mellye Trask, clever young impersonator, has been engaged by Fred Miller of Miller's Theater to appear four times every day just ahead of George Beban's seven-reel photoplay, "The Sign of the Rose," and give her imitation of Mr. Beban as Pietro, the humble ditch-digger, in the big flower shop scene of this story. Miss Trask's portrayal of this difficult character is said to be unusually artistic, and at her every appearance yesterday she was greeted with much applause.

STOCK MARKET LOOKING AHEAD

Present Business Sunshine Anticipated

Longer View of Things Now Shows Activity

Unstable European Situation Shows Effects

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The course of last week's markets did not indicate changing views on the economic or political situation, so much as it indicated conviction that the visible considerations of a favorable sort had been anticipated and "discounted" by the favorable movement of values earlier in the season, and that the future trend of things had not yet clearly unfolded itself.

Easy money, an unprecedented gold reserve in the United States, abundant supplies of investment capital, labor troubles settled without the social and political crisis which apprehensive minds had pictured, larger railway traffic already moving, with the certainty of a much larger movement later—all of these facts are more plainly in evidence today than they were when the market, the bond market and the foreign exchange market were advancing enthusiastically.

But precisely as the markets looked months ahead in their movement of last spring, and summer—notably in the remarkable strength on the stock exchange in what seemed to be the crisis of stocks—they are necessarily governed by the longer view of things when events have fulfilled the great's earlier financial predictions.

WAIT FURTHER LIGHT

If, then, the markets now hesitate, if they halt in the absence of tangible indications of further basic changes, if they are sensitive to unexpected incidents of a disturbing sort and if nevertheless, one day's decline is quickly cancelled by the next day's recovery, the inference is plain enough that financial judgment has not been able to get a sure view of the probable course of events in the next few months.

In a general way, it may be said that belief is positive in the soundness of the present American financial and industrial position; but that more light is desired on such questions as Europe's political controversies, the effects of the new refunding operations for our own maturing war obligations, and the course of domestic trade, wages and prices.

The decline on the stock exchange last week was ascribed alternatively by Wall Street to doubt over the scope of autumn business recovery and to the advance in the stock exchange call money rate, from which a possible subsequent rise in the general money market was inferred. If regarded as continuing influences, the two considerations were inconsistent with one another.

TIGHTENING WOULD FOLLOW

It had been taken for granted all along that if a vigorous revival in trade were to occur, and especially if it were accompanied by rising prices of commodities and greatly increased accumulation of merchandise for future delivery, the money market would inevitably be affected. Further, an actual tightening of money would in some degree, undoubtedly, reverse the upward movement in both stocks and bonds.

But it had also been assumed that if such subsequent increase in business activity did not occur then the surplus of additional credit resources, whose existence has been proved by all the recent bank statements, would insure continuance of extremely easy money. In the usual order of events, such a condition of the money market would encourage maintenance in the values for both speculative and investment securities. It was therefore somewhat illogical that the weakness in the investment market should be ascribed both to disappointing trade and to prospective higher money.

Neither the business situation nor the money market has as yet been fairly tested by the usual autumn influences; that test always comes later in the season than September.

OLD-TIMER RECALLS MANY GREAT BASEBALLERS BACK IN SEVENTIES AND EIGHTIES

BY DE WITT VAN COURT

In a recent letter to Harry Williams an eastern boxing fan wrote of some of the early or old-time baseball players and mentioned the names of Ed Morris, Fogarty and several others. This letter recalled to my mind many of the old-timers who made baseball on this coast.

The old Recreation Grounds on Twenty-fifth and Folsom streets in San Francisco, was one of the finest ball parks in the country and many good games were played there as far back as 1870. In the late seventies I saw the Chicago club play several games with the local teams. The Chicagos had Silver Flint, catcher; Corcoran, pitcher; Adrian Anson, firstbase; Fred Pfeffer, second; Burns, third; Ned Williamson, shortstop; Dalyrmple and Gore were fielders and if I am right, I think Billy Sunday was also one of the fielders. This was some team and I remember well how hard Anson played in those exhibition games.

WAS EARNEST

He was just as earnest to win as if he had been in a championship. He was a terrific hitter, but a slow runner. Ned Williamson was the peer of the infield and would easily run and scoop up a hot liner with either hand and line the ball over to firstbase like a shot out of a gun and those old-timers never wore gloves. They wore light colored gray suits with shirts of different colors for each man on the team like jockeys. The stripes were about an inch wide and they made a very picturesque appearance on the green field. They had nine balls and three strikes in those days, then reduced it to five and later to four as it is today. They were wonderful fielders, fast base runners and had many tricks for those days.

FOUR TEAMS

Later there was organized a league of four teams who played every Sunday afternoon. There were the Athletics, Renos, Eagles and the California teams. The Athletics and Californians were the two best teams, but the Eagles and Renos always gave them a hard battle. The Renos were captained by Jimmy Britt, father of the lightweight boxer. Young Jimmy was not then born.

Big Dan Riordan, now a sergeant on the San Francisco police force, was the pitcher, and Vincent (Senty) Arrio, a little Mexican about five feet in height, was catcher, and a good one. Senty was also a very good pitcher. They used an underhand swing and a straight ball, but had plenty of speed. The catcher's backstop was ninety feet back of the home base and the catcher never came up close to the batter until after the second strike, unless there was a man on base.

LIKED "LICKER"

The Athletics had George Crawford for pitcher and old John Cullen for catcher. Joe McClusky ran the grounds and had a little saloon and dressing-room on the corner of the grounds. Cullen liked his "licker" and got many a laugh from the crowd when he would bust one of his fingers in stopping a foul tip. He would stop the game and holler for Joe to bring him some whisky to rub on his finger, but John would only dip his finger in the glass, then drink the rest and continue the game. The Athletics also had a wonderful shortstop in Jim Hamilton. He was a remarkably fast fielder and one of the fastest and most accurate throwers I have ever seen, then or since. Jim was also a flashy player and often played to the grand stand.

WITH FAST BALL

I have seen him pull a stunt that is hard to believe unless it is seen. In those days they played with a fast ball. Jim would stop a hot grounder, pick it up, bounce the ball on the ground once, then throw his man out. I have seen him pull that stunt at least a half-dozen times, and only saw him fail once to get the ball to first base before the runner got there. It would be a bonehead play in these times and cost him his job were he playing on any professional team.

Live Taylor was also a wonderful left fielder and in the several years I have watched him play I have never seen him miss catching a fly ball. Angus was another great fielder, who would often turn his back and run at top speed and catch the ball over his shoulder while on the dead run, and most of those old-timers could peg a ball on a dead-straight line from deep center, right or left field, right into the catcher's hands. There was far more hitting during a game in those days, which called for much more work for fielders.

SOME CATCHER

Andy Piercy, catcher of the Eagles, was one of the greatest high foul catchers I have ever seen. I never saw him miss one. Big Baldy Brown was Andy's pitcher. Brown was a man between 30 and 40 years old, but a steady and reliable boxman. Piercy was also about the fastest man on the bases and a great base stealer.

Fergie Malone was the first man imported from the East to coach a team on the Coast. He was catcher of the California team and made a decided hit by running along the base lines and coaching the runners. Later the Hop Bitter team visited the Coast and was made up from Eastern professionals.

Jerry Denny was about the first California boy to be taken to the Eastern National League. Jerry was one of the greatest third basemen the game ever saw and a wonderful fielder who thought nothing of scooping a ball up with either hand on the run, and a wonderful thrower. Jerry never wore a glove while playing the game.

RUBBER IN TEETH

The catchers in those days held a round piece of rubber between their teeth, and later they wore masks and gloves. Their fingers were a sight. Later came Pete and Charlie Sweeney. Charlie Sweeney held the strike-out record for several years in the big league. I had the pleasure of playing on the same team with Sweeney as an amateur in 1879. He was then a wonderful pitcher, never spoke a word from the beginning of a game until the end unless he was spoken to. He also was about the best fielding pitcher I have ever seen at any time. He would often run over between first and home and home and third base and catch balls that the catcher should have taken, but seldom failed. He was an earnest, steady and reliable player at all times.

Fred Carroll and Ed Morris who played as amateurs in San Francisco and were later the battery from the Pittsburg club for several years were two, great ball players. Morris was first a catcher and left handed. I have seen him play many games as a catcher and never saw a base stolen on him. He was one of the quickest and most accurate throwers who ever tossed a baseball. Later he became a pitcher and visited the Coast with his old partner Carroll and played several exhibition games when the pitcher was allowed to take a hop, skip and a jump before he delivered the ball, and Morris surely could make that ball traveh

IN THE EIGHTIES

Later in the eighties we had the Haverly, Greenhood and Moran, and Pioneer teams, who played at Eighth and Market streets in San Francisco, then on the grounds at Alameda, and later on the Haight-street grounds near the Golden Gate Park. I umpired for that league for three years and it surely was some tough job in those times. No protection for the poor ump. It got so hot for me that I was nearly mobbed several times, and finally came to the conclusion that if I was as rotten as that I had better quit before I got killed, and did so. But in looking in the past I can see many wonderful boys who would be a sensation today were they in their prime. California has surely turned out some wonderful baseball players.

Downey Playgrounds. The Clifford squad defeated the Los Angeles Beavers, 7 to 6, in ten innings. Vierth, regular first baseman, relieved A. Ockel on the mound in the eighth inning and did not allow a man to reach first in the final three innings. In the tenth, with a man on third and out, Vierth drove out a sacrifice fly, bringing in the winning run. Score:

WIN IN NINTH

The Cimarrons defeated the Herman Sheet Metal Company team, 8 to 6, in a closely contested game played yesterday at the Salt Lake Playgrounds. A two-run rally in the ninth frame won for the Cimarrons.

The heavy hitting of the Cimarrons featured the game, their squad collecting twenty hits and every man on the team got two or more safe blows. Score:

LYNWOOD TRIUMPHS

Lynwood took an easy 12-to-6 win over the Latin squad yesterday after a slow game played on the Lynwood diamond. The Lynwood batters improved their batting averages by slamming out fifteen hits. Although Latin players got twelve hits, their swats did not come in the right places.

Pat Rozelle, Lynwood catcher, got his usual three hits. Reed, S. Ariaz and Brown also poled out three safe ones. Score:

STAR HALFBACK IS BACK TO GUS'S ARMS

All of the worry and lost sleep which was caused by the absence of one halfback by the name of Pythian went for naught as that young gentleman has returned like the proverbial prodigal son.

Pythian went on a motorcycle trip to Montana this summer and a few weeks ago wrote to Gloomy Gus that he was on the way home. When the season opened and the youngster did not return, Gus began to lose some of the small crop of spinach which grows on the top of his shiny pate. He forgot, however, that Pythian did not drive a Ford like himself and did not make any allowances for breakdowns.

Toward the wee small hours of Friday night the lost one returned and Gus spent the remainder of the night in the first real sleep which he has had in several weeks.

Rush Work on Normal Hill for Public Library

Work on preparing Normal Hill for the new $1,500,000 Central Public Library is being rushed, Public Works Commissioner Delorey announced yesterday, and it is expected that by November 1, next, the actual tearing down of the old Normal School building there, which has long been used by the health, park, playground and other city departments for offices, will start.

This work, which will be done by the park department under the direction of Construction Superintendent Charles O. Brittain, should take about one month.

The Board of Education has already torn down the school building, which stood on the hill and Supt. Brittain has done a great deal of preliminary work so that all that remains to be razed is the old Normal School building itself.

This cannot be done until the city departments, which now have offices there have moved to the new City Hall annex at the Bullard Block on North Main and North Spring streets. This building has been undergoing alterations for several months, and Commissioner Delorey believes that early next month the exodus of the city officers from the Normal School building to the Bullard Block will begin and will be completed by November 1. During the month of November the tearing down of the building will take place, so that by December 1, the hill will be clear and the library board will then start grading down the hill to the level of Grand avenue. When the library is built on the site there will be no long, steep climb to reach the building, as at present.

The clearing of the hill will also be the signal for the City Engineer's forces to start work on cutting Fifth street through to Flower street and improving the remainder of the street to Boyiston street, thus creating a new through traffic highway from the downtown congested district to the western part of the city. Funds for the cutting of Fifth street through Normal Hill were provided by property owners who are members of the Fifth-street Improvement Association.

From the moment the hill is cleared, the city will work at top speed to complete the library and the street opening at the earliest possible date.

Announce Civil Service Tests for Two Jobs

Open competitive civil service examinations for the position of assistant forester and deputy county health officer in this county will be held October 4 and 9 next, respectively, at 8:30 a.m. in room 1007, Hall of Records Building, here, according to an announcement yesterday by the Los Angeles County Civil Service Commission.

One appointment is to be made for each of the positions, but an eligible list from which future appointments can be made is desired, according to the bulletin of the commission.

The position of assistant forester, which is connected with the division of parks, planting and nursery, department of forestry, carries an opening salary of $165 per month. An advance to $170 per month will be made after one year of service. The duties of the position entail the planting, maintenance and trimming of roadside trees in the county, and development of institution and park grounds in the county. Candidates must be experienced in propagating and raising trees and shrubs in nursery and field, and in the handling of men, according to the announcement.

The office of deputy county health officer in the division of communicable disease carries a beginning salary of $300 per month, with an advance to $225 per month after one year of service.

Candidates must be a graduate of some medical school of recognized standing. Their duties will embrace the enforcement of all orders and ordinances of the Board of Supervisors, and the State Board of Health.

Application blanks for the examinations are obtainable at room 1007, in the Hall of Records Building.

DONKEY EMBLEM LOSES FAVOR

Missouri Democrats Place Goddess of Liberty on Ballot

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Sept. 24. The Goddess of Liberty was adopted unanimously by the executive committee of the Democratic State committee as the emblem of the Democratic party in Missouri, succeeding the donkey, which has served the Democratic party as its emblem for many years.

Members of the committee said the change was made because the donkey, as an emblem, was neither artistic nor dignified.

Under the decision reached by the committee, the Goddess of Liberty will displace the donkey upon the Democratic ballot in the November election.

Drag Stream for Victim of Auto Accident

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 24.—Belief that one of the occupants of an automobile which crashed through the railing of a bridge at Caspar station, on the outskirts of Long Beach, early this morning was hurled into a stream running beneath the bridge, caused police of the Wilmington and Long Beach stations to drag the stream without success for several hours before daylight today.

Considerable mystery still surrounded the wreck of the car this afternoon, however, and it is the belief of the police that following the accident some time last night, the occupants were spirited away. Records of the Los Angeles and Los Angeles Harbor hospitals failed to show that anyone in the accident had been taken there. The machine, apparently driven at high rate of speed, crashed into the railing of the bridge opposite the big gas tanks on Anaheim Road, between Long Beach and Wilmington, some time after midnight. Carrying the bridge railing with it, the automobile plunged into the stream below. The registration record shows the automobile is the property of Miles G. Hyatt of Los Angeles Harbor, but investigation at his home showed he had not returned there.

Bandits Carry Off Safe From Tire Firm Shop

Yeggs early yesterday broke into the Liberty Company's tire shop at 1052 South Los Angeles street, lugged a thin steel-lined safe down one flight of stairs from the office to the work shop, and after hammering open the door with a machinist's hammer and a cold chisel, looted the strongbox of about $200.

The yeggs made their entrance into the establishment by a circuitous route. Detectives Hawtrey and Bartley found upon investigation. They first broke through a rear door in an alley just east of Los Angeles street into the Standard Brass Manufacturing Company's shop, climbed to the roof, and across the roof to a door closing a stairway into Louis Schneidman's shirt factory.

They descended the stairway and rifled she office fixtures of the Schneidman shop, which was the scene of a previous robbery several days ago. To gain entrance to the tire shop, the yeggs descended a second pair of stairs and ripped a hole through the lath and plaster of the stairway wall into the workshop.

MANY ENROLLED IN LAW COLLEGE HERE

LEADING MEMBERS OF BAR IN LOS ANGELES ARE ON FACULTY

With the biggest registration of students in its history, the University of Southern California law college opens its new school year today. More than 500 students are signed up to take either day or night classes.

Courses to be given this year, as previously, are to be directed largely by leading members of the bar in Los Angeles. The law college faculty includes several of the Superior, Federal and Appellate Court judges.

According to the schedule announced by Dean Frank Porter and Assistant Dean Charles E. Millikan, classes to be given during the first quarter of the new school year include the following: Criminal and elementary law, contracts, property, bills and notes, common law pleading, code pleading damages, restraint of trade, evidence, insurance, research, torts, equity, securities and ethics.

CONGO HOSPITALITY

A stranger going through Congoland is at liberty to stop at any hut and spend the night or remain as long as he feels inclined. This is expected, and no conversation is even required to negotiate the arrangements. But if the stranger is tired, he is "out of luck," because hospitality in Congoland is expressed in a strange fashion. To give their guests a real welcome the host and hostess gather all of their neighbors and friends around their home and plan for the evening's entertainment. They dance for him, and are so anxious to give him a pleasant visit that they keep the dance up all night. He is expected to appreciate it, and, naturally, should not show any signs of fatigue. After a sleepless night he is surprised to find his hostess is out in the field, bright and early, with her cigar in her mouth—because in Congoland only the women smoke, the men prefer to take snuff. They consider smoking effeminate. The women not only do all the heavy work in the fields, but sell the produce as well. The men take over the domestic duties. It is no strange sight to see the man of the house engaged in doing the family washing, and then hanging the clothes out to dry on the branches of the trees around his home. After he has his Monday's work out of the way he takes his sewing basket and sits down in the shade and does the family mending, and does it well. —[Indianapolis News.

Lead Poisoning Among Workers

The report of the United States Public Health Service on this subject is now in press. The danger is chiefly to those handling the glaze; the lead is inhaled as dust, the lungs absorb lead from fumes, and there is some absorption through the skin. The use of leadless glazes, already established in European factories, would remedy the trouble, but this requires sweeping changes in our manufacturing and firing methods.—[Scientific American

Fashion Revue to be Feature of Mardi Gras

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 24.—A fashion revue, staged on a magnificent scale, will be one of the features of the Mardi Gras festival to be lauched here beginning October 3, it was announced here today.

The big event will be on the Silver Spray pier and a score of the most beautiful fashion models of the West will participate. Motion pictures of the event will be made by a film company. Another feature of the Mardi Gras will be a "kiddies day" on which Long Beach mothers will be given an opportunity to show visitors what this city produces in the way of "young ideas."

The event will be fashioned after the annual affair at Asbury Park, N. J. The queen contest, launched here recently, has aroused citywide interest and many of the city's most beautiful young women are rivals for the coveted throne which the queen of the carnival will occupy.

CARRILLO COMING

"Mike Angelo" at Mason a Week from Today

At the Mason Operahouse for one week, beginning next Monday, October 2, Oliver Morosco will present Leo Carrillo in "Mike Angeno," a new play of love and laughter, by Edward Locke, author of the "Climax," "The Case of Becky" and other successes.

Theatergoers will remember with pleasure Mr. Carrillo's performance in "Lombardi, Ltd.," in which he reached the heights of stardom. "Mike Angelo," his new play, is the kind that makes appeal to all classes of theatergoers. Carrillo will be seen as the dreamy Italian janitor who works around an art studio, the part giving him unlimited scope to display his talent as a character actor.

"Mike" Angelo is an appealing, pathetic figure that reaches out over the foot lights. Mr Morosco has surrounded his star with a cast of well-known people among whom are Carol Holloway, Fred Malatesta, John Elliott, William Austin, Helene Sullivan, John T. Prince, and Adrian Rosely.

"ETERNAL FLAME" IN SECOND WEEK

"The Eternal Flame," a vivid picturization of Balzac's masterpiece, "La Duchesse de Langeais," is now playing at the Kinema Theater in its second week. Norma Talmadge's greatest achievement yesterday was "Smilin' Through." Today "The Eternal Flame" must be hailed as its peer.

As the gorgeous Duchesse de Langeais, noted court couquette during the reign of Louis XVIII of France, she moves untouched through the romance and scandal of the old French courts. Disillusioned by her husband, to whom she is merely a toy, she turns flirt to avenge herself on man. But too often she plays with love—and is herself scorned.

A splendid supporting cast has been assembled including Conway Tearje as Gen. De Montriveau; Adolphe Jean Menjou as the Duc de Langeais, Otis Harlan, Rosemary Theby, Kate Lester, Thomas Ricketts, Irving Cummings and Wedgwood Nowell. Frank Lloyd directed.

Would Color Films

Within a year 10 per cent of the motion pictures of this country will be shown in color. At least that was the prediction last week of William Travers Jerome former district attorney of New York in announcing the organization of a company with $1,000,000 capital for the development and distribution of the color process. The company will utilize the invention of Prof. Daniel Frost Comstock of Yale, and plans are under way for the exhibition of the first complete color film, which will be shown some time in October.

Said Jesse Lasky: "I think color photography may come, but I think its use would be a great strain on the eyes. I do not see how it can become general, but in this age you never can tell."

Mary Pickford is much interested in all improvements in photography. Said Miss Pickford:

"Color photography would detract from the audience's power of concentration on the drama. If I wore a red hat, for instance, you would be looking at the hat and not at my face or my pantomime. Backgrounds, too, would have to be toned down, as otherwise the fast succession of scenes, with their many colors, would be bewildering.

Vera Gordon Visits Studios

Vera Gordon, who is helping to make mothers popular this season, with her sketch, "Lullaby," at the Orpheum, has been touring the studios under the escort of Harry Rapf, producer for Warner Brothers.

Raymond McKee Starred

Raymond McKee, popular socially and professionally in Los Angeles, has been signed to play the lead in a series of two-reel pictures to be known as "All-Star Comedies," which will be made in New York.

Dog Isn't Dead

One of the finest examples of animal acting ever shown in the screen drama will be seen in "Broken Chains," Allen Holubar's production of the $10,000 prize story for Goldwyn. Ginger, a dog, gives his life in gallant defense of his mistress. When the dog is shot, he plays his part so well that he seems actually to have been killed.

Not a chance. Ginger is owned by Dr. E. M. Cowles of Santa Monica, and for the benefit of those nervous souls who view the picture I am pleased to print Dr. Cowles's own affidavit on the subject.

"This is to certify that Ginger, the dog in 'Broken Chains,' acted his part as directed in the scene in which he was shot, and at this writing is alive and well."

INDIANS TRIM BEES TWICE; COP SERIES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 24.—Seattle won the series by taking the last two games today, 6 to 4 and 5 to 4. The Indians rallied in the eighth and ninth innings of the first game and in the second Walter Sitter, recently acquired from the Western League, outpitched Dick McCabe. The scores:

There has been, it is conceded, quite a bit of buncombe passed around about radio, but here is the real article. Sam Scott, Forty-first and Vermont, is the author and proprietor of what can almost be called a radio school. He has put in a shop for boys, furnishes them tools, and electric current, and permits them to construct their own equipment under his supervision. Each boy is allowed two hours a day. Some well-made equipment is being turned out. Some of the boys who work in the shop, declares Mr. Scott, are old boys, even as old as 45 years.

Calculation of the wave length of antennae can be roughly done, although such computation is not always accurate. Here is the way it is done: A four-wire antenna plus its lead-in, multiplied by 4.5 gives the approximate wave length in feet. Divided by 3.38 the wave length in meters is obtained. For example, consider an aerial 100 feet long, with a fifty-foot lead-in, or 150 in all. Multiplying by 4.5 gives 675. Divided by 3.38 results in 199 meters, the natural wave length of the aerial.

Radio is expected to have the biggest boom in its career this winter, according to the wiseacres, the beginning of the boom to be precipitated by the change in weather. Already Pittsburg and Chicago have reported rise in enthusiasm even greater than last year's.

LOCAL MEN AT MEET

Street Car Convention in Chicago Next Month

The Los Angeles Railway will be represented by thre officials at the annual convention of the American Electric Railway Association, to be held in Chicago, October 2 to 6. Two of the delegates are to speak at sessions. Personnel work and friendly relations between officials and trainmen will be discussed by George B. Anderson, manager of transportation of the yellow car system.

C. M. McRoberts, general claim agent of the local street railway, will speak on "Automobile Accidents, Their Prevention, and the Methods of Settlement." Mr. McRoberts is president of the Pacific Claim Agents' Association.

B. H. Eaton, engineer of ways and structures, will be the third member of the Los Angeles party. He has charge of track construction and maintenance.

TARIFF UNCHANGED

No Revision in Duties at Port Here Yet

According to a wire received from Washington yesterday by Collector Goodcell, the existing tariff regulations that have been in effect since 1913, will remain in effect here until there is formal receipt from Washington of the amended Fordney - McCumber tariff law, which went into effect Thursday at midnight.

The congestion at the appraiser's store is very great, and the Collector yesterday issued an order that all receipts from bonded warehouses and other sources be held up until the congestion can be relieved. Two truck drivers were arrested yesterday for blocking the traffic. It was impossible for them to get to the curbing to unload their trucks.

THEY'LL ACT UP

The Advertising Club of Los Angeles at their weekly luncheon in the Alexandria ballroom tomorrow noon will stage a vaudeville show in place of the usual educational feature. The show will be staged by "Si" Masters and will consist of six acts of mirth, melody and mystery.

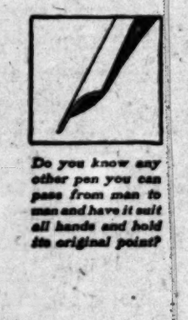
CARDS, DANCING, PROGAM

The Laurustinus Circle No. 83 Neighbors of Woodcraft, will give a dance and card party tomorrow night at Lincoln Hall, 730 South Grand avenue, at 8:15.

FOR SCHOOL OR BUSINESS—SPEED LEARNING AND EARNING

Rivals the beauty of the Scarlet Tanager

Press the button and the Duofold drinks its fill. No pump or lever-filler to catch on the clothing and spill ink.



Do you know any other pen you can pass from man to man and have it suit all hands and hold its original point?

Duofold, Jr. $5 Same except for size

Lady Duofold $5 Chatelaine or handbag size

A 25-Year Pen

with a point like a smooth jewel bearing, and an Over-size Barrel that resembles Chinese lacquer.

Created by GEO. S. PARKER
inventor of the leakproof "Lucky Curve"

IT TOOK MR. PARKER 30 years to produce this super-pen, but it took America only six months to reward his infinite pains with a triumph unparalleled in the whole pen industry. In this short time the Parker Duofold has become the leading seller at prominent pen counters in scores of cities from coast to coast. It seems that the higher a pen's perfection, the swifter and more sweeping its popularity.

Men and Women of America

We invite you to step up to the first good pen counter you come to and see its lacquer-like beauty. Note how soft this shade of Chinese-red; how smart the black-tipped ends and neat gold pocket-clip.

Then write with this Native Iridium point set in extra thick gold—so smooth it needs no "breaking in," so hard and life-enduring we can guarantee it for 25 years for wear and mechanical perfection.

Write also with pens of other makes. The Duofold successfully challenges any other pen on earth regardless of price. We, too, manufacture higher priced pens with costly mountings and know all kinds. Try, yourself, to find another anywhere that writes so steadily and smoothly.

We are supplying dealers as rapidly as possible with this pen that wears like a smooth, hard jewel. But if you don't find it near by, have your dealer take your order subject to your approval after trial. Or write us giving your dealer's name.

CHURCH AT GLENDALE DEDICATED

Bishop Cantwell Speaker at Opening of Large New House of Worship

Following the procession through flower-bordered aisles, of hundreds of members of the congregation, the Holy Family Church at Glendale was formally dedicated by Bishop Cantwell yesterday afternoon in the presence of more than 2000 worshipers.

Bishop Cantwell, in the course of his address, spoke in highest praise of the character and faithfulness of Rev. James S. O'Neill, priest in charge of the new church, who came to Los Angeles fifteen years ago and who has succeeded in building up an organization which, as a force for righteousness and service, is a credit not only to Glendale but to the entire Southland.

The church, recently completed, was built at an approximate cost of $65,000 and the new parish house was constructed and furnished at an estimated cost of of nearly $25,000. Both the church and the parish house were designed as real "homes" for the members of the parish and for any and all persons who may need the kindly ministrations which the priest and the people can give.

Following the dedication a banquet was given at the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, in honor of Bishop Cantwell, and plans were discussed for the construction of the school and the sisters' home which probably will be built within the next year.

Harry Girard was master of ceremonies, John S. McGroarty was toastmaster and among the speakers was Judge Paul J. McCormick. Among the singers assisting in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard, Edwin J. Albright, J. S. Herwig and Viola Yorba, the latter appearing in a delightfully rich and appropriate costume and giving an excellent rendition of "La Paloma."

RICHARDSON IS HONORED BY EDITORS

Editorial Association to Banquet Gubernatorial Candidate Tonight

Friend W. Richardson, editor and Republican candidate for Governor, will be the guest of honor and one of the chief speakers at a banquet which approximately 175 members of the Southern California Editorial Association will conduct tonight at the Hotel Alexandria. The gubernatorial candidate has been active in the association since he was in the newspaper business in San Bernardino prior to becoming State Printer.

Other speakers on the banquet program will be J. R. Gabbert, Riverside Enterprise; E. G. Lewis, Atascadero News; Prudence Penny, Los Angeles Examiner; Al C. Joy, Fresno, and Rupert Hughes, Culver City. After the speeches the Goldwyn production, "Remembrance," will be shown. The play was written and directed by Mr. Hughes.

The evening program will follow a series of meetings held during the day by the association. The convention will open with a business meeting in the ballroom at the hotel and this will be followed by a luncheon. In the afternoon the editors will be taken for a sightseeing trip. The itinerary of the ride will include the Goldwyn plant at Culver City, the Palos Verdes estates and other points of interest.

Tomorrow morning the visiting editors will take a trip to the Santa Monica Bay district. This trip will include a luncheon at Walnut Park and visits to the many concessions at Santa Monica.

Foreman Dies From Touching Electric Wire

L. B. Brady, foreman for the Baker Ice Machinery Company, at 1901 East Seventh street, was electrocuted early yesterday. While standing in some water he came into contact with high-tension wires while directing the installation of a refrigerating plant for the Glendale Ice Cream Company at 109 North Glendale avenue, Glendale.

Workmen took Mr. Brady to the Glendale Sanatorium for emergency treatment, but he died on the way, according to a report from the Glendale police department.

TO CONDUCT FUNERAL

Services for Los Angeles High Graduate Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Kathleen Murphy Jordan, who died Saturday at the Murphy Memorial Hospital at Whittier, will be conducted at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at White's funeral chapel in Whittier, Rev. T. T. Lewis, rector of the Whittier Episcopal Church, officiating.

Mrs. Jordan, who was 24 years old, was graduated from the Los Angeles High School in 1915 and from Wellesley College in 1919. Besides her husband, Frank Everett Jordan, and two children, Frank E. Jordan, Jr., and Richard Alan Jordan, Mrs. Jordan leaves her father, D. W. Murphy of Los Angeles, and one brother, Cornelius Murphy, who is now in the East.

RUN OVER BY TRAIN

Pacific Electric Brakeman has Foot Cut Off

He was given emergency treatment at the Receiving Hospital. Mr. Harris lieves at 2023 West Santa Barbara avenue.

SAILOR'S CHANT BECOMES DIRGE

Armed Landlubbers Shake Down Jolly Salt for His Bank Roll

"Yo Ho and a bottle of rum" blithely warbled Edward Romus, sailor on shore leave from the steamship Everett, as he walked across the intersection of Ord and New High streets early yesterday morning.

"Yo Ho and your pocketbook," growled two footpads as they thrust the muzzle of an automatic pistol under the second rib of the young salt. Romus told the police the hold-up men took $75 from him, but did not take the bottle of rum. Romus was advised by the police that the next time he gets shore leave he should not sing so loudly.

CLUB MEN SEE DIZZY ALTITUDE

Los Angeles Party Scales Kaiser Pass on Vacation Jaunt of Four Days

"We're having the time of our lives," was the message received in Los Angeles yesterday from J. F. Ford, president of the Los Angeles Transportation Club. Sixty-nine members of the club are spending a four-day vacation at Huntington Lake.

Yesterday the party went over Kaiser Pass, at an altitude of 10,000 feet, visited various construction camps on the west side of the range and traveled to the valley in which the Southern California Edison Company is preparing to build a large impounding dam. The party will visit the Fresno fair today and return to Los Angeles tomorrow. The personnel of the party is as follows:

Aged Dentist to be Buried This Morning

Funeral services for Dr. Joseph Blackburn Monfort of 515 South Van Ness avenue who died Saturday after a year's illness will be conducted this morning from the Peck and Chase chapel, 1213 South Figueroa. Dr. Monfort has resided in this city for the past seven years.

He was born in Macomb, Ill., sixty-five years ago and moved to Iowa in his early youth where he became a member of the first class of the College of Dentistry of the University of Iowa. Later Dr. Monfort was president of the Iowa State Dental Society and a member of the Dental Board of Examiners of that State.

He was a life member of the California State Dental Board and an elder at the Wilshire Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Monfort leaves his widow and three daughters, Josephine and Jean Monfort, and Mrs. Ralph Sperry.

Shoots Wife, Tries to Kill Self in Jail

Diving head-first ten feet from an upper bunk to the concrete floor of his cell in the City Jail, John Cargano, who shot and probably fatally wounded his wife Saturday afternoon, last night tried to beat out his brains in a suicide attempt, according to jail attendants, who restrained the man.

Remorse over the shooting is believed to have caused the man's attempt to take his own life. Mrs. Carlotte Cargano, his wife, was shot three times by her husband, while hanging up clothes at the Cargano home at 660½ Lamar street. She is dying at the California Hospital. Jealousy on the part of the husband is said to have led to the shooting.

BROTHER TOM TO PRESENT RECITAL

Assisted by his daughter, Miss Mary E. Liddecoat, and many musicians and singers, T. H. W. Liddecoat, founder of the Midnight Mission, will conduct a religious and social service this evening in a tent at Florence and Compton avenues.

The musical numbers will include the following: Selections by the Orpheus Club; soprano solo by Miss M. E. Dunker; violin solo, Carl E. Hatch; duet, Misses Mattie and Louise Scherer; cornet solo, Irving Ulmer; solo, Miss Ruth Clayton; duet, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Benton; solo, Miss Mary Liddecoat.

PLAINTIFF PENALIZED BY COURT

Man Who Sued for Damages for Ejection from Dance Hall Must Pay Costs

The right of the proprietor of a dance hall to maintain order by ejecting a man whose conduct was questionable, if not disorderly, has been upheld by the Superior Court here, where J. Cyrus Gould, a patron of a local dance pavilion, was penalized for building suit against Fred H. Solomon Gould started action for $10,000 damages, and in a decision rendered by Judge Burnell he was assessed court costs. The attorney who filed the papers apologized to the court for being therules of the place.

Gould brought his suit, and in a hearing before Judge Burnell, related the circumstances surrounding his ejection. The court did not here the defense. After Mr. Could's witnesses had completed their testimony the court criticised the man for bringing the suit and ordered him to bear the entire costs in the action. He then complimented Mr. Solomon on his determination to maintain good order on the dance floor.

Schooner Wins Furious Fight With Tempest

Forty-one days out of Balboa, the four-masted auxiliary schooner Moonlite reached Los Angeles Harbor yesterday after one of the roughest passages from the Canal in the history of Coast shipping. Gales with mountainous seas in which the craft was forced to run before the wind with all canvas in, mixed with days of drifting becalmed in tropic seas with the engine disabled, were part of the misfortune struck by the big windjammer as she beat back and forth across the lanes in an effort to reach port.

"The whole trip was one continual round of storms and days of lying becalmed, while the sun beat down on us like a red ball of fire," declared Second Officer C. Peterson, "but on the night of August 31 we ran into a storm we felt sure would send us down."

The Moonlite, on her first trip to this Coast under the flag of the Admiral Line, is in command of Capt. Roy J. Healy and brought 4000 tons of shells, steel, paper and canned goods for this port from Gulf points.

Friends Fete Couple Wedded Half Century

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hotelling celebrated their golden wedding yesterday at their home 1366 West Forty-fifth street. A dinner was prepared by their two daughters, Mrs. Stewart of Los Vegas, N. M., and Miss Sara Hotelling of this city. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bristol of Maywood and Mrs. A. H. Inman and family of Los Angeles.

Mr. Hotelling is 76 years of age and Mrs. Hotelling 71, but both are as spry and active as can be. They were married fifty years ago at Waupun, Wis. Many telegrams of congratulations were received and the house was overflowing with yellow roses and chrysanthemums.

VESSEL NINE MONTHS COMING FROM LONDON

CONVERTED SUBMARINE CHASER CRIPPLED BY BURNED-OUT BOILERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 24.—Nine months out from England, the converted submarine chaser Hopkins Brothers arrived here today, bringing the story of the long-winded trip from the British Isles.

The Hopkins Brothers started from England for Vancouver, B. C., last December. Between London and the Azores the boilers burned out and the ship was forced to signal for assistance.

Obtaining aid from a passing ship, the Hopkins Brothers arrived at the Azores at the end of a tow rope. A call was sent to England for new boilers and artisans to install them. In due time the boilers and machinists arrived and the Hopkins Brothers got a new set of steam producers.

Another engine-room crew was engaged and the trip was continued. Stops were made at Christobal, Balboa and Acapulco and the ship put in at San Diego for coal. While its bunkers are not exhausted, it was decided to obtain sufficient coal here to make the trip to Vancouver without another stop.

PLAN ENTERTAINMENT FOR WAR VETERANS

Two hundred veterans of the World War will be entertained tomorrow at a picnic in Santa Monica Canyon by the Queen's Daughters, an organization co-operating with the Bureau of Catholic Charities. All the necessary good things, such as chicken, pies, candy, ice cream and cigarettes, have been donated and will be served to the ex-soldier guests by the ladies of the Queen's Daughters.

The entertainment committee, of which Mrs. George Neville Warwick is chairman, has provided music by a minstrel company, and two boxing bouts. A big grab bag will hold many pleasant surprises in the shape of gifts for the service men.

NAVAL BOARD COMING HERE

Harbor's Future as Base for Fleet Issue

Visit to Decide Question on Submarines

Stress Laid on Expansion in Coast Yards

The future development of Los Angeles Harbor as the home base of the Pacific Fleet and as a submarine center depends largely on the result of a visit here soon by Rear-Admiral Hugh Rodman, former commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet, and a new Navy yard board, composed of seven other officers high in Navy Department bureaus.

A thorough investigation of every shore establishment of the Navy will be made by the board, according to an official announcement, but special attention will be devoted to Los Angeles Harbor and Mare Island. The board is composed of:

BOARD MEMBERS

Commander Ralph M. Griswold, secretary to the board material division, office of naval operations.

Navy officers here declare it to be indicative that special stress will be laid upon Pacific Coast yards expansion in the fact that all four line officers on the board have recently come from the Pacific Fleet.

OFFICERS' RECORDS

Admiral Rodman went to the Hampton Roads base from command of the Pacific Fleet; Capt. Pratt was formerly commander of the dreadnaught New York; Capt. Willard commanded the then fleet flagship New Mexico, while Commander Griswold was formerly executive officer of the dreadnaught Arizona. An excerpt from the Navy Department order on the new board is of interest to Pacific Coast naval and commercial circles:

"It was announced at the Navy Department today that by direction of the President a board of naval officers is to be appointed by the Secretary of the Navy for the purpose of making an investigation of all shore establishments of the Navy, with a view to determining what changes, if any, should be recommended to Congress in the interest of efficiency and economy.

"There will be no immediate discontinuance of any major shore stations."

Fog Holds Up Many Craft in Local Harbor

The heaviest fog experienced by the port in years yesterday held up the arrival of twenty offshore and coastwise craft during the day and delayed the departure of nearly as many more vessels for foreign and east coast ports. Foghorns, whistles and fog-bells of the Pacific Fleet dreadnaughts, at anchor, kept the outer harbor in a jumble of sounds until after nightfall.

Among the vessels which did make port during the day were the Pacific Mail passenger liner Venezuela, with more than fifty passengers for Los Angeles from New York and Central America; the giant freighter K. I. Luckenbach, bringing 3500 tons of Los Angeles freight from Boston and New York; the tank steamers Hamer, Frank G. Drum and Los Angeles; the passenger liners Humboldt, Ruth Alexander, Wahkeena and Admiral Farragut; and five lumber steamers.

The arrival of the motorship Moonlite this morning, forty-three days out of Balboa for this port, is being awaited with interest by shipping men. The craft is making the longest voyage from the Canal in the history of the Coast for a power-driven craft. Admiral Line officials, operators of the craft, declare that no alarm is being felt for her safety.

STEAMSHIP BRINGS HUGE CRAFT ON DECK

NINETY-FOOT CRUISER BROUGHT FROM SEATTLE ON BOARD FOREST KING

Roy McLean's power cruiser, the Sea Bee, of Seattle, was yesterday unloaded from the steamer Forest King at the local plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation. The sixty-ton craft was lowered into the water with the aid of the yard's 100-ton capacity shear legs, and is the largest craft ever to be brought into this port on the deck of a vessel.

Ninety feet in length, the palatial craft is powered with 150-horsepower engines that drive her at a cruising speed of twelve knots. The Seattle sportsman will use the Sea Bee this winter in extensive cruises along the Southern California and Mexican West coasts.

NOTABLE MINE DISPUTE ENDS

United Eastern Wins Long Fought Case

Arizona High Court Rules on Law of Apex

Tom Reed Suit Involved Rich Ore Bed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 23.—The law of the apex works only in a downward direction and in the course of practically continuous mineralization of vein matter, without regard to geological slips that may have broken the continuity in past geologic periods.

This is the decision of the Supreme Court of Arizona, reviewing and sustaining a decision of the Superior Court of Mohave county, which found for the defendant in a suit of the Tom Reed Mines Company against the United Eastern Mining company, both of Oatman, Ariz.

The latter in 1915, at several hundred feet of depth, cut a fine vein of gold ore in the Big Jim claim, this having an underground apex at the Big Jim fault. Keen interest in the find was manifested by the Tom Reed company, whose Grey Eagle claim lay alongside and wherein the Grey Eagle vein had faulted at 600 feet depth, dipping toward the Big Jim. The new Big Jim vein was found identical in character and with the same dip, but with its apex several hundred feet above and 430 feet distant from the end of the Grey Eagle vein, which terminated when it struck the Mallery fault which lies parallel to the Big Jim fault, nearly at right angles with the dip of the veins.

With the intention of claiming and working what men claimed as a vein extension, the Tom Reed ran a crosscut into Big Jim ground. United Eastern countered by running an upraise that cut the Tom Reed workings, which then were barricaded on the division line. The dispute then went to the courts, with understanding that the ore involved was worth between $2,500,000 and twice that sum.

The decision was written by Justice Flannigan and concurred in by Justices Ross and McAlister. Attorneys for the winning side were John P. Gray Coeur d'Alene, R. L. Alderman of Los Angeles and C. W. Herndon of Kingman, with Wm. B. Colby of San Francisco and L. L. Wallace of Kingman for appellant.

Tests for water shut-off this week numbered thirty-seven, the same number as during the previous week. Yearly total to date 1217; total to same date last year 1127.

Deepening or redrilling jobs this week numbered fourteen, as compared with six during the preceding week. Total to date this year 679; total to same date last year 544.

Abandonments this week numbered five, as compared with two during the preceding week. Total to date this year 199; to tal to came date last year 158.

REFINING COMPANY TO ENLARGE PLANT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORT ARTHUR (Tex.) Sept. 23.—As a result of the recent decision of the courts confirming the Gulf Refining Company's rights to the patent of the aluminum Chlorid process of separating gasoline from crude oil, that company will greatly enlarge its mammoth refining plant here, according to George H. Tabor of Pittsburg, vice-president of the company.

MINE HEAD WANTS RATE TO HARBOR

Arizona Man Aiding in Fight to Give Santa Fe Outlet at San Pedro

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JEROME (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—James S. Douglas, president of the United Verde Extension company, unintentionally has entered the fight to give the Santa Fe an outlet at San Pedro. For months he has been trying to get a rate of $4 a ton on export copper bullion from Clarkdale to Los Angeles Harbor and, refused, he has taken the matter before the Interstate Commerce commission. He has asked support from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

The expected absorption of the Hull Copper company's interests by the Clarks is indicated by a number of deeds this week filed with the recorder of Yavapai county, conveying from the company to Louis S. Cates a score of local claims, including the noted Cleopatra, on which most of the Hull development has been done. In turn Mr. Cates has transferred all save three claims to the United Verde Copper company.

The Hull company practically was sold to the Clarks several years ago by George W. Hull, now deceased, then owner of a majority of the stock and holder of a large judgment against the company for funds alleged advanced by him for development work.

George Mitchell, reinstated as general manager of the Jerome Superior, is settling legal details in Los Angeles and will return soon to resume work on the property.

Green Monster stockholders will meet October 7, in Jerome to consider consolidation with the Verde Consolidated Mines and Tunnel company, as proposed by James M. Layman. One of the largest Green Monster stockholders is Will L. Clark, former general manager of the United Verde Copper company. Layman was the original owner of the Green Monster ground.

A notable deposit of schist sampling above 4 per cent has been found on the 660 level of the Verde Central. A strong flow of water has been also developed.

VERDE MINE INSTALS NEW CYANIDE PLANT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PRESCOTT, Sept. 16.—A 100-ton cyanide plant is being installed by the Verde Inspiration Copper Company at its property in the Cherry district, south of Jerome, according to W. W. Lipesba, general manager of the company. Other equipment is to be installed and plans for the development of the property include the extension of the shaft to the 600-foot level.

MORE WELLS ARE STARTED

Overproduction Has Little Effect on New Holes

Long Beach Field Leads in Additional Ventures

Notices for Week Almost Reach High Record

Overproduction and subnormal consumption of oil in California and the recent reduction in the price of crude oil at the well do not appear to have curtailed drilling activity in the new fields of Los Angeles and Orange counties. During the week ending August 5, 1922, forty-eight notices to drill new wells were filed with State Oil and Gas Supervisor R. E. Collom, as compared with thirty-three during the previous week.

This is the largest number of notices filed during any week in 1922 and is only one less than the largest number of notices filed in any week in 1921. During the week ending April 9, 1921, forty-nine notices were filed, fourteen of which, however, were for wells in the shallow Conejo field in Ventura county.

LONG BEACH FIELD

Of the forty-eight notices filed during the week ending August 5, 1922, twenty-two were for new wells in the Long Beach field, eight in the Huntington Beach field, seven in the Santa Fe Springs field, and three in Los Angeles county outside of the proved fields. Of the remaining eight notices, six were for wells in the Midway, Elk Hills and Sunset fields, in Kern county, one in the Ventura field, Ventura county, and one in Mendocino county. Only sixteen of the notices were filed by the larger operating companies.

The total new wells this year is 839, as compared with 886 the same date last year.

Tests for water shut-offs this week numbered twenty-nine as compared with thirty-five during the previous week. Yearly total to date 1021; total to same date last year 961.

REDRILLING JOBS

Deepening or redrilling jobs this week numbered thirteen, the same number as during the preceding week. Total to date this year 516; total to same date last year 482.

Abandonments this week numbered six, as compared with five the preceding week. Total to date this year 171; total to same late last year 137.

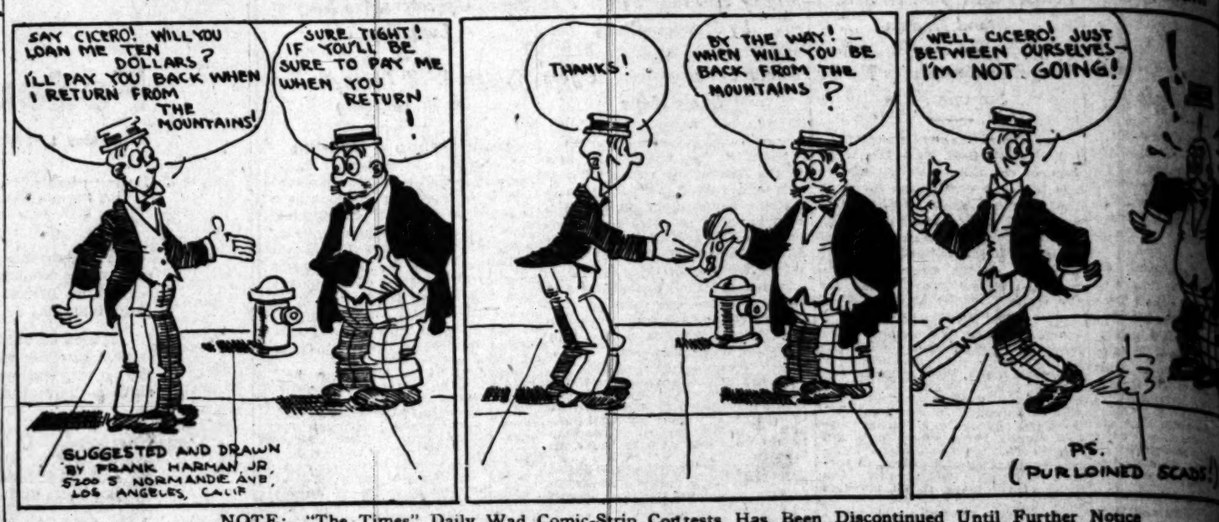
TIGHT MAY BE OLD-FASHIONED—BUT HIS BUSINESS METHODS ARE MODERN



NOTE: "The Times" Daily Wad Comic-Strip Contests Has Been Discontinued Until Further Notice

The Wad family, whose daily adventures in Los Angeles have amused Times readers for the past year, during which time more than $1500 has been paid by The prizes for available ideas for the Wads strip, demands a vacation. Its members point to the fact that more things of a strenuous nature have happened twelvemonth than to any other family in Los Angeles and they insist upon a rest. Watt and Elva are going East to college, and Gunn has to go to school says. Mr. Wad is taking Mrs. Wad and the baby to Honolulu, and Tight says he will go along if Mr. Wad pays his way, not otherwise. For these reasons the have been discontinued for the present. The prize-winning ideas submitted during the last week and possibly a few others will appear in this space.
